DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Strive to bring what happiness you can to others. Strive harder to bring to them no unhappiness.

Be friendly, but not common; don't dull your palm by effusively shaking hands with every chance newcomer.

There are but few men who realize that the things they do today have some effect on tomorrow.

What some men throw away as useless others grasp as their best means of success. Each man will do well to perform the tasks for which nature and training have fitted him.

It is reported that the committee appointed by the town to consider the school needs of the northern section of Highland avenue favor the erection of a new school house. A possible location has been selected, it is reported at the corner of Prince and Highland avenues, the former street being cut to a dead end half way between Highland avenue and Washington street. It was expected that the committee would find such a school necessary without question, and its selection of a site appears to be satisfactory. It will be welcome news to residents of the Highland avenue to know that favorable action is being urged.

Few thoughtful people would be willing to leave God out of their lives; no matter how they might interpret Him. Some years ago a close friend told the story of the sinking of the Titanic. It was a tragic story culminated in his father's death as the boat went down and his own subsequent rescue from the water. One of the strange parts to the story was his description of the scene in the Sprinkling room. A scene of carefreeness of contentment, of happy-go-lucky friendships, of a certain amount of badness and goodness. Then came the order to abandon ship and the inevitable panic. A thoughtless, self-centered, self-assured group of men suddenly confronted with a crisis which threatened their very existence. As the inevitableness of the moment dawned on them, there was not a man, good, bad or indifferent, who did not pray at that breathless moment to His Creator.

We have seen the same sort of scenes during the last war. A when men were stripped of their superficialities and their pretensions. When they were faced suddenly with inevitable death. Next came the crisis, the crisis, cursing God, or ignoring God. No, not even the scoffers.

Few thoughtful persons would leave God out of their lives in the last analysis. The difficulty is that they are not willing to put Him into their lives as a vital, constant principle.

POLICE INTERFERE TO SPOIL SALE

There are tricks in all trades. A time-worn expression, yet one which seemingly applies as well today as when originated. And one of those very tricks might have been played in Winchester yesterday, had it not been for the watchfulness of Manager Harry Wellington of the Winchester Buick Company, and the co-operation of the Winchester Police.

It seems that Tom H. Harris, a salesman in the employ of a large company of Boston had a very second hand automobile of a popular make of which it was his business to dispose. The machine in question had been taken by the firm he represented in trade, and had proved more or less of a white elephant on their hands. They put a price on the machine and told Harris to go to it.

Mr. Harris betthought himself and arrived at the conclusion that an excellent way to dispose of the machine at a profit would be to turn it in on a trade for a car of some other make, and then sell the new machine. In that way he figured to clean up not only the amount which the Boston company wanted, but also an additional sum which would prove acceptable to himself. This striking example of high finance had been planned out before, and unfortunately for Harris the Winchester Buick Company happened to be a concern which was familiar with its workings.

So when Harris changed the dealer's number plates belonging to the company which were on the car he wished to dispose of and substituted his own registration plates he should have picked out a different house to do business with. But he didn't, and when he offered to trade in his car for a Buick Manager Wellington smelled a rat, and notified the Winchester Police. Sgt. William Rogers and officer James Farrell took a run down to the Buick Company's show-rooms on Main street and escorted Harris to the local station house where he told his story with charming frankness. After a warning to pick some other town as a future field for his operations he was allowed to depart, the Winchester officials turning the case over to Registrar of Motor Vehicles Goodwin.

WINCHESTER GIRLS START HOME SEASON TODAY

The Winchester High School Girls' Field Hockey team has been hard at work this week in preparation for their first home game of the season with the Woburn High School girls this afternoon on Manchester field at 3 p. m. As this is the first league game for the local team, it is bound to try hard for a win in order that it may get away to a good start in the league standing.

The hockey team is facing the season with few veteran players. Only three of last year's eleven are available this year including Captain Lucile Skilling at right wing, Katharine Carls on the other wing and Janet Goddard playing center half back. This makes it necessary to develop practically a new team from given material and a consequent lack of team work is bound to result until the players get used to playing their positions and teaming with each other.

This lack of team work was very noticeable in the Stoneham game last week and the girls have been working hard since last Saturday to develop a passing game and an adequate defense under their new coach, Mr. Wheeler.

The team has been also lacking in material out for the team this year and before the season is over a winning combination may be turned out but the progress at first will of necessity be slow. It is expected that a good crowd will be on hand this afternoon to witness the game with Woburn in Field Hockey is gaining in popularity with each season, its constant action appealing alike to both player and onlooker.

The Winchester team will take the field this afternoon as follows:

Center Forward M. Taffs
Right Wing A. McKenzie Left Wing L. Skilling Left Inside W. Sumner
Right Half Back K. Carls
Left Half Back J. Goddard
Right Full Back K. Shultz
Left Full Back F. Hayes Goal D. Bond
Goalkeeper G. Bond
Substitutes are: D. Westworth, E. Bourne, S. Brooks, R. Bauder, K. Nelson, D. Brown and Cecile de Coriolis.

WINCHESTER PLAYS LEXINGTON TOMORROW

The Winchester High School football team journeys to Lexington tomorrow afternoon for their second game of the season to be played with the Lexington High School eleven on their ground starting at 3 p. m.

The local boys have been working hard this week after their losing battle with Stoneham last Saturday and had hoped to make a much better showing against the strong Lexington team which last week held Woburn to a scoreless tie.

As things stand now Winchester will be greatly handicapped tomorrow, having been announced that neither Hegel, the big guard, nor Halwartz, who made such a good showing at fall-bark against Stoneham, will be available for the game. Halwartz is nursing a badly wrenched ankle received in practice Wednesday afternoon, while Hegel is in trouble with the school office, and probably will not be allowed to play. The loss of these two men will greatly hurt the boys' chances against Lexington which has pretty much a veteran team. Halwartz has the back to show much of any carrying ability last week, and he was being counted on to do some good ground gaining tomorrow. Of course there is a possibility that he may be able to play, but Coach Roberts is not at all optimistic, and should it prove advisable to use him, the kid would be playing under a severe handicap. The loss of Hegel in the line hurts as he is a veteran, and the heaviest man on the entire squad. If he is definitely out of it, the rushline will be considerably weakened.

The tentative lineup as announced today is the same as last week excepting that Walker will play in Hegel's place and a new fullback will have to be dug up, if Halwartz is unable to start. It includes: center: Melley; guards, Walker and Johnson; tackles, Capt. Cassidy and Dabney; ends, Robinson and O'Donnell; quarterback, Bond; halfbacks, Bond and Harriman; fullback, Halwartz.

THE ABRAMS VERDICT

To the Editor of the Star:
The following from the Sept. 18th number of the Boston Medical and Surgical Journal explains itself:

The Abrams Verdict
"The publication in the September 'Scientific American' of the final report of the committee appointed to investigate the claims of those who employ the electronic reactions of Abrams settles, once for all, the value of those alleged reactions. The committee, composed of scientists of standing, stated this question in part for more than a year. Their conclusion, that the electronic reactions of Abrams do not exist, and that the therapeutic effects of the oscilloclast are nil, may be accepted as authoritative. It is to be hoped that the press of the country will give wide publicity to this verdict, so that the thousands of deluded victims of this most ingenious fraud may know the worthlessness of E. E. Abrams."

There is no excuse, now, for the State Board of Registration in Medicine to permit this form of quackery to be practised within their jurisdiction. Armed with the decision of the investigating committee, they can carry such cases to court with every expectation that their action will be sustained. It is a disgraceful fact, that within ten miles of Boston, one of the practitioners of electronic medicine advertises in the public press a free clinic twice a week. Determined action against the most prominent of these practitioners would rapidly disorganize the remainder, and electronic medicine would soon take its rightful place among the great medical fakes of history."

Build Nests in Cactus

Birds of New Mexico build their nests in the spiny branches of the cactus, where their eggs are safe from the many animal thieves who are not brave enough to encounter the needle-like spines even for a delicious meal.

CALUMET BOWLING TOURNAMENT

With the exception of the work of team 1, which pulled a fine game, the Monday session at the Calumet Club was low. Even on the team had a lot of fun fighting for the points, which in most instances were settled by a close margin. The closest score was at the third string in the DAILY PHILOSOPHY

This world is always bustling, happy, and fresh, keen in love with your family and the green earth, and all will go well.

There will always be something a bit more for all of us to do if no more than to fight the wrongs.

Do not harbor any toward other people, but rejoice that tomorrow however diverse, is to one great end—it makes life richer and fuller.

One star does not ask another to either adore or amuse it. Nature does not trouble itself about what the rest of nature is doing be self-contained.

OUR DUTY

By practically a unanimous vote, passed at our last Town Meeting, the report of the War Memorial Committee was accepted by the Town, and they were instructed to proceed with the work as outlined and presented by them.

After the matter was thoroughly discussed at this and also several previous meetings, it was voted that the money for the erection of the Memorial should be raised by subscription rather than by taxation; the idea being that everybody should have a chance to participate—men, women and children.

The sculptor is at work on the Memorial and it is progressing in a most satisfactory manner. A committee is now being organized to canvass the town and solicit donations.
This will be done in the near future.

LET US MAKE THEIR WORK EASY, PAY OUR DEBT AND KEEP OUR PROMISE.

THE TIME FOR DISCUS-SION AS TO THE TYPE OF MEMORIAL HAS PASSED—THE TIME FOR ACTION HAS NOW ARRIVED.

This should not be considered as a "new drive," for it is not.
It is something that has been before us since the close of the War.

When the Committee calls upon you, greet them with a smile, contribute as liberally as possible and let us make it
"short and snappy" and be happy in the thought that we have done our duty.

Expressive Phrase

The phrase, "Aye, nyo, sir," is a heritage handed down from English-speaking mariners of past centuries.
There is no other phrase that honors so wholly and completely to the navy and to the sea. By saying, "Aye, nyo, sir," when receiving the command of a superior, you express not only courtesy but you also made it known that you understand your duty.—Detroit News.

Thought and Work

Great thoughts follow any labor. Today I earned 75 cents leaving manure out of a pen, and made a good bargain out of it. If the ditcher mused the while how he may use spade and the ditching spade and turf knife may be engraved on the coat of arms of his posterity.—Thoreau.

Down to Fine Points

Tungsten filaments used in electric light bulbs and radio vacuum tubes are coils of almost invisible wire only one-thousandth of an inch thick, wound on a core of steel or brass only four one-thousandths of an inch thick.—Popular Science Monthly.

General Failing

"Everybody," said Uncle Eben, "feels de need of all de money he kin get himself. An' at de same time everybody thinks most everybody else has more money dan he ought to require."—

A Lost Art

The Guide—Look at that half ruined castle—it must be at least eight hundred years old. "Believe me, lady, they don't build such ancient castles these days!"—From Pasquino, Turin.

CHIHIL: THE NEW ENGLAND OF CHINA

Chihli, northern zone of Chinese Sichuan, is described in the following bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society:

Chihli lies in the New England States of China—a region wherein the provinces of Chihli, Shansi and Shantung bear some striking analogies to our own northeastern States.
If one disregards Manchuria this likewise extends to contour as well as location. Chihli also has a frozen winter, sudden changes in temperature, numerous mountains and many short rivers.

A glance at a map will indicate a comparison of the Gulf of Chihli to Cape Cod Bay, with the Shantung peninsula serving as a large-scale Cape Cod. Chihli alone covers nearly twice the area of the New England States and its population is more than one-fourth that of the entire United States.

Exports: Fox Tails and Goat Beards.
Industrially Chihli is the Manchurian set of China; Tientsin is an upriver port where factories and shipping and power ways have found a firm foothold. This city sends a large bulk of goods direct to Europe and the United States. Its exports to the United States: furs, feathers, goats' beards, fox tails, beards, human hair, picnics and lanterns.

Western visitors are apt to interprete the modern aspects of Tientsin as an advance in civilization, but the Chinese of the interior, one must remember, regard these innovations as barbaric. Chihli combines the old and the new in startling fashion. Norwest-ern Tientsin is the venerable Peking. There one may board a railroad which has thrown seed in its along an ancient caravan route to the busy Kalgan, where the camels which used to make their tedious way into Peking, Mongolia, have been superseded, in part, by motor trucks.
To the east of Tientsin are the Peking cathedrals, the palaces, the gardens, the engineering, fairs and affairs of modern society. It is the rail route to the Great Wall, man's most outstanding mark on the earth's surface, which leads Chihli.

Dinosaurs Lure Autos

From Kalgan to Urga, the capital of inner Mongolia, is no farther than it is from Chicago to Cleveland, but it formerly took 40 days for camels or bullock carts to bring hides and wool along this route. The performance of an American Scientific expedition which used automobiles in hunting dinosaurs ends proved motor practically and now autos run on a four day schedule between the cities.

The first 12 miles out of Kalgan is the hardest part of the trip, passing through the rocky ravine known as Kalgan Pass. Suddenly the road emerges to the tableland at Harbat, and thence it heads through farming country for 50 miles and emerges into grazing lands which extend the rest of the way to Urga, except for a narrow stretch of waste gravel. This is an eastern spur of the misnamed Gobi desert. The so-called "desert" makes better traveling than the Chi-li roads where highways have been worn down a hundred feet or more in places, leaving earth known as "loess."
After a run these centuries-worn roads become rivers and the up the new roads are made for days.

Vast Sweep of Flood

A flood in Chihli which only stops to cause for rejoicing. Here floods are frequent and disastrous. It is difficult for the outsider to realize the extent and devastation of the high waters. In 1917 a flood inundated an area three times the size of Connecticut, between Pootungfa and Tientsin. The crop loss was estimated at $100,000,000; and the number of villages wiped out, amazing as the figure may sound, was 80,000.

The best farming country of Chihli lies in a strip running back about 100 miles from the coast. This eastern plain is densely populated; its soil is amazingly fertile, being the deposit of deltas of the numerous rivers that empty into Chihli Gulf. Grains, cotton, peanuts and fruits are grown and cattle are raised for their meat.

Chihli launched a fruitful educational campaign 20 years ago. The results are most apparent in the cities, especially in Tientsin. There, some years ago, a depot of maps and books was opened by the government, where school supplies are sold below publishers' prices.

Traffic Policemen Abound Tientsin makes its quickest and sharpest impression by its excellent police system. America is introducing the automobile to Chihli; but Tientsin outdoes America in traffic supervision. There is a traffic policeman on practically every corner where there is any traffic at all, and he carries his ray in trying to keep pedestrians, carts, jirikishas, autos and the new policemen out of a hopeless tangle. The police also are en-trained with sweeping, watering and lighting the streets and these duties are well performed.

The police is a combination of a jirikisha and a bicycle. The passenger rides in the two wheel carriage and the cook makes better time than he did walking.

Junks of Many Kinds

The most amazing variety of vehicle is to be found in the river which winds a serpentine course of 60 miles to the Tientsin port of Taku, only 25 miles away. There is a type of junk for every use—for passengers, for fish, for coal, for long hauls, for short hauls, for river trawlers. All these and many more have distinctive names.

"Coal is no new idea in Chihli, indeed, so it is especially abundant. Marco Polo found that all over the country of Cathay there is a kind of black stone existing in beds in the mountains, which the natives dig out and burn like firewood.

The province also is famous for the Changlu salt, produced near Tientsin. One bank of the Hai-ho, for miles given over to making salt, is dotted with mounds and windmills for pumping saline waters into the salt fields.

One of the surprises of Chihli is the way to pronounce it, which is not like a South American country of similar spelling but as if it were spelled "cheerilee."

Accept the Present

—Horace.

Monster Crabs

King crabs, found mostly off the Islands of Japan, measure from three feet to five feet from tip to tip of their great claws. The largest ever caught is recorded as having been nineteen feet from tip to tip.

Ancient Skyscrapers

Buildings seven stories high were

Early Swimming Tank

The earliest known English public swimming pool was advertised in Lon-

"waiters attend daily to teach or assist gentlemen in the said swimming bath if required."

Announcement

HAVING acquired the business of The Winchester Conservatories, formerly operated by Mr. C. B. Johnson, we wish to announce that we will continue it under the name of The Winchester Conservatories Inc.

The business will be under the able management of Mr. George Welsch, for many years associated with the Budlong Gardens of Chicago, the leading rose specialists of that section.

It will be our aim to supply both old and new customers with the choicest roses, carnations and other cut flowers in their season.

We will also carry a most complete line of seasonable flowering plants, ferns, rubber plants, etc.

Our assortment of fancy Willow-ware for fern dishes, flowering plants and window boxes will be very attractive.

To those who wish to beautify their grounds with Dutch Bulbs such as Daffodils, Narcissus, Hyacinths, single and double

YOUR Gas Man

YOU can make a house out of four walls and a ceiling, but it takes more than that to make a home.

There must be happy hearts, little children, perhaps, and furnishings and equipment that pleases the eye and give a sense of homelike comfort.

Homelike homes are generally well equipped homes, with the heart of the home—the kitchen—provided with modern appliances using gas service, the clean, efficient, reliable, economical fuel.

To use old, worn-out equipment—range, water heater, room heater, etc.—is to turn your back on economy. Old appliances waste gas. In addition, they are eye sores.

October is an ideal month to modernize your home. Don't overlook the kitchen. You are going to spend a good many hours in it this winter. Make sure that they will be pleasant ones.

LAUNDRY EMPLOYEE SUFFERS BREMIDOWN

Serious trouble was averted last Saturday morning by some clever work of the part of the Winchester Police who were called shortly after 10 o'clock to remove Albert M. Drew from the boiler room in the plant of the Winchester Laundry after he had threatened several of his fellow workers while suffering from a mental lapse, the result of a complete breakdown traceable to worry and lack of sleep.

Mr. Drew, who had been acting strangely for a day or so previous to his illness of Saturday morning appeared at the laundry on that day in an angry mood.

Employed as a stationary engineer he had become obsessed with the idea that his co-workers in the boiler room were conspiring in some way to injure the plant's boilers and lay the blame for the trouble at his door. Subsequent investigation disclosed the fact that the man had brooded over his supposed wrong, and this brooding coupled with a lack of sleep had averaged but two hours sleep in each 24 for some time.

He held responsible for his loss of mental balance and its subsequent developments.

Learned from the laundry authorities that he had absolutely refused to leave the boiler room until State inspectors had come and examined the boilers there, the police determined upon a simple strategy in the hopes of inducing Mr. Drew to leave the plant without violence.

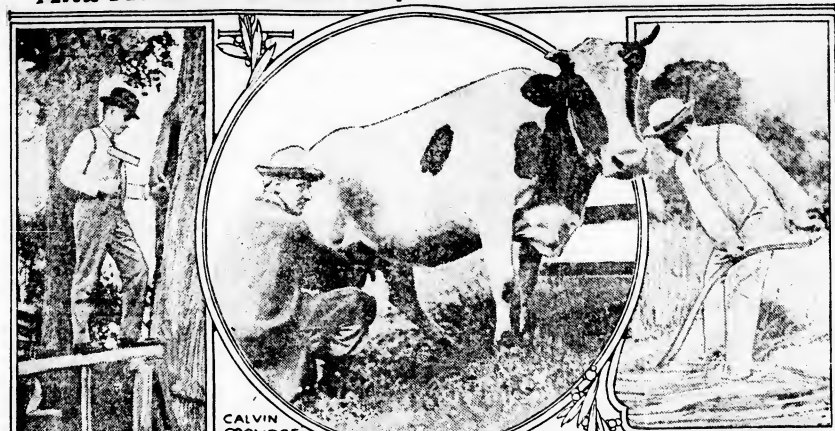

After talking with officers Reagan and Noonan went to the Laundry and Sgt. Cassidy who was in civilian clothes posed as a boiler inspector. After talking with the engineer and listening to the story of his troubles the sergeant induced Mr. Drew to accompany him to the State House on the pretext of taking the whole matter up with the State officials there.

Offering no resistance the engineer got into the big Studebaker of the Kelly & Hawes Company which was waiting outside the laundry and, accompanied by Sgt. Cassidy and Sgt. Rogers and officer Reagan was driven to the State Hospital at Danvers where his case was taken under observation.

It is thought that Mr. Drew's trouble is only temporary, and due in large measure to loss of sleep. He will be detained at the hospital for a time, but his complete recovery is looked for at an early date.

DISPERING A FAVORITE OLD TREE AT PLYMOUTH

Perennially, aspirants to public office, mindful of the farmer vote, convert to the cause of agriculture and the farmer and demand justice for the tillers of the soil.

To them there is no significance in the fact that they have been little concerned with this great division of the citizenry during the off-campaign season. The vote is the thing, and one may look from now until November for a veritable deluge of oratory and pious platitudes calculated to mislead the Man With the Hoe.

An exception to the rule is misbreeding.

CALVIN COOLIDGE
DID A LITTLE MILKING

Calvin Coolidge early took his place on the farm. Born in Plymouth, Vermont, twelve miles from the nearest railroad depot, he is the son of a dirt farmer and has experienced all the hardships, reverses and arduous labors that fall to the lot of the farmer boy. One biographer has said of him:

"While many of the boys of today are forever putting on the golf green, Cal was happy in pursuing to its native lair the sportive plover. He early and always has been an artist in moving and he early became an adept in divining the lowing herd, which winds slowly over the lea from the raw material which makes for butter and cheese."

He took the oath of office in the Coolidge farm house.

And, as the biographer has pointed out, the bovines of Plymouth, Vermont, have enjoyed a rare distinction. It is not every farm that can be milked by a President of the United States. It is not every farm that can be milked by a President of the United States at milking time and occupy a new United States that can milk a cow. President Coolidge not only did shade trees.

The same farm smock and boots he wore when the pictures were taken still repose in the hall closet of the old family home and await the pleasure. He knows how to wear them, and what is of more interest to his fellow farmers, what to do after he puts them on.

He has always adorned a hay rake with as much facility as a reveling stand, the afore-quoted biographer declares.

That would appear to make him eligible, at least, for consideration by the farmer.

highest office in the land. It was during a vacation on his father's farm that the photographer snapped him as he raked the new-mown hay, started for the cow pen at milking time and occupied a new United States that can milk a cow. President Coolidge not only did shade trees.

SPECIAL SERVICE AT CHURCH OF THE EPIPHANY

At the Church of the Epiphany, this town, Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock there will be a special service in the interest of the National Wide Campaign in the Episcopal Church at which the special speaker will be Rt. Rev. Irving Peake Johnson, D.D., bishop of the diocese of Colorado. There will be a preliminary conference to which neighboring Episcopal parishes have been invited.

Bishop Johnson, who is one of three Episcopal bishops who will be in the Massachusetts diocese this month, is described as a man of unusual personality, and this town is fortunate in having this opportunity of listening to so brilliant a speaker. He is a sort of militant churchman who is able to hold the attention of an audience from first to last. He has a plain, blunt way of presenting facts but always in a pleasing, convincing manner. Bishop Johnson is a native of Hudson, N. Y., and was educated at Union College, where he got his A. B. degree and from the General Theological Seminary which conferred on him the degree of D.D. He early turned his back on the East and with others organized the associate mission in South Omaha which is the packing house district of that city, and it was there that he gave the first five years of his service. He next went to Minneapolis, Minn., where he remained for 12 years. He was then called to the chair of ecclesiastical history at St. Mary's Divinity School, Fairbault, Minn., and he continued there until he was consecrated Bishop Coadjutor of Colorado in 1917 and became the diocesan on the death of Bishop Olmstead the following year.

SPECIAL SERVICE

At 7 o'clock on Sunday evening, Oct. 19, an interesting service will be held at the Second Congregational Church, to which all members of the community and friends of the church are cordially invited.

The service is in charge of the Building Committee, Mr. Frederick Buckmaster, chairman. Mr. Samuel Fisher, president of the Congregational Church Union is to be the speaker of the evening and there will be an enjoyable musical program.

A year ago a similar service was held at which building fund pledges payable during the year 1924 were made and the committee reports that most of these pledges have been faithfully paid. Altogether the results of the year's work have been most gratifying and encouraging to pastor and people. In order that the work may continue, opportunity will be given at this service to pledge money for the building fund, such pledges to be payable during the year 1925.

A report will be given showing the progress of the work which aims to give to the people of the Highlands an adequate and beautiful house of worship which will inspire the people of the community for the years to come.

Queer Villages

Tucked away in odd corners of Great Britain are some villages with peculiar names. In Kent we find Painter's Forest, Dripping Gore, and Old West Lees. The last place derived its strange name from the fact that old women of the district used to run an annual race there for prizes offered by the local lord of the manor. Dripping Gore was so called because the Danes and Saxons are believed to have fought a battle at this spot.

One Use For Swan

Mops of swan skin that still retain the down have been introduced as aids in cleaning statures.

ONLY TWO LAST WEEK-END

Last week-end proved one of the best from the standpoint of automobile mishaps that townsmen experienced for some time. Only two accidents were recorded, both taking place on Saturday afternoon, and both being of a minor character, resulting only in slight damage to a Ford racer which figured in one of the smash-ups.

The first of Saturday's two accidents occurred at 2:25 p. m. when Rufus H. Lovering of Woburn operating a stripped Ford racer collided with a machine operated by F. E. Skeetop of Yale street at the corner of Church and Willwood streets. Lovering was coming out of Willwood street onto Church and Mr. Skeetop was headed west along the same street. No one was injured, but the Ford racer was somewhat damaged.

An electric car and a one-ton truck figured in the second of the afternoon's mishaps which occurred at 5 o'clock on Forest street. According to Charles E. McCormell of Woburn his truck was standing on Forest street opposite the corner of Church and was bumped in the rear by an electric car which was going along Forest street toward the turn-out. Neither damage nor injury was reported. The car was in charge of conductor H. Rosenberg.

WHY FLYERS WAIT ON WEATHER

Day after day delay of Lieutenant Russell L. Maugham in making his dawn-to-dusk flight across the continent recalls the similar case of Orville Wright in 1908 when he made his first public flights at Fort Myer, Va.

Despite the presence of diplomats, public officials and other distinguished spectators Wright would come out of his tent, scan the sky, and announce he would not fly that day, much to the disappointment of the gallery.

Neither Wright nor Maugham were being temperamental; both courted success by taking into account the essential factor of weather conditions.

Macready's Experience

Just how necessary is such calculation is attested by Lieutenant John A. Macready, U. S. A., one of America's most daring aviators, and hero of a recent forced parachute drop by night. In his diary of the first non-stop flight across America, made with Lieutenant Oakley G. Kelly, published in the July National Geographic Magazine, Macready writes:

"The majority of people think that all we had to do to make the flight was to climb into the plane, start across, and trust to luck. But transcontinental non-stop flights and endurance records are primarily made on the ground. Success or failure depends largely on the work and preparation that is done before the plane takes the air."

Wind and weather must be studied and the nature of the flight arranged to benefit by these agencies.

Bad weather in the daytime would not bother. We would have started in a rain-storm, had the wind been right and the conditions as night favorable.

Dreaded Night Storms
We dreaded storm conditions over the mountains at night. No one had ever flown across country under these circumstances and we did not know whether or not a plane would be beaten to the ground.

We would take the best that we could get, but we hoped for a full moon, clear sky, and strong tail wind. A start would have been made in the dark of the moon, had all other conditions been ideal.

When the transcontinental flight was first contemplated, the prospective pilots conferred with the Chief of the Weather Bureau at Washington to ascertain what simultaneous weather conditions might be expected over such a large area, to receive information and data regarding the speed and direction of prevailing winds, and to get expert advice respecting the most logical starting point, whether from the east or west coast.

Weather maps over a period of years showed an average wind velocity from west to east during the month of October 22 miles per hour. Taking this fact into consideration, the chief forecaster, Major E. H. Bowie, recommended that the direction of flight be toward the east, even though the distance to be travelled was considerably greater.

After October 10 there was practically no moon. Had all weather conditions and winds been ideal, the pilots would have attempted the flight during this period of total darkness, as the cold of winter, long nights, and uncertain weather were hazardous.

All was in readiness to start on short notice; in fact, two starts were anticipated during this time, and the airplane was brought out at night to the end of the runway with the expectation of a take-off in the morning; but later weather reports were unfavorable and it did not appear good judgment to leave under such conditions.

Was A Trying Period

This period of waiting was a trying one. Few individuals enjoy good soft beds and good square meals more than Kelly and myself, but this was not the time to be loafing around San Diego, and we were getting desperate.

Every time we stepped into an elevator at our hotel some one would ask us when we intended to start.

It was all right for a week or so after the duration record, but later on, when the sun would be shining brightly in San Diego and Kelly and I would be making no apparent effort to go, we imagined that people would wink at their friends and say, "Those two birds know a good thing when they get it. They haven't any idea of trying to get across the continent. They'll spend a nice soft winter in San Diego and fly back by easy stages, when it's too late to make the non-stop."

They did not realize that at that minute there were rainstorms in the Middle West and in the mountains and high elevations that we would cross in darkness.

ASIR: THE LEAST KNOWN OF THE ALLIES

When France elects a new President or England reorganizes her cabinet the news is flashed around the world; Asir's dethronement of an Emir passes practically unnoticed.

Yet Asir is a country of a million people, it was associated with the Allies in the war, and it was playing its part in the ancient world when our European ancestors were dressing in skins and living in caves. So says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

One Sure Boundary

Where is Asir? The one certain statement on that point is that its western boundary is the Red Sea. It lies between the southern border of Hedjaz—wherever that border is—and the northern frontier of Yemen—wherever that is. Even more hazy is its eastern delimitation from Nedi.

Asir's vague boundaries comprise one of the least nomadic peoples of the Arabian peninsula. Its mountains make it as independent as little Montenegro once was; its fertile valleys offer every inducement for the roving Arab to settle here.

The "Hair Heretics"

There are Nomads in Asir, however, notably a tribe who, theologically, are fundamentalist Mohammedans and, from their appearance have been called the "hair heretics." They declined to recognize any prophet after the death of Ali, the Caliph's son-in-law. They let their heavy hair grow in huge, bushy masses, suggesting the fiery American girl's bob, because it throwing them from the blistering sun. This style of head-dress is not peculiar to Asir. It prevails among the Arabian desert nomads.

Yemen, to the south of Asir, is known because of Mocha, its one-time coffee center. Hedjaz, to the north, is widely advertised, if not known, because of its holy city, Mecca. No European had visited some of Asir's towns until the little district made common cause with the Allies in the war, because it threw them from the blistering sun. This style of head-dress is not peculiar to Asir. It prevails among the Arabian desert nomads.

Capital Is City of Huts

It was only recently that an official in India visited Asir's capital, Sabiyah, and gave the outside world the first description of this curious seat of government—a city of huts. These round huts are by no means squalid; they are circular, beehive structures, made of clay laid upon a palm leaf base. A recent Emir decided to build a more distinctive executive mansion, so he chose mud brick and had erected a three-story palace. A few wealthy merchants copied this innovation.

The coast of Asir is a lowland zone 20 or 30 feet wide, and the outside world knows little of the mountains and valleys which are virtually unknown.

WINCHESTER SAVINGS BANK

Attractive Building to be Remodeled With Double Present Facilities

Work was commenced on Monday of this week remodeling the interior of the Winchester Savings Bank building on Mt. Vernon street. Greatly increased business has made an enlargement of the present quarters imperative, and the new plans now being carried out will give greatly increased accommodations for patrons and officers alike.

The plans now in process of construction provide for an enlargement of the banking room by throwing in to it the present directors' room, thus making the public space about twice its present size. The grill and counter will extend straight across the whole length of the building, giving several more wickets for depositors, a larger counter space, and placing an office for Treasurer William E. Priest in the rounded bay, opening directly into the foyer.

New floors of rubber tile are to be laid throughout the first floor, the woodwork is to be all refinished and the rooms redecorated, with new lighting fixtures and new heating system installed. A feature which will be greatly welcomed by both the bank officers and their customers will be a new storage vault, which is to be built in the basement.

It is expected that the alterations will occupy the next two months, and upon their completion the local bank will have quarters which will be comparable with any bank of its kind in this section. Meanwhile the business of the bank is being conducted as usual, arrangements having been made to perform the work without disturbing the present layout or service.

"SIX MONTHS OF THE RED CROSS"

During the first six months of 1924, the American Red Cross has been called upon to relieve more cases of community ruin than in any period of its history. There have been more fires, floods, earthquakes and tornadoes than usual which have for the moment utterly ruined the communities in which they have taken place. Outside aid and nursing have been imperatively needed by thousands of homeless people, many of whom have been attacked by disease.

The beauty of the Red Cross is that it has funds and facilities at its command and is able to step in immediately after the disaster. It is so organized that a telegram starts the mechanism working. Almost automatically money and nurses are available and help comes to the distressed community when it is needed. The country would never get along without its Red Cross and during these splendid exhibitions of efficiency, the Red Cross does not investigate. It acts immediately on authoritative news of trouble. It does its work and then steps out to make room for permanent local organizations.

A new mobile relief disaster unit with a complete administrative staff trained to take charge under emergency conditions was tried out this year, and it had wonderful success. The Red Cross did not confine its efforts to the United States, but sent relief to earthquake sufferers in Costa Rica, Ecuador and Colombia, and to famine sufferers in Albania.

Soon the Red Cross will come before the nation, and, incidentally, this city, to ask for that dollar which enables it to do its fine work. It is the best spontaneous and worthy charity in the country today, and it is just as well for all of us even now to remember its great achievements and to resolve to support it in November. The Red Cross is not a war institution, but a great instrument for peace in time of peace.—Gloucester Times.

WHY IS LAW ENFORCEMENT NECESSARY?

Under the present state law the manufacture and transportation of liquor are not illegal. This means that the 5000 local police are severely handicapped in the enforcement of the national law. There are at present only 21 Federal officers in the entire state. The law to be voted on would make the manufacture and transportation illegal and to resolve these 5000 officers to enforce effectively the Eighteenth Amendment.

Original Water Heater

The first water heater known dates back some two thousand years. This was the "caldron" of the Romans, a crude bronze kettle with a handle for swinging over an open fire. The "foetus" of an apparently later device, was a metal container into which hot stones were put to heat the water. The modern water heater. This seems to have been the best water heater the early Romans were able to devise.

Put Run on Smoking

Washington is the first state to place a ban on four-legged smokers in the forest reserves. It is claimed by the sponsors of this order that a majority of forest fires occurring in the wilderness are directly traceable to the careless smoker.

EMBLEM CLUB NOTES

In the list of articles drawn off on the different tables at the Elks' Carnival, the mirror on Mrs. Schell's table and the tray donated by George Harold to Mrs. Cullen's table were omitted. Mrs. Ed. McKenzie's sister, of Boston, drew the mirror and Mrs. Cushing won the tray. At this time the Emblem Club wishes to thank all who contributed, or helped in any way towards the success of this its first big undertaking.

Now that the Carnival is over everyone feels free to devote a little attention to affairs of the Club. And they certainly need all the care and attention we can give. Not a member can be spared and not a breath-taking pause can be taken, if we would promote the growth of our own little organization.

At the regular meeting of the Club last Friday night plans for fall activities were discussed. It was decided to hold a Rummage Sale and a committee of the whole was appointed by the president, Mrs. Davidson. Tentative plans include the dividing up of the general committee into groups to collect articles for the sale, the date and place of which will be announced definitely in next week's Star.

Preparations are underway for an initiation, to be held Friday evening, Oct. 17, in Lyceum Hall. Our own staff of officers will perform the work and as it is their first attempt to stage anything of the kind more or less unassisted is being felt. However, they are depending on the experience of the prospective lunch to hide any defects in the ritualistic program. The committee in charge of refreshments includes Mrs. Josephine Fowler, Mrs. Mary O'Neill, Mrs. Mabel Price, Mrs. Elsie Haligan, Mrs. Gertrude S. Horn, Mrs. Lilly McMullen and Mrs. Mary Mead.

Beginning in November, the regular meetings of the Club will be held on the second and fourth Wednesdays of the month.

TEACHERS WILL HEAR LURE OF EXPLORATION

Washington, D. C.—How our own continent is revealing to explorers a civilization more than twice as old and fully as complex as that of the Tinkham's period, and how American explorers have unlocked the secrets of glaciers, volcanoes, earthquakes and curious peoples was described to delegates of the National Education Association at a geographic conference this month.

One explorer, just back from Asia with an amazing story of ancient China's aboriginal tribes, brought pictures which showed these people engaged in the rites of a religion which Buddhism supplanted; and depicted his own adventures in traversing a river gorge twice as deep as the Colorado Canyon.

Blinded Chinese Bandits. This explorer was Joseph F. Rock, already widely known for locating the Chalmers tree which yields a leprosy-healing oil. Teachers were given the first showing of some of the remarkable pictures he took while leading a National Geographic Society Expedition through the untraversed and bandit-infested natural wonderland between Tibet and China.

First showing also was given of slides made from photographs taken by Frederick R. Wulsen, leader of a National Geographic Society Expedition in China's extremely wild northwest, where his party's conveyance ranged from camel caravans to yak-skin rafts.

The National Geographic Society's Expeditions which have sailed the seas, climbed mountain peaks, penetrated the frozen north and braved tropic jungles were reviewed by Ralph A. Graves, professor of Applied Geography, School of Foreign Service, Georgetown University.

One Expedition Built Railway. One Geographic Expedition now is delving further into the ruins of Chaco Canyon, where it built a miniature railroad to remove tons of rubbish. Therein it finds an occasional moment to piece together the fascinating story of this apartment community which thrived before Columbus came.

It is the Society's Expedition to Cuicuilco, south of Mexico City, which is uncovering the Pompeii of the western world—a giant mound which, centuries before Pompeii's time, was encased in time-defying lava and today is disclosing to the explorers emblems of a people who lived there probably 7000 years ago.

The speaker began with slides of the National Geographic Society's first expedition—that to Mt. St. Elias, Alaska, which first named the piedmont glaciers and gave an account of Alaskan mirages—mirages which only recently helped bring disaster to Major Martin on the Army's flight around the world.

Picnic Peak Slays Thousands

He told the story of the Society's study of Martinique, where a favorite picnic spot exploded and annihilated a city of 30,000 people, and destroyed 17 ships anchored in the St. Pierre harbor. One member of that expedition was Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar, now a world famous volcanologist, who then aroused skepticism by prophesying that it would be possible to predict eruptions in time to avoid such casualties. This prophecy was vindicated when the explosion of Sakurajima, Japan's greatest volcanic eruption, was definitely predicted and its ravages minimized.

The Society's volcanic studies reached their climax, the speaker said, when a series of expeditions were sent to Mt. Katmai, Alaska, and during the studies of that greatest active volcano in all the world the famous Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes was discovered. Motion pictures were shown of this "Scenic Coney Island" which was estimated to be emitting more gases from the earth's interior than all the craters and all the fumaroles in all the world.

Another expedition to Alaska solved problems relating to the Ice Age and discovered traces of a Jamanian flora, showing that Alaska once had a tropical climate.

Where the Potato Originated

Other expeditions described and pictured included the Wellman Polar Expedition, that of Peary which planted the Stars and Stripes and the Geographic flag at the North Pole, that which studied the effects of the Messina earthquake and gave an impetus to seismological science, and that which uncovered the marvels of Machu Picchu, Peru. There Inca city-farmers cultivated highly specialized vegetable crops, gossiped beside beautiful mountains, fashioned intricate trinkets for their gods and their women, and gave to the world two major crops, Indian corn and the potato.

"And all this was happening on our continent," the speaker said, "while our European ancestors lived by the chase and dressed in skins."

Another Geographic Expedition now in the field is that at Carlsbad, N. M., where the Society sent geologists to traverse the greatest of North America's caverns. The startling magnificence of its subterranean wonders was depicted and many beautiful slides shown.

National Cathedral A Tenth Done; Masterpiece Of Gothic Architecture

RISING on Mt. St. Alban, 400 feet above Washington, D. C., the National Cathedral will dominate the skyline of the capital when it is completed five years hence. It is now one-tenth completed. Workmen are shown at work on the vaulting of the choir aisles. Farther down are sculptors working on the carving for this monument, in which Woodrow Wilson lies buried.

Different forms of cathedral architecture developed out of the problem of how to support a stone roof. Romanesque architects solved it by massive walls. Gothic master builders distributed the loads by intersecting ribs in the vaulting so they were supported primarily by flying buttresses outside the walls. This allows a maximum number of windows. When the first Gothic churches were built, the buttresses were covered over. When the beauty of their lines and towers were appreciated, craftsmen labored lovingly to make them perfect in every detail and to symbolize growth and life. The National Cathedral is expected to be one of the most beautiful pieces of Gothic architecture in the world and will also rank among the largest.

A new innovation is being tried out this year in the bowling tournament at the Calumet Club. According to new regulations, if a member of a team is absent at a match, an outsider is allowed to fill his place, the new man rolling on his own rating and his score counting in the team's total for the match. This applies of course to the single match and not the balance of the schedule. No one man is allowed to thus fill in on any one team more than twice during the season. This ruling affords bowlers a chance to roll outside their regularly scheduled games, and as the ratings are based on actual figures and new ratings are given after the 6th and 12th matches, the figures are kept very close to actual performance.

The Winchester police were instrumental in returning to his home in Maine a 15-year-old boy who had been listed as missing for a week.

The boy, Alfred Vire by name had wandered away from his parents' home in Biddeford, Me., and the news had been brought to police everywhere to be on the lookout. Last Friday the Winchester department ran across information which led them to believe that the wanted boy was in Arlington working on a truck farm.

The Arlington police were notified, and the boy was located by two men in Arlington. He was taken to the Arlington police station and held pending the arrival of his father to take him back home.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union is celebrating its 50th anniversary. It will lead in a March of Allegiance in every capital and many of the large cities of the country where the need is greatest. There will be a March of Allegiance in Boston, Saturday afternoon, Oct. 25. It is hoped that a hundred women from Winchester will join this splendid group to pledge their allegiance to the Constitution. For particulars, call Mrs. George H. Hamilton, Win. 273-M.

Rocking Chair Sinners

Church women have been called "rocking chair sinners." We would change this to "rocking chair sinners," for the woman who fails to do her bit to suppress the criminal wave in this country is herself responsible for that crime. Drunken motorists who crush the life out of little children; bootleggers and rum-runners are the associates in crime of Christian people who refuse to take the trouble to change conditions. We may have a clean country if we will, at little cost. God will not hold us guiltless if we do not even record our vote for righteous men who will change conditions of lawlessness.

Is Prohibition an issue? Evidently the women think so.

ENDS PHYSICAL TESTS FOR CHICAGO PUPILS

No Right to Make "Stripped Examinations," It Is Held

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Physical examination of public school pupils by health department physicians, other than a passing search for contagious disease symptoms, has been ordered discontinued by William McAndrew, superintendent of schools. The ruling ends a practice of 16 years' standing and affects 500,000 children.

The action was taken after school board attorneys held that the 50 physicians and 120 school nurses had no right to bare a child's chest to test heart and lungs, which they held to be a "stripped examination."

REGIONAL CONFERENCE MID-DLESEX LEAGUES

Members of the League of Women Voters are urged to attend the Regional Conference at the Colonial Club, 20 Quincy street, Cambridge, Oct. 22. Business session is at 11 a. m. Buffet luncheon will be served at 1 p. m. and in the afternoon the members of the conference will visit Craigie House at the invitation of Miss Alice Longfellow. At the evening session candidates for Governor, Senator and Congressman will speak on the issues of the political campaign.

The Lowell Navy Club is arranging for a water racquet on Navy Day, Oct. 26, on the Merrimack River near the Vesper Club. The Winchester Boat Club has been invited to participate and will in all probability send two fours up.

WOBURN ASSOCIATION OF CONGREGATIONAL CHURCHES

The 75th anniversary meeting of the Woburn Association of Congregational Churches will be held this month, taking place on Tuesday, the 28th, in the First Congregational Church, Woburn.

There will be sessions during the afternoon and evening, the earlier opening at 2 o'clock, and that in the evening at 7:15. Mr. Arthur W. Hale will act as moderator and the Rev. John E. Whitley of the Second Congregational Church is scribe of the association.

During the afternoon session, the Rev. S. Winchester Andriane is a speaker under the subject of "Other Days." Rev. D. Augustine Newton of Reading, a former pastor here, also speaking on the same subject. Rev. Howard J. Chidley will act as the toastmaster at the annual supper, which occurs at 6 o'clock.

ELKS MEET OCT. 21

The next regular meeting of Winchester Lodge of Elks will be held on Tuesday evening, Oct. 21, at 8 p. m. at Lyceum Hall. This will be an important meeting, with considerable business and a number of applications for consideration. A class of candidates will also be initiated.

A testimonial banquet is to be tendered the ladies who worked so earnestly and faithfully to make the recent carnival a success. The date is Wednesday evening, Oct. 23, and the affair is to be held in Lyceum Hall. This will be the event of the season.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Announcement was made recently of the appointment of Fletcher Barnard of this town as manager of the varsity swimming team at Boston University.

Miss Annette E. Mason, daughter of Mrs. L. T. Mason of Lloyd Street, is playing one of the defense positions on the varsity hockey team at Wheaton College.

Don't forget the O. E. S. Fair, Town Hall, Saturday, Oct. 18.

Each week the police are receiving reports of children about the town being bitten by dogs, several complaints having been made this week. It would seem prudent for parents to warn the little folks of the dangers of playing promiscuously with strange animals.

The fire department was called out last Saturday afternoon to extinguish a street light on the N. V. Parkway which had exploded. The damage was slight and was confined to the lamp.

Mary complaints were heard last Saturday afternoon on Manchester Field about people parking their automobiles on the sidewalks of the playground. As a result of the inconvenience caused those about and trying to see the game it is dangerous to have the machines so near the field of play.

It is not beyond the bounds of possibility for a player to be thrown into them and receive serious injury. Automobiles should be confined to the space between the running track and the railroad. They should not be utilized as grandstands.

O. E. S. Fair, Saturday Oct. 18, afternoon and evening, Town Hall, Dancing 9-12.

Mr. Frank McAlone of Bellows Falls, Vt., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Farrow of Washington street. Mrs. Dorothy Lord of the Star office spent the holiday motoring in Vermont.

PLAYING GOOD GAME AT NORWICH UNIVERSITY

Two local boys, Roger Sherman of Everett avenue and William Rowe of the Parkway, have been showing up well with the varsity football team at Norwich University in Northfield, Vt. Though this is their first year at the military college, they have been playing with the regular eleven since the beginning of the season.

Sherman is the captain's regular quarterback, a job which he won through his all-around ability as a field general. His running and work with forward passes has been a feature of the Norwich games played thus far. Rowe plays right end where he has been getting in some good work.

THE USUAL TWO FOR SUNDAY

Last Sunday was marred by two automobile accidents, but as has been the rule lately in Winchester, no one was injured and the damage reported slight.

The first occurred at 10:45 in the morning when two cars owned and operated by Nicholas Janacchi of Woburn and Leo Ross of Winter street, this town collided on Swanton street at the corner of Cedar street. Both cars were slightly damaged but the occupants were unhurt.

At 3:10 p. m. Lawrence Mitchell operating an Oldsmobile sedan north on Beacon street collided with a Ford coupe operated by Herbert J. McKim of Sumerville at the intersection of the street with the Mystic Valley Parkway. The Ford was turning out of the Parkway at the time of the collision and was slightly damaged. No one was reported injured.

Mrs. Joseph A. Scott reported to the police that some time during the night of Oct. 11, the inner tube was stolen from the spare on the rear of her automobile.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

On one thing we can all rely, the greatness of the human soul.

The human spirit can triumph over almost any difficulties—as the flowers do that blossom through the Alpine snow.

Sometimes life is so unsatisfying we think we should like to be rid of it, when the fact is we are only longing for more life.

Edison said of "genius," that it was composed of two parts inspiration and 98 parts perspiration. So is happiness two parts circumstances and 98 parts attitude.

FAMILY AT CHURCH SUNDAY

Only recently the Churches of Winchester observed "Family-at-Church Sunday" and there are some interesting considerations connected with that observance. The family has been the heart of the history of the development of the human race. Thousands of years ago, in the nebulous past out of which the human race evolved, there was no such thing as "family." Man fought man, brother brother, and son fought father. Society as we know it did not exist. But gradually from this chaotic state the family with its close human ties and relationships became a fact. From the family evolved the tribe, and from the tribe the nation, as we have it today.

The family, however, remained the essential unit which the tribe and the nation were made of. Today the family is still the fundamental basis for the nation. No nation can survive when the family ties, relationships, ideals, are violated or antagonized.

So it will pay us to consider more thoughtfully the problem of the family in the life of today. Family life in our day is indeed a problem. More and more it is becoming the practice to let our children be brought up by other than the parents. From the kindergarten, to the school, the summer camps and the college, our boys and girls are being sent. Less and less are the parents coming into contact with their families. Even the old relationship of parents and children are being trodden down. And then we wonder because the growing boys and girls of today are so different; so disrespectful, so disobedient, so critical and independent.

We wish there might be a closer relationship between parents and children than is now the fashion. That parents might realize that no home can be happy, no family life be maintained, unless the five ideals and traditions of the family which have stood the test of hundreds of years are maintained by all the members of the family. Unless it is realized that there is a spiritual basis and background for family life.

QUEEN PHOTOGRAPHED IN BED

Marie of Yugoslavia Has Pictures Taken While Her Infant Son.

British women are deeply interested in the publication in all illustrated papers of pictures of the young queen of Yugoslavia lying in bed with her infant son, the heir to the throne. This is the first time that a monarch's consort has been photographed in bed, and it is also the first time that a queen has been photographed with her hair flowing loose over the shoulders, and also the first time a king has been shown sitting at the royal bedside holding a baby in his arms.

Queen Marie, a beautiful young brunette, is seen wearing a nightgown adorned with a costly lace necktie. She is also pictured with the magnificent pearl necklace as she lies in a plain brass bedstead with the infant crown prince followed in her left arm.

Another photograph represents the king's grandmother, the queen of Rumania, fondling and kissing the Balkan prince.

What appeals particularly to society leaders here is that while stage beauties invariably are tastefully made-up when subjected to the camera, in bed or out, the queen of Yugoslavia consented to admit the photographer before her maid had even brushed her hair.—Robert J. Trew, in a London dispatch to the Chicago Herald and Examiner.

Deciphering Charred Documents.

In most detective stories incriminating papers are destroyed by being burned and the baffled detective or other interested person is therefore unable to learn their contents. But a method has now been discovered of reading the writing that was on a document. The charred paper is placed in contact with a fast or medium plate for a week or two in the dark and the plate then developed as usual. There appears to be an emanation that affects the plate except where the charred ink acts as a protective coating. It is curious that films need a much longer contact than plates, and that sometimes the effect is reversed unless the film is previously washed and dried.

Lady Book Agents.

Tradition tells us that the 83rd brought to Tarquin nine books of prophecy. These she offered him at a price which he refused to pay. She then burned the books and offered the remaining six for the same price. Again he refused and again she burned three books, offering the remaining three for the original price. Then he accepted.

"It's that way with lady book agents," declared Uncle Pennywise upon hearing this story. "Some have one scheme and some have another, but they always sell the books."

Suggestions

OCTOBER and November are the months for setting out bulbs for spring flowering. We have a large and carefully selected stock of Crocus, Hyacinths, single and double early Tulips, Darwin Tulips, Daffodils and Narcissus at substantial savings over Boston prices. If you wish we will plan and plant beds of these beautiful flowering bulbs for you at reasonable rates.

Right now, for indoor decoration, we have a very fine lot of fancy table ferns, which we can supply in plain pottery or in beautiful Willowcraft of various shapes and sizes, richly stained or finished in exquisite two tone effects; or, if you want us to fill your own fern dish we will be pleased to serve you.

Our Begonias, Primulas, Rubber plants and large specimen ferns are especially good this fall and are sure to please you.

And always we can promptly fill your order for Roses, Chrysanthemums, Carnations, and other flowers freshly cut from our growing houses.

We can serve you well with artistic designs and decorations for all occasions.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE'S ADDRESS

Following is the major portion of the address delivered at the opening session of the Fourth Annual National Red Cross Convention Monday morning, Oct. 6.

The annual meeting of the American Red Cross is an occasion for taking account of the national progress in ways of benevolence, charity and organized social effort. No matter how highly we may estimate the many other agencies to promote the common good, we realize that the Red Cross is a sort of meeting point for all kinds of effort to relieve distress and advance the general welfare. The Red Cross . . . sees humanity as a whole, into all of which may come elements which bring suffering, pestilence, misfortune in any of its myriad forms. Its sole purpose is to relieve these.

It has a definite, comprehensive and intensely practical program of helping those who need help, when they need it, and where they need it. It is about the only organization I have known that does any good by "looking for trouble."

Everybody is the friend of the Red Cross because it does not insist on any controversies. We have not all been able to agree on how to rid society of poverty; but we can agree with the Red Cross in helping the poor. We hope that civilization will learn how to outlaw war; but till then the Red Cross will be ready to alleviate the sufferings of war in every possible way. And we will all be glad to help in that work of mercy.

The American Red Cross is proof that materialism is not the dominant motive of the people of the United States. I doubt if there is another country in which so great an amount of unselfish effort is put forth for social and civic betterment.

To this unquenchable altruism of our people, the American Red Cross has added the practical and efficient method of expression. By aiding to bring ideals its practical efficiency it makes a double appeal. "Common sense" has become almost a national term. It describes a national way of thinking.

When we consider aiding our fellow-man, our common sense tells us to look for the right method of liberating our generosity. We want to be sure that our enthusiasm takes a practical form, and that the helping hand to all and not merely to some. So we have the Red Cross, to capitalize and direct the finest, the most appealing attribute of our human nature—charity.

Chartered by Congress to relieve and prevent suffering "at home and abroad, in war and in peace," the Red Cross has become part of our national life. Responding with splendid devotion to the suffering of the greatest of wars, it goes with us in times of peace, of peace I fervently hope, not to be broken. Its mission now is not so trying, but its scope is broad and will broaden with the years.

The Red Cross idea will develop as mankind develops. The ideals underlying civilization are the ideals of brotherly love, of tolerance, of kindness, of charity. Any departure from these is a reversion to a lower nature, to barbarism and darkness. The beauty of life lies in meeting whatever destiny awaits us, trusting one another, helping one another.

It is the same thing which I saw when I said that we keep only what we give. Perhaps it has been said, in different forms, by many. But whoever first expressed that great truth of life had thought long and deeply; he knew life. He knew the temporary, transient nature of material things. He knew the long and the light.

A spiritual impulse of this kind is struggling for outlet in every human heart. It needs only some form of practical expression that can do no better medium than the Red Cross. For in its many services there never exists the danger of helping the undeserving, or making the weak weaker. It does not pauperize. But it does give prompt and adequate help during the emergency period to those afflicted by circumstances which are beyond the will of the individual has no control.

One of the greatest needs confronting civilization is the need of practical idealism, sensitive to duty, alert and ready to make the sacrifice necessary to relieve suffering and pave the way to a return of normal and happier things.

It is hard to avoid the temptation to speculate on the possible services our humane and charitable agencies, if they did not have to bear any of the burdens that are imposed by war. In a truly civilized world where the codes of armistice, of poisons, of fortifications, were not required to be borne; where neither the spiritual nor the physical suffering which war involves could be used to promote, not to destroy happiness—in such a world that mighty works could be accomplished under the leadership of the Red Cross spirit! Poverty, ignorance, prejudice and all uncharitableness might be completely relieved and remedied.

A very great part of the need for such organizations as the Red Cross would be ended before the world could realize it. It is toward such an ideal that the race is now yearning and striving. It is making progress. The thought of riding society of the very institution of war has seized powerfully on the minds of men. We shall not get it done by some magic formula in some inspired moment. But it is going to be done because men and women more and more demand it. We are making more progress in this direction than we yet fully realize.

But meantime the practical works for relief and succor must go on in the old ways. To these the Red Cross is devoted. Its work expands from year to year. Without the waste of war, it is yet able constantly to broaden its usefulness. Of the willingness of the American people to stand behind the Red Cross, there can be no longer any doubt. The spirit of sacrifice can never be demobilized. I can think of no other single medium better able to translate into results our deep regard for the interests for humanity. It is with genuine satisfaction, therefore, that I welcome you here to this convention and act as your presiding officer.

From its inception the Red Cross has made history in the annals of humanitarian ideals. Our country is proud of its record. Its realization is one of the ideals of our forefathers. It represents the truly American way of organized efficiency, practical humanity and inspired charity. It is a strong support of the Government, a reliable guarantee of the continuing progress of civilization. It shows the ways to a more complete realization of truth and justice through mercy.

LETTER FROM MISS SMILEY

The following letter from Miss Carolyn Smiley, read recently at the Missionary Convention, is printed herewith for the benefit of our readers who are interested in her and her missionary work in India:

Satara, India
Aug. 15, 1924

Dear Friends: For seven years I have longed to work in Satara, and now I am actually here. Moving out here is not like moving in America where you call the expressman right to your door. Instead a servant must run to the bazaar to bring a bullock cart on to which your things are rudely loaded. The boy sits on the top of the load and off they go to the station, the driver using the bullock's tail as reins. Soon it is your turn to go and off you go with 15 or 20 small articles such as shoes, umbrellas, water bottles, bedding rolls and lunch boxes. Count them first and Heaven help you take care of them! At the station a regular onslaught of coolies greets you, two of whom you deem to choose and your things are soon deposited on the platform. Sit right in the midst of them for they need protection. When the train comes in, there is such a mad rush that you wonder whether your things will join each other in the same compartment. There are always several changes to be made on these railroads so you get plenty of exercise standing on your head in an effort to make sure no small parcel is hiding under the seat. And always the same thing happens. The coolies who jabber unmercifully if you under pay them and pester you to pieces if you give them too much. But we are stopped over at a station in Poona to stop it took us two nights and a day to arrive at Satara road where we had loaded all my things and ourselves into a truck for the 10-mile trip to Satara. When I saw all my belongings piled up safely on the front veranda of the hotel at 3 in the morning, I breathed a big sigh, tumbled into bed and stayed there for three days with a bad cold. But I was here in Satara at last so I rested in peace.

My two co-workers are Miss Nugent who has seen 34 years of missionary service in India, and Miss Picken, a very close friend of mine. Soon Rev. and Mrs. McNamee of Vadala, are coming here to live, for Satara has needed an ordained man and his wife for years. Yes, we are awfully happy here.

What is my work? At present I am assisting Miss Nugent who is very tired. She will go home on furlough next spring and then I will do all her work. This consists of a large station boarding school of boys and girls up to high school age. Also, we have two hostels, one for boys and one for girls, and a day school for the poor. There are two small babies, one three months old, the other a year old but you would never think so. She has been an orphan since birth, her arms and legs are actually not much thicker than my fingers.

In the city, we have a large day school for the children of the children from the Dhor caste, the tanners. You would know it the minute you enter the school. But then "My little Johnny ain't no rose, don't smell him, learn him." Right here I am going to tell you about my visit to the Dhor section of the city. I must know the parents if I want the children to come to school. My missionary associates had jokingly warned me the smells and sights that would greet me there but I sallied forth just the same. Two women teachers went with me. News travels like wildfire here so when I reached even the outskirts of the Dhor community, several of the parents were on hand to greet me and my reception was like a hot iron. At first I thought "this isn't bad at all" but I walked on and on between the mud huts filled with drying hides and big wooden tubs filled with filthy water. I began to feel a little sea-sick and longed for my bottle of D'au de Cologne. I wanted to hold my nose and run but how could I with so many parents on my trail and many more beckoning to me to come to call on them and sit down for a social chat amid the hides and tubs. I told them I was there just to say "Salaam" and to call the children to school. Calling the children to school means waiting at one hut while the mother slicks down the girl's hair with half a bottle of hair oil; at another to see a naked child properly draped in a sari and at yet another house to wait while a young scamp gets a good scolding for playing truant. In the midst of my wanderings what was my amazement to hear a friendly voice call out in English, "I help you every day, Baisahib, by sending the children to school." All this came from a pleasant looking man who had formerly attended the Dhor school. Soon several other men and women came forward to say the same thing and really there was an improvement in them over those who had never gone anywhere. More children came to school now because of that visit. They will stay (especially the girls) until they reach the third grade, then off they will go to get married. A marriage is such a grand occasion for noise and fun, why not marry your girl when she is eight or nine? And they do. Here ended the first chapter on my life in India.

Wednesday evenings at 6 and 6:30 come my Sunday School preparation classes with the teachers, Junior and Primary. The latter class has to be taught in Marathi. Good practice for me for having to teach in a language means you can't help learning it. "Hear, I want pictures, big and little, illustrating the old and new testament stories; all the postcards (suitable ones) you can find, little motto cards and pictures for prizes. Now, ladies and gentlemen, please avoid waiting for each other. Send along what you have and wait. Old cards, not suitable, on the outside of the package.

Lillian and I have already called on most of the Christian families. The community is small. I always roam over the places they have to live in. The pastor and one or two families live in decent homes because Miss Nugent and Lillian have had the houses built. The rest of the people have to live in dark two-room mud huts with leaky roofs. One of our greatest needs in the mission today is good housing for our families. They cannot afford to build a house on a salary of $10 a month. The Hindus would never dream of renting to the Christians if they could help it, so what are our people to do? It is a blessing to know our families want bright, clean homes.

We can't begin to touch the work among the non-Christian women, hungry souls that they are. How they love to hear the beautiful Christian poems sung and we love to sing them. Their faces grow so serious and their eyes so eager and dreamy. It is awfully hard to refuse to go to all the homes where the women are calling to us from doors and windows. But one's voice can only stand so much. Little do we realize how rich we are in our Christian faith until we really see those who have it not!

Just a word more about Satara. We think it is the most beautiful station in the mission. The city nestles down at the foot of a very high hill on the top of which is a very imposing old fort. From the hill you can look for miles and miles over fertile plains gowned in gorgeous green to beautiful green hills beyond by rich Maharastra. The people are high-caste and very proud and self-respecting. Many are seeking the truth. I will try to write more often now. I would like to hear from you. What would I like to hear from you? Most cordially yours,

Carolyn D. Smiley

MUSIC GARDEN MEET

The first fall meeting of the Music Garden was held at the home of Mrs. Lucius Johnson, 1033 Broadway, Tuesday evening and a pleasing program was rendered. Special mention should be made of the violin playing by the talented young artist Miss Gertrude Felber and of the singing of Miss Myra Smith. We should be proud to number so many young devotees to music in our midst. The following program was given:

The World is Waiting for the Sunrise . . . Selby
Ella Johnson, soprano
Macaulay . . . Mr. Macaulay, Mac Macaulay
Lands of O'z . . . Mr. Macaulay, Mac Macaulay
Romance from 2nd Concerto . . . Wieniawski
Gertrude Felber, violin
Old Refrain . . . Mr. Macaulay, Mac Macaulay Hear Ye, Israel . . . Mr. Macaulay, Mac Macaulay
Tarentelle . . . Miss Myra Smith, soprano
Where My Caravan Went . . . Mr. Macaulay, Mac Macaulay
Irish Folk . . . Mr. Macaulay, Mac Macaulay
Charmante Marguerite . . . Foss
Where My Caravan Went . . . Foss
Serenade . . . Mr. Macaulay, Mac Macaulay
Miss Smith, soprano and Miss Felber, violin
Love's a Merchant . . . Foss
Lullaby . . . Ella Johnson, soprano
Lullaby . . . Ella Johnson, soprano
Moto Perpetuo . . . Foss, Frank Briles
Miss Felber, violin

ANOTHER ON POND STREET

A Chevrolet, a Ford and a two ton truck figured in a smashup on Pond street last Saturday afternoon shortly after two o'clock.

John W. Cassidy of Mishawum road, Woburn, was driving his Chevrolet coupe west along Pond street and started to pass a Stegman two ton truck owned and operated by Stanley Stefanski of Member street, Woburn which was ahead of him and going in the same direction. As he swung out he collided with a Ford sedan headed east on Pond street which was owned and operated by John H. McCarthy of Vining street, Woburn. In passing, Cassidy's machine sideswiped the truck and became wedged between it and the Ford sedan. Both pleasure cars were damaged but the truck was not hurt. None of the operators were injured.

MISS GARRETT'S NATURE WALKS

The five Saturday morning nature walks with Miss Garrett, for children from 9 to 13 years, begin Oct. 25. Any children of these ages are invited to join. The course is $7.50. Tel. Mrs. Henry Sawyer, Win. 0011. Entering children of the High School Girls on Social Ethics to be given by Miss Laura B. Garrett of New York on five Friday afternoons at the High School beginning Oct. 24. Tel. Mrs. H. Lowell, Win. 1124.

Must Pay the Collectors

The suburbane was ultimating his usual digress about his income tax. "What does the government do with all the money they collect from us?" "Unhappily," asked his wife. "Why, they pay it," said the suburbane. "They pay it to the collectors for collecting it."

Case of Adullam

Tradition places the cavern of Adullam to which David fled to escape from the persecution of King Achish. In the country of Judea, about six miles southeast of Bethlehem. It is capable of holding several thousand people. The year 1922 B. C. is given as the date of David's flight.

Opinion and Heresy

They that approve a private opinion, call it opinion; but they that mislike it, heresy; and yet heresy signifies no more than private opinion.—Thomas Hobbes.

Calderon's Busy Pen

Calderon, the celebrated Spanish dramatist and poet, was an indefatigable worker. He composed during his life 111 plays and 72 dramatical plays for the church. He enjoyed extraordinary popularity.

NEW LIGHT ON ANCIENT AMERICA

That the huge Carlsbad Cavern of New Mexico recently rediscovered, were known to the early inhabitants of America is proved by a skull and other human bones, fragments of matting, and wooden implements found by Dr. Willis T. Lee, leader of the National Geographic Society expedition which is exploring the caves. The material has just been examined by experts. They find the skull differs from that of a Pueblo Indian and resembles the skulls of the Cliff Dwellers. The bones were identified as those of a man and a woman.

The matting from the caves consists of well woven strips and has the appearance of being of Indian manufacture.

The specialists who examined the fragments point out that the occurrence of such material in the Caverns does not prove that they were inhabited, since it was customary, even with some nomadic peoples, to lay away the dead in caves. Such natural shelters also were used by early men as temporary camping places.

The National Geographic Society, through the expedition led by Dr. Lee, is mapping and photographing the caverns and seeking for entrances that will make them accessible to visitors. President Coolidge several months ago set aside the region containing the caves as the Carlsbad Caverns National Monument.

NEW X-RAY PLANT AT HOSPITAL

Gift of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Houghton

Through the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Houghton of Stoneham, the Winchester Hospital is the recipient of a complete X-Ray equipment. The apparatus is being installed by the Victor X-Ray Corporation and the work is nearly completed. Every modern improvement is incorporated in the equipment.

The new X-Ray department will be under the direction of Dr. Robert Vance of Winchester. Dr. Vance was recently a member of the X-Ray Staff of the Massachusetts General Hospital, and is now Roentgenologist to the Huntington Hospital, Harvard Medical School, Boston.

The addition of this modern department to the Hospital will make it possible to do all phases of X-ray work in that institution and it should be a source of convenience and

ANNUAL DINNER AND MEETING OF MEN'S CLUB OF THE FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Today the Men's Club of the First Congregational Church are receiving in the mail notices of the annual fall meeting and dinner on Tuesday evening, Nov. 4. After the dinner, which will be served by Group 4 of the Women's Guild, there will be a short business meeting with election of officers of the club for the coming year. Arrangements have been made for receiving during the evening the returns from the election by both Western Union and radio. The wives of members of the club and all other ladies of the church, who are interested in the election, are cordially invited to be present at 8 o'clock and participate in watching the count of votes come in from the several states. There will be music.

LADIES' FRIENDLY SOCIETY

Mr. Frederick J. Soule, Director of the Norfolk House Centre, will be speaker at the next meeting of the Ladies' Friendly Society on Tuesday, Oct. 28 at 12:15 p. m.

Norfolk House Centre was originally the South End Industrial School, but the name was changed because of confusion with the South End Settlement House. It is housed in the old Norfolk House, once a well known hotel, in John Eliot Square, Roxbury. Here the people of the community are allowed to come and carry on their natural activities.

All the money for maintaining this community center is raised by Unitarians, and the Unitarian Social Service Council, together with the Chestnut Hill Alliance, provides the money for the recreational work carried on during the summer.

The motto of Norfolk House Centre is "Better Homes and Better Citizenship."

There will be a business meeting at 11:30 a. m. and luncheon will be served at 1 o'clock.

Mrs. C. H. Watkins will play a group of three piano solos.

MORE WOMEN VOTERS THAN MEN

Winchester followed the steps of several other places this week when it listed more women voters than men at the close of the registration Wednesday night. We now have 2327 female and 2199 male voters, making our total voting strength 5526. Four years ago we had enrolled 4434 voters.

During the recent registration 383 new names were added, of which 142 were male and 241 female. With these additions and such deductions as have been necessary through death and removal, our total is now 5026. This is the first time the female registration has passed the male enrollment in Winchester.

WYMAN PIANO FUND NEARLY COMPLETE

The Wyman School has earned its new piano. A little over $300 was cleared by the recent rummage sale, bringing the total fund so near what will be required that the piano committee can proceed to buy now whenever they find the instrument desired. Appreciative thanks are extended by the Wyman Chapter of the Mother's Association to all who have so generously helped, both by contributions and by service.

DRIVE IS PROGRESSING

The Second Congregational Church of Winchester is still showing great progress in accumulating funds toward the new church building. In July several groups of ten people each, were started to work together during the summer months, earning and raising money by methods of their own planning. The first report of these groups was given on the first Wednesday in October and showed over $700 gathered by the groups in various ways. These groups will continue at work until the church is built.

Last Sunday night, Oct. 19, a campaign meeting was held for raising pledges payable during 1925 and $1100 was pledged. Mr. Samuel Lohr, president of the Congregational Church Union, was the speaker at this meeting and gave a fine address and spoke words of encouragement realizing the splendid work being done by the people of the Highlands Community. The church appreciates the loyalty of the Community in supporting this great work. Two very fine suppers have been held in the church during the fall season and the proceeds have swelled the new church building fund.

EXHIBITION OF PHOTOGRAPHS

Scenes in Surrey, Eng., at Winchester Public Library, Oct. 20 to Nov. 8. Loaned by Library Art Club

Surrey is a county of England, south of the Thames, about 39 by 26 miles extent. It is famed for the beauty of its scenery, having many hills and "downs" from which glorious views are to be obtained. London touches its northeast corner and is rapidly extending its suburbs, "so that almost all of Surrey which it does not already cover may be counted as its home-farm or pleasure grounds." Many charming country villages, with cottages and with ivied manor-houses, and cottages with timbered and gabled quaintness, thatched and time-stained.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

The club house will be closed for the season on Nov. 1, 1924. Members are advised not to leave any of their effects in lockers or boats, as rats and other insects, are liable to destroy pillows or anything of that sort.

It is expected that the following men will make the trip to Lowell on Oct. 26, to take part in the celebration of Navy Day: Alan Hovey, Phil Light, Bob Light, John Caldwell, Kenneth Pratt, Staff Rogers, Eddie Sanberz, Winthrop Palmer and Pete Redding.

MRS. SAMBORN ENTERTAINED

Mrs. Oren C. Samborn was at home on Tuesday, Oct. 21, to the committee of the Winchester booth for Uncle Sam's Market Place. The treasurer, Mrs. M. Alice Mason, reported that $1100 dollars was the amount contributed from the Winchester booth to the fund.

During the afternoon Congressman Charles Underhill spoke on the so-called "Child Labor" Amendment, and explained why the public should not vote for it.

Town was served, Mrs. Cutler B. Downer and Miss M. Alice Mason presiding at the table.

NEW AUTOMOBILE AGENCY

The well-known firm of Kimball & Earl announced this week that it will open a new automobile agency in town about the first of the month. The firm will handle the well-known Hudson and Essex cars. Its show room is to be located in the newly renovated building at 611 Main street, where a full line of the two cars will be shown. The service station will be maintained at 751 Main street, where this firm already has a large and well-equipped factory for all kinds of auto repairs.

K. T. LADIES' NIGHT

Hugh de Payens Commandery, K. T. of Melrose is making elaborate plans for its annual ladies' night and dance to be held in Memorial Hall, Melrose on Friday evening, Nov. 7.

"The Barber of Seville," a grand opera in English, will be sung by the Manhattan Opera Company of New York and the announcement insures one of the best musical treats ever heard in Greater Boston. Applications for tickets should be made at once to W. F. P. Moore, Melrose. A number of members of the commandery from town will attend with their ladies.

On the White Star liner Olympic, arriving at New York, Tuesday from Southampton and Cherbourg, was Edw. A. Carlele of 12 Mt. Pleasant street, Winchester.

Mr. George F. Purrington, son of G. W. Purrington of Cambridge street, leaves Wednesday, Oct. 23, for a prolonged trip through the South, stopping at Shreveport, La., for two weeks of duck and quail shooting. From there he will go to the West coast of Texas, buying wool on his own account. On his return to Boston he will open the Boston office of Purrington Bros., Summer street, dealing in wool and noils, besides handling consignments on commission. His younger brother, Ralph L. Purrington, will be affiliated with him.

Contrasts and Comparisons—Likeness and Difference

Oct. 20, 1924

To the Editor of the Star:—The following letter was written by Dr. William Orr, who was once a citizen of Winchester when he was a few years ago, from Saturday of Education for the State of Massachusetts. He is now representing Dr. John R. Mott in re-establishing the M. C. A. and enterprises in southeastern Europe.

This article, which he has asked me to place, is a fine comparison of the two Winchester and I shall think would interest your readers.

Yours truly,
H. A. Bridgman

William Ave., London,
July 3, 1924

It was our good fortune, on our way from Southampton to London, to be able to stop over, from Saturday till Monday, at the very close of June, in that delightful town, from which is derived the name of that other Winchester in Mystic Valley. Every school boy knows that the Latin word, "castrum," meaning camp, has become changed to Chester, and in the case of Winchester, the remains of ancient Roman fortifications. In Saxony times, this was the capital of Wessex, and was known as "Wintecaster." Its history, however, runs back to Celtic Britain, when it was "Eborac," the Roman name of the city. The Romans called it Eborac.

One reason for the great importance of Winchester in the island, is made clear today by the constant procession of automobiles, motorcycles and char-a-bancs that pass through its high streets. This is the focal point of the highways of the south of England and, toward it travel has converged from the dawn of human civilization. Here, one can see the remains of the Roman, the Saxon, the Norman, the French, the Dutch, the German, the American, and the modern.

There are other respects in which the two towns, 3000 miles apart, are alike. Each is situated in a valley, to the east and west of which the dwellings of men are creeping. Here one can see the park and the corresponding to Middlesex. Although the houses are, or formerly were, of the Hampshire Downs, away and the town of Winchester is a comparatively rapid current. For a part of its course, it flows through the fields of the town and the famous Winchester School. According to tradition, King William practised in these waters that sport, which has been celebrated in his classic, "The Complete Angler." It will be seen that there are some similarities between the Eborac and the Aberjona. By the way, "Aberjona" suggests a Celtic origin for this name. Here is a job for some local antiquarian, if such there be.

On the whole, it must be admitted that the differences between the old and the new Winchester are more than the resemblances. In the former, the materials used in building are almost, if not entirely, stone or brick. Much use is made of the flint in the native limestone, which, when set in hard mortar, defy all the attacks of the elements. But flint adds a pleasant touch to the appearance of the place, as seen from the summit of these hills to the east. The principal thoroughfare is known as High Street, and at one end of it stands the Cathedral, and at the other, Westgate; the latter with part of the old wall still remains and is one of the sights of the place. Looking from Westgate down the length of High Street one sees the statue of Alfred the Great, of heroic size, supported by a pedestal of the finest Cornish granite. This monument was erected in 1801, on the occasion of the 100th anniversary of the death of the Saxon monarch and patriot, whose remains lie in the near-by cathedral.

While High Street is given up to shops and inns, for the greater part, it has nothing of the appearance in its appearance. Trade in antiquities is one of the staple industries and the effect is like that of numbers of small museums, or art galleries. It is the case of the High Street, where it merges into the trunk road from London to Portsmouth and Southampton, there are many of the skills of the skill with which the small plot of ground, in front of the English cottage, is converted into a place of beauty with shrubs, flowers and neatly clipped box hedges. St. John's Hospital, which is really a row of dwellings, where homes are provided for elderly people, under an ancient endowment, has especially attractive gardens, so that one must congratulate these pensioners on their surroundings. Thus far, in England, the houses have been cold and wet, and the lawns and trees look exceptionally fresh and green.

A walk of only a few moments from High Street from which there is a passage under a quaint archway, connected with a structure known as the Norman Castle, and said to have been a residence of William the Conqueror, brings us to a fine avenue of overhanging trees, the main approach to the Cathedral. That this has been long devoted to worship is clear from the record, which says that an early Christian church was rebuilt in the year 233, and, before the introduction of Christianity, there were here temples to Apollo and Concord. Among the bishops of Saxony there occurs the name of St. Swithin (died 862), who built the first bridge across the River at Eastgate, and who is associated with the proverb as to the significance of rain on his day in the Saxon's Calendar.

The cathedral, itself, is somewhat disappointing when viewed from the outside, as the one tower is low, almost squat in appearance, while the building is so long as to seem out of proportion to its height. It has the longest nave of any church in England. Within are richly carved stalls, a beautiful altar piece and stained glass windows, in the roof, of notable excellence. There are many memorials of Saxon monarchs, for this was the place of station for the capital of Wessex in the sixth century. Such prestige had this city that, even after the Norman Conquest, kings were crowned and parliament met here. Then, as in every English church and in every English village, no matter how small, there are chests of brasses, in stone, and in magnificent volumes, called Rolls of Honor, the names of those, who have given their lives for the Empire and for country. While the Crimea and South Africa have taken heavy toll of the young manhood of Britain, all these and the names of the great warriors of the land and sea, may yield place to the terrible losses in conflict with Germany and the rallies from 1914 to 1918. Here, we realize the force of Kingling's lines:

"It must be the price of Admiralty,
That we should be so old and so old."
As it happened, when we entered the Cathedral, the service for soldiers was just drawing to a close. Winchester is a recruiting station and there is a barracks for 2000 men. Since Great Britain has reduced her active army to a total of less than 200,000 and as the number of soldiers has been increased, it is possible to secure a fine type of young men and the battalion in the Cathedral were way of the best thing that have been said of Tommy Atkins. Most of the soldiers bore the look of honest, sturdy country yeomen, the sort we fear from the days of Harold, the Saxon, and of Plantagenet and Tudor, have borne the brunt of England's wars.

South of the Cathedral and its grounds, are the buildings, and the closes and quadrangles of Winchester School, or College, established in the year 1043, and in 1329, by Bishop William of Wykeham, who is a splendid monument is one of the notable features of the church. This institution of learning is one of the leading public schools of England and ranks with Eton, Harrow and Rugby. On Friday and Saturday, we took place the annual cricket match between Eton and Winchester, in a table occasion, which brings to the School, fathers and mothers, sisters, cousins and aunts of the players. The stadium, and the small city were a decidedly gay appearance, something like that of a college town in America at the Commencement session. The match was played on a large open space, called Ridding Field, round which the friends and relatives of the players, with the school people, were seated on chairs and camp stools, and, outside of this favored circle stood, or strided back and forth, the general public. In the first innings, on Friday, Eton had scored over 400 runs to Winchester's 240, or so, and it was a foregone conclusion that the game was the victory. As, and here is a marked difference between the American and the English attitude toward athletic contests and match games, the interest was unaltered and each play, in note, was heartily applauded, not with the tumultuous cheers and college yells, to be heard at a Yale-Harvard baseball or football game but by nervous hand clapping. Then, at the stroke of half past four, although, as it afterwards appeared, there could only be 15 or 20 minutes of playing time, contestants and spectators went off to have their tea. After the game, or rather match, the school boys were busy showing their guests through the cloisters and buildings of the College. Occasionally, there could be seen a group of students, of long ago, carved deeply in the soft limestone of the battlements. It may be that the lad was a champion of the foot ball, or a dapper, dating back four or five, or even more, generations.

Despite new modes of travel by steam, motor and aeroplane, there hardly survives in Winchester town a place where there is found all the delightful hospitality and the rare quality of the English Inn, praised in prose and poetry. The very name Ye-Old-Hostel of God Begot—has an alluring sound. How old the building it would be hard to tell, but there are dates carved on the black and oak beams that carry one back to the 13th century. These verses, selected from many in the Guest Book, set forth the lure of this inn:

A narrow street, that's steep and long,
A city full of history,
An old castle, and old oak beams,
And panelled walls of mystery!

A place to visit many times!
For all of you there's plenty,
Who do not know the God Begot,
In Winchester's fair city.

Recent history has also added to the associations that make Winchester a place of interest to Americans. On the morning of our departure for London, we found, in a shop, a plaque with the arms of the city. As he did up the parcel, the shopkeeper, a cheery, friendly body, who suggested a change of subject, said, "We sold many of these souvenirs, during the War, to your American boys." And then he added with a chuckle, "You see, sir, they could not give any place on letters and post cards. So they would come in here and buy these arms of Winchester, and then they would go to let their people know where they were." He went on to tell how our soldiers were placed in rest camps on the hills, round about the city, and how they were and how everybody liked them.

One encampment was on the very hill, where the legions of Imperial Rome had their entrenched post, 1800 years ago, and where, in all probability, for centuries before, the Druids had a sacred grove and place of sacrifice. What a challenge to the imagination?

WEATHER RECORDS NEEDED

They Are Often Important in Settling Questions That Are Before the Courts.

Any extreme or unusual weather conditions which prevail at the time of some particular event tend to the circumstance more vividly in the memory than if ordinary conditions had prevailed. Very often the weather bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture is called on to provide information from its records of weather conditions at a given place on a given date. Such information may settle a question before the courts, establish a claim to an inheritance, or otherwise prove conclusively the date of some event involving important consequences. Recently it became necessary for a man to prove the date of his birth, which was under dispute. Family tradition claimed that "the year when New Year's day was very, very cold—the lowest temperature on record" for that district. The weather bureau was able immediately to furnish the date required as 1864, when in the Middle West there was an extraordinary cold wave spreading quite generally over Ohio, Illinois and nearby states, reaching 10 degrees below zero in Cincinnati and 15 degrees below zero in St. Louis, with corresponding low temperatures throughout the region.

CAMEL WENT TO HEAVEN

Mahomet's Beast Given Place for Going From Jerusalem to Mecca in Four Hours.

Mahomet's camel, according to tradition, performed the whole journey from Jerusalem to Mecca in four hours. For when the camel had its place in Heaven with Ahornik (the prophet's horse), Mahomet's ass, Tobias and Keturah (the dog of the seven sleepers), says the Detroit News. It is said the mosque of Kohn covers the very spot where the camel kept watch. Mahomet fled from Mecca. Mahomet considered the kneeling of the camel as a sign sent by God and remained at Kohn for four days.

In the Koran there is an expression similar to the one found in the Bible to the effect that "it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God." The Koran says: "The bourgeois shall not enter the gates of Heaven shut; nor shall he enter till a camel shall pass through the eye of a needle." In the rabbinical writings there is a slight variety: "Perhaps thou art the famous Pharisee who can make an elephant pass through the eye of a needle."

St. Louis Shift to Lacade.
Pierre Leclercq, founder of St. Louis nearly 100 years ago, like De Soto before him, died on the Mississippi river. He was buried on shore somewhere near the mouth of the Arkansas, but companions who went later to disinter his remains found that the river had washed them away, giving Lacade his last resting place in the body of water which had been so closely associated with his life, says the Detroit News.

Lacade, a native Bohemian, sold his eleven in the shadow of the Pyrenees to acquire the means to come to the New World. He went first to New Orleans, where he fought in the Colonial wars. Then he sailed up the Mississippi to find a location for a trading post, and coming upon this site, knew that his quest was finished.

A monument to Leclercq's memory was recently unveiled in St. Louis.

A Success Secret.
The secret of nature's success is patience. A naturalist may go out into the woods to study the habits. He may walk and walk and walk and walk and walk, but let him sit down on a log and wait, and let the buzzards be full of song. Those who pursue success never catch up with her. Success takes alarm at pursuit and avoids the stealthy pounce. "Seekest thou great things? Seek them not," but, "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness and all other things shall be added unto you!"—Nellie Ripley Harris in Savillia.

Better Than Lawyer.
A popular comedian was a witness in a suit for slander, and the opposing counsel said: "You are an actor, I believe?"

"Yes," replied the comedian.
"Is not that a low calling?"
"I don't know, but it's so much better than my father's that I am rather proud of it."

"What was your father's calling, may I ask?"
"He was a lawyer," said the comedian.

CAT TAUGHT TO SPARE BIRDS

Pet Has Been Instructed as to Right and Wrong by Patient Mistress.

Although cats in New York state are blamed for killing millions of birds annually, there is a cat in Monsey, near Suffern, Rockland county, that, according to her owner, has been taught not to harm birds. "When we moved into the country," said Mrs. Raymond A. King, to the New York World, "we found living about the grounds phoebes, sparrows, wrens, catbirds, humming birds and birds of many other species. I was the very first morning to have our big old mother cat, which is almost human and had been taught to respect our cat's rights, lay a sprig of my fern?"

"I took Mrs. Pussy in my arms and talked in exactly the same strain I would to a child. I took her out on the porch and introduced her to the phoebes. I showed her nests and made her feel altogether ashamed of herself."

"The effect was that the baby phoebes grew in comfort and all disappeared in perfect condition; not a nest was disturbed, and pussy feels the same moral satisfaction we all feel when our intelligence overcomes our instincts. At least, we ought to give her credit for that."

Mrs. Pussy is the property of little Peggy King, Mrs. King writes under the name of Amy Forbes King.

FIRE DEPARTMENT OUT THREE TIMES

The Winchester Fire Department was called out three times over the week end but in each case the fire was trivial and the damage slight. At 10 a. m. Friday, box 571 sounded for a chimney fire at the home of Mr. Charles H. Kenney on Dunster Lane. Sunday morning at 12:30, Officer John Hogan of the Winchester Police notified the Fire Department that an automobile was ablaze on the M. V. Parkway near Wedgemore Station. The Department responded and found the machine to be the property of Mr. Albert E. Butler of Arlington street. The car was somewhat damaged, having its top burned off. Later Sunday afternoon at 2:35 the Department was called out from box 43 for a brush fire on Hennessey's dump. The damage here was slight.

ALICE F. SYMMES SOCIETY

The Alice F. Symmes Society will hold a Halloween Party at Metcalf Hall, Wednesday, Oct. 29, at 8 o'clock. There will be dancing, refreshments and an entertainment.

Last Monday evening when Mr. Henry McMillan of Cottage avenue went out to the garage to get his car, he found a man sitting in the front seat of his machine. The Winchester Police were notified but before an officer could be gotten to the scene the man had disappeared. While Officer Farrell and special officer Harry Dotson were searching the vicinity another resident of Cottage avenue, Mr. John Munro, informed them that he had heard some one prowling around his garage the night previous.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

At the regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. held at the home of Mrs. Forsaith on Oct. 17, final plans for the March of Alliance, were made. All women voters who will pledge themselves to support the Constitution of the United States will on Oct. 22 at 3 p. m. march from Arlington street along Boylston, down Tremont and up Park streets to the State House where Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the Governor of Pennsylvania will administer the Pledge of Alliance. Every loyal woman voter take the 12:45 train for Boston and assemble on Arlington street.

Who Killed Good Government? "I admitted the busy man. "I said I hadn't time to attend to civic duties. I did not vote."

"I regretted the thoughtless woman. "I let a rainy election day keep me from the polls. I did not vote."

"I bewailed the lazy citizen. "I declared I wasn't interested in politics and I never used my ballot. I did not vote."

"I cried the pessimist. "I excused myself from my duties as a citizen by saying that all candidates are bad and it wasn't any use to vote. I did not vote."

"I confessed the delinquent voter. "I was a rocking chair patriot and I quitted my conscience by telling it that the election would go all right without my help. I did not vote."

We hear much nowadays about drafting the total man (and woman) power of the United States in event of another war. It would seem more important that the habit of paying service be engendered by enlisting the total man (and woman) power in time of peace.

Every man and woman in the United States should feel a responsibility to vote in every election—both primary and final, and to uphold the laws of the land both by obeying these laws and insisting upon their adequate enforcement.

There is no principle of more importance to the stability of a nation than law enforcement. Observance of and obedience to law is the keystone of the foundation upon which our government is built. No community is safe where laws are disregarded. No nation commands the respect of other nations, which cannot guarantee safety within its borders.

Last Sunday while driving his car on Cross street, Mr. Joseph A. Scott importing avenue ran over a dog. The animal was apparently unhurt, and ran from the spot before Mr. Scott could examine him. He reported the matter to the Police.

WHERE OUR BABIES DIE

Seventy-eight children out of every thousand born in 1921 within the birth-registration area of the United States died during their first year. These are the figures from an infant-mortality report, published by the American Child Health Association, which is based on the latest available statistics from 584 cities of more than 10,000 population within 30 States and the District of Columbia. We read in a press bulletin sent out by the Association:

"The Pacific Coast States, as in 1922, lead in low mortality rates. According to the 1923 report Washington heads the list with a rate of 51 per thousand, while Oregon ranks a close second with 53. Minnesota stands third with an average of 62 and California is fourth with 66."

"Santa Cruz, Cal., and Winchester, Mass., have the lowest infant-mortality statistics on record, the figure in each case being 26. Among the cities of 100,000 to 250,000 population Spokane, Wash., with a rate of 48, stands first, while in the ten largest cities in the United States, New York City and Cleveland, Ohio, are tied for the lowest rate with an average of 67 deaths per thousand."

"A comparatively small number of infant deaths occur in the largest cities. This is because in the cities between 10,000 and 25,000 of the highest rates exist. The following table gives average of the 584 cities in the birth-registration area, grouped according to size."

The Association's report has become an annual record desired to interest the entire country in the reduction of infant mortality and the necessity for birth registration. The report is part of the Association's nation-wide program to materially help the cause of child health. Data from the cities in the birth-registration area was secured through the death-registration area, also included in the report, were gathered directly from State and local authorities.

"Infant mortality rates for the States within the birth-registration area are as follows:

WINCHESTER GRAND RESIDENTIAL TOWN

Looked Upon Essentially as Home for Boston Business Men

By ROBERT F. WHITNEY
Member of Winchester Board of Selectmen

The Town of Winchester is now rapidly becoming recognized as the most beautiful and desirable of Boston's residential communities. Very few industries are carried on within its borders, it being essentially a home for Boston business men. Winchester has, in fact, a practically perfect chain of three lakes with wooded shores free from pollution, situated in Middlesex Fells reservation and under police control. Her streets are better than most of the surrounding towns. She is most fortunate in her various clubs. The Winchester Country Club has one of the best 18-hole golf courses in the state, three tennis courts, also fine, up-to-date dining and bathing pavilions.

Winchester's recreational club for men is the Calumet Club, situated on the shore of beautiful Wedge pond. It has a fine swimming pool, a large man of the town. The chief amusements are bowling, billiards, pool and cards, and many ladies' sports as tennis, croquet, etc. Winchester's women's club is called "The Fortnightly," which is composed of the most prominent and cultured women in the town. Winchester is indebted for many of its best civic improvements.

Winchester has never been a boom town, because its steady growth, appealing to that class of people who desire to live in a community of single homes where their children will be reared amid the most ideal environment possible. [The above article is reprinted from the Boston Sunday Herald of Oct. 19.]

WINCHESTER UNITARIAN MEN'S CLUB

The regular November meeting of the Winchester Unitarian Men's Club will be held on the 4th—Election Day in Metcalf Hall. Supper will be served at 7:30 p. m.

The speaker will be Dr. E. R. Berry, Assistant Director in charge of the Thomson Research Laboratory at the General Electric Company at Lynn, whose subject will be "The Value of Clear Fused Quartz to Man-kind."

Clear fused quartz is the wonderful substance which Dr. Berry, after 10 years of experimentation, has recently succeeded in producing in large quantities. It is a material in quantities, thus making it at last available for many uses for which glass has long been tried and found wanting. Clear fused quartz, in fact, is the only known material which can be obtained in quantity and which is transparent to the ultra-violet rays of light. The profession is consequently utilizing this material more and more in its application of ultra-violet light for therapeutic purposes. It is used in the treatment of rickets, diseased tonsils, tuberculosis, etc. Fused quartz lenses of 4 1/2 inches diameter have been for several months very successfully operated on test in motion picture projection machines using currents as high as 150 amp. where glass lenses cracked almost daily. Tuning-forks, thermometers, and telescopic mirrors and lenses are some of the other things which it is now possible to make of fused quartz with a degree of accuracy impossible with other substances. By tapering out the fused quartz Dr. Berry has been able to produce a ray of light, which is perhaps the accomplishment most commonly associated with his name in the public mind.

We are fortunate in being among the first to have the opportunity to hear Dr. Berry tell of this substance and of his experiences in bringing about its successful production.

After Dr. Berry's talk, a powerful radio, installed for the purpose, will be turned on to give the election returns.

THE MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

The October meeting of the Mothers' Association was held last Wednesday, Oct. 15. It was one of the most interesting and helpful of the season.

Rev. John W. Suter Jr., of Boston, formerly of Winchester, gave the address. His subject, "Children and Ideals," he said most truly that children are influenced less by the instruction of their parents than by what the parents do and say off guard—the things that are taken for granted in a home, are the ones that make the lasting impression. Mr. Suter deplored the common order of planning the daily lives of children, the putting first health, education, amusement, etc., and leaving very narrow space for the spiritual that should come first of all, being the foundation of good living, good citizenship and all real lasting success in life—and also the basis of truly happy family life. The parents' influence, so strong for the first five or ten years, declines as the child grows older. It is the chance to set the little lives in the right road, remembering that, "as the twig is bent, the tree is inclined." The neglect of training in the early years can never be made up.

MISSIONARY MEETING

The first fall meeting of the Missionary Department of the Women's League, First Baptist Church was held with Mrs. Charles A. Burnham, 33 Everett avenue, on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 16. A large group of women gathered to hear the instructive talk on "America's Greatest Asset," by Mrs. Daniel C. Linwood and the two enjoy the talk by Miss Helen Raynor. After this interesting program a delightful social hour with refreshment was enjoyed.

The topic to be discussed is "Present-day influences affecting boys and girls of high school age."

HIGH SCHOOL PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION

The first meeting of the Winchester High School Parent-Teacher Association for 1924-5 will be held Monday, Oct. 27, in the high school assembly hall at 8 p. m.

Mr. Harry Gardner of the State Education Department will open the discussion and will have much to say to the parents. There will be plenty of opportunity for general discussion. Dr. J. Churchill Hinds, bassist, will sing, and a social hour with refreshments will conclude the evening. It is hoped that every one interested in the boys and girls of our high school will attend next Monday evening and help to make this first meeting of the new year a big success.

BANQUET FOR EMBLEM CLUB WEDNESDAY

Plans are now completed for the testimonial banquet to be given to the Emblem Club by the Winchester Lodge of Elks. This testimonial is given in recognition of the assistance rendered by the Emblem Club in making a success of the recent carnival, the giving of various financial and material aid in making possible the realization of the substantial fund turned in. The banquet is to be held in Lyceum Hall on Wednesday evening next, Oct. 29, opening at 6:45 o'clock. An orchestra will furnish music during the banquet and there will be dancing later. All Elks and their friends are invited to attend. Tickets may be obtained of any member of the lodge.

Last Sunday evening an automobile accident was narrowly averted on Main street at the junction of Russell road. A car was coming out of Russell road as another car was approaching along Main street. Both drivers evidently thought they had the right of way, and neither was desirous of giving over his right to the other. The machines kept coming until nearly together when each driver applied his brakes and brought his car to a stop just exactly in time. Both operators left their car and indulged in some pointed personal remarks each directed at the driving ability of the other. Words led to blows, and the two men were going to it hot and heavy when without any warning they ceased hostilities and without speaking a word climbed into their respective cars and departed. Evidently they had forgotten until the moment that they had not arranged in advance for the movie rights of the scrap.

VISITING NURSE AND HOSPITAL NOTES

Miss MacKay starts work as the new Superintendent at the Hospital the first of November. Her room has been refurnished and put in readiness for her arrival.

A fire started in the dry leaves and grass near the Hospital garden this week. The Fire Department was called but no serious damage was done beyond causing some excitement.

The nurses gave a Halloween party at the home on Thursday evening, for which about 40 invitations were sent out. The evening was spent in playing games and dancing, after which refreshments were served. The room was gaily decorated for the occasion and made a very attractive setting for the Halloween games.

The Baby Clinics on Tuesday afternoons which have been suspended because of repairs at the Health Center have been resumed and Dr. Simon is in attendance after several weeks' absence. The room at the Health Center has been painted and put in fine condition for the winter's work.

MEMORIAL FUND

In memory of his son, Lincoln Lowell Russell, who lost his life last April, and who was president of the class of 1927 in Amherst College, James W. Russell, Jr. of the class of 1899 has established a fund the income of which is to be given annually as a prize of $40 to that student who has done the most to encourage and to foster the singing spirit in Amherst College.

WAR MEMORIAL SHOWN

Five Photographs in Hevey's Store Window

There were placed on view this week in the window of Hevey's Drug store in the center, three enlarged photographs of the new War Memorial to be erected by the Town in commemoration of its sons and daughters who participated in the great struggle. Every person in town should make it a point to look at this magnificent monument within the next fortnight.

Three pictures are shown, all photographs of the new War Memorial model. They show views facing the Memorial and right and left fronts.

That this Memorial will be a work of art which every man, woman and child will take pride in, is unquestioned. If you are in doubt about forming your opinion of the monument, by all means take a look at these photographs.

MEETING OF ALICE F. SYMMES SOCIETY

The Alice F. Symmes Society held its first meeting of the year at Metcalf Hall in the Unitarian Church on Wednesday evening. Following the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed, the entertainment apparently being influenced by the proximity of the new War Memorial. Babbling for apples and other indoor sports appropriate for the occasion were enjoyed together, with a seasonal colation of cider and doughnuts. Dancing rounded out a pleasant evening. Chairman Marshall W. Symmes of the entertainment committee had the affair in charge.

NOONAN SCHOOL

The fifth grade children at the W. J. Noonan School have received letters from the fifth grade children of the Emerson School, Springfield, Ohio.

It is the intention to correspond during the year, thereby acquainting one another with the industries and activities in each community.

Through the courtesy of William Filene and Sons Company, Boston the children of the sixth grade at the Noonan School received this week a set of very interesting and instructive industrial maps of New England. These maps had been displayed by them in their store at the celebration of New England Week in Boston.

The sixth grade of the William J. Noonan School presented a thrift program before the school in the Assembly Hall on Thursday morning, Oct. 30.

The following program was given: "What Thrift Means"; "Elden Anderson How Can I Save School Property"; "George Rogers How Can I Save School Materials"; "John Kelley How Can I Save at Home"; "Oscar Laddell A Dream I Never Forget"; "Mary Rowan Are You a Time Waster?"; "Mary Heslin Play 'Billy Bates' Bicycle'."

CHARACTERS: George Horn Mr. Bates; John Kelley Mr. Bates; Oscar Laddell Mr. Bates; John Kelley Mr. Bates; Mary Rowan Mr. Bates; Mary Heslin Mr. Bates; Thomas Ryan Mr. Bates.

The Board of Selectmen have arranged permission to the Woburn Melrose Division of the Massachusetts Eastern Street Railway to operate two additional buses over the streets of the town, and have also permitted two new operators to be licensed.

WINCHESTER LAUNDRIES AT INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION

Among the feature exhibits of the Industrial Exposition which ran last week at the Woburn Armory, was the booth of the Winchester Laundries Inc., where much interest was evinced in three new types of machine for marking garments to insure patrons against loss. The three machines shown included a marking machine, a listing machine and a stitching or taping machine, all of advanced design.

Advertising Manager R. C. Wallace was in charge of the Laundries' booth at the Armory, and was assisted on the various afternoons and evenings by the following members of the several departments: H. J. Pickering, M. B. Levering, M. C. Ambrose, R. D. Smith, Mrs. Grace Craven and the Misses May Cushing, Marguerite Powers, Alice A. Fenton, Margaret McIntire and Charlotte Louette.

On last Thursday evening music for the exposition was furnished by the "Laundry Orchestra" of 26 pieces, T. Parker Clarke conductor. President Arthur T. Downer of the corporation was among the musicians who appeared.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

On last Thursday evening a most successful Halloween whist and sale was conducted under the direction of the charitable committee. Miss Elizabeth Shimock was awarded the gold piece and other prizes were received by the following: M. Moffett, Miss I. O'Connell, Mrs. Flanders, Mrs. Quill, Mrs. E. Dineen, Mr. J. King, Mrs. F. W. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Mary Golden, Mrs. George Nowell. Many beautiful fancy articles were donated and proceeds from the sale of these added materially to the results of the party. The barrel of apples was drawn by Mr. T. Fallon; the keg of cider by Mrs. Nowell and the barrel of squash by Mrs. A. McDonald. Altogether the party proved to be a social as well as a financial success.

Miss Eleanor Hudson of the Public Library staff has again been appointed official checker for this state for radio station KFI, Los Angeles, Cal. This means that she will report to the station regularly upon the reception of its broadcast in Massachusetts. Miss Hudson was also checker for this station last year. She operates an eight-tube super-heterodyne, and received the broadcast for the first time this year from the Pacific Coast last Saturday night, when she listened to the program from KGO of Oakland, Cal., for nearly an hour.

Mrs. Lucius Smith and son Lucius Jr., have returned to town after spending the past two months with Mrs. Simon's family and Mrs. John J. Flinn of Gloucester, Ill.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

If defeat strengthens and sweetens character, it is not defeat at all, but victory.

So many of us make such a quantity of flabby resolutions, that our lives become purposeless and negative.

Some people's glory is doing a big thing—but it is not quantity that counts so much as quality.

The world does not always distinguish between appearance and true merit, pretense sometimes gets the attention but desert will bring reward.

At the last Annual Town Meeting in Winchester the vast majority voted to erect a war memorial in memory of our young men who lost their lives in the Great War.

The type of memorial required for Winchester was at that meeting decided upon, after a most careful consideration of all the other forms presented.

It was also unanimously decided that the funds to erect this memorial should be raised by public subscription in order that every inhabitant of Winchester could have some part in its erection.

All this having been definitely decided upon by the Town, it is now the duty of every man, woman, and child in Winchester to freely and cheerfully contribute to its erection.

The Committee has been selected to carry on this campaign will be liberal contributors of time and energy as well as financially and should receive the welcome support of every one.

LATE RISING A BAD HABIT

The habit of sleeping in the morning until the last possible minute, and then dashing off to work is very harmful from the standpoint of health. The average person does not eat enough breakfast. He does not take enough time to eat breakfast. This causes a nervous condition which prevents the normal functioning of the bowels. The result is a milking tired feeling, irritable temper, and sometimes headache and nausea.

The remedy is to go to bed early enough to get 8 hours sleep, have time for the necessary morning duties.

VOTE AS YOU PLEASE, BUT VOTE!

Since 1896 there has been a steady decrease in the percentage of actual voters. In that year 80 per cent, or eight out of ten, of the eligible voters, went to the polls and voted. In 1900, 73 per cent cast their votes; in 1904, 66 per cent; in 1912, 62 per cent. In 1920 less than 50 per cent, of those eligible to vote, went to the polls. Will the percentage fall still lower this year?

A determined effort is being made to increase the percentage of actual voters. The "citizenship drive" is in progress in every State and will continue through election day. (C. E., page 14, 15.) This drive should not be necessary, but the figures show that it is necessary. The privilege of taking part in the government of a great nation like the United States is a wonderful privilege. A truly patriotic American does not need to be urged to go to the polls. He rightly considers voting a duty—a solemn obligation.

Let every American qualified to vote cast his ballot at the election next Tuesday!

COMMON SENSE VS. VISIONARY PROMISE

President Coolidge talked common sense to his Philadelphia audience—undorned and unemotional common sense.

The value of such a speech is that it helps people to think clearly. "With railroads and electrical utilities under profitable control, the domination of a group would be so firmly entrenched in the whole direction of our government that the privilege of citizenship for the rest of the people would consist largely in the payment of taxes." The President's words are an admirable summary of the inevitable political consequence. What we saw when Congress covered before the railroad brothers and passed the Adams law would become the normal situation at Washington. A bureaucracy, supported by millions of government employees, and holding the life of the nation in its hands by control of its arteries of trade and natural resources. The technological power, could convert the rest of us into mere supplicants for mercy, paying compulsory tribute to our masters. "The nationalization of all industry could soon be expected," declares the President, and if anyone thinks he is exaggerating the danger let him ask himself why Debs and Hill, and Borger have tied the Socialist party to the La Follette program and ticket. The President is relying upon the common sense of the voters. He is appealing calmly and cogently to their reason. He and his associates on the ticket are holding firmly to the real issues in the campaign, and talking sound, fundamental Americanism. —[Chicago Post.]

WHY IS IT?

To the Editor of the Star: That—if some Industrial and Mercantile plants are to continue operating on the Daylight Savings Schedule, independently they say, if the State repeals it—they all can't, thereby solving confusion in railroad operation, and giving back to the farmer a natural advantage he sorely needs?

That is what the State Law enforcement, an injustice is being done the majority of our people. Court statistics show a decrease of 60 per cent in drunkenness in Massachusetts since the closing of the saloons. There has been an increase in liquor consumption by the middle and rich class during the summer. By lack of state enforcement, they are able to get what they wish through sources not closed. Is it fair, to say the least, to take the trouble from one and not a more privileged class? Law enforcement would reach all classes.

That—most people do not know there is an old State Statute books a law like, and beyond the Federal Child Labor Amendment. It gives our Legislature the power to prohibit and prohibit the labor of persons of all ages. Why should we suddenly "trust to fate" rather than "fear to trust" a body of experts and an "I" elected by, and to serve us, with a power chiefly granted for intervention purposes only, where suitable protection is lacking? Why resent the fact that Socialists are approving it? So is President Coolidge. Some of our best classics in Art, Music and Literature have come from authors of whom history has not approved, generally speaking. One of the aims set forth in the Preamble of the Constitution of the United States is "to promote the general welfare." We need a national consciousness where children's welfare is concerned. H. L. F.

AID IN THE SUBSCRIPTION

To the Editor of the Star: On Nov. 14 to 27 inclusive the inhabitants of Winchester will be called upon to sacrifice a few funds to enable the War Memorial Committee to erect a monument to commemorate the achievements of the Winchester men and women who helped preserve the principle of what this great Country is based upon, namely, the Constitution of the United States of America.

When we entered that terrible conflict that was raging across the deep blue sea, rich and poor, black and white, Catholic, Protestant, Jew and Gentile were called upon to help sustain the atrocities that shocked the senses of civilization. Hence the necessity of every man, woman and child assisting in this patriotic movement by contributing cheerfully and making this War Memorial a monument second to none in the 14 Counties, 38 cities and 316 towns that comprise the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, the cradle of American liberty.

And remember! After this monument is erected the cost of maintenance will be practically nothing compared to other forms of War Memorials. It will be a valuable asset to the Town; it will harmonize with the natural architectural and beautiful surroundings and help brighten our corner and I trust, Mr. Editor, that the various societies will be received at the various domiciles cheerfully. Remember they are sacrificing homes and money in order that we may not perpetrate this humanitarian movement any longer.

Very truly yours,
Patrick H. Crauchwell

OUR OPPORTUNITY AT HAND

19 Shemeld Road, Winchester, Mass., October 27, 1924

To the Editor of the Star: Last summer, after the memorable meeting of the American Bar Association in London, several of us took a motor trip through England and Scotland. In every city, town and hamlet through which we passed we found a memorial to those who have lost their lives in the great war. Some of these memorials were more or less commonplace, from an artistic point of view, some simple and dignified, and others appealing and beautiful. The point is, however, that there was no village so small but that its people had lovingly erected a memorial to those men who had left their homes and given their all to the cause of humanity.

I could not refrain from the thought, with shame too, that we people in Winchester had been negligent in expressing in concrete form our gratitude to and our pride in our own boys whose sacrifice for us made victory possible and in those who stood ready with them to give their lives for our country.

I appreciate the fact that the delay has been caused in part by an emulation among our citizens to provide the best form of war memorial. Finally, however, a decision was reached as to the form which this memorial should take.

Now we have the chance to make good our negligence. We have the opportunity to erect in enduring form a beautiful memorial, which is not only worthy of the Town of Winchester but is worthy of those men to whom it is to be dedicated. It is not only our patriotic duty but it is our privilege, as I see it, to welcome this opportunity and to give gladly and with whole heart the money which is necessary to make the memorial possible. This money is not a tax, it is a free gift; but what an infinitesimally small gift, when compared with the gift to us by the men to whom this memorial is dedicated. With this in mind, is there anyone in Winchester who will hesitate to give gladly and generously? You know the answer, Mr. Editor, and so do I. We have both lived here long enough to have faith in Winchester, and we know that an ideal and a worthy cause need but to be presented fairly to win generous and loyal support.

Sincerely yours,
Marcus B. May

REV. MR. EVANS ADDS A WORD

To the Editor of the Star: I wish to add my word in favor of the proposed War Memorial to be erected in Winchester. It hardly seems necessary to say anything in favor of such a proposal as the object of it must touch the heart of every true American man and woman in the town.

I am thinking of the human side of the War as I write this: of the unhesitating sacrifice of the youth of America for their country, of the ideals which they fought so hard to maintain; of the broken hearts of those at home upon whom the sorrow fell. Surely all of these must make a claim upon our hearts and our loyalties. Surely we do not wish to shrug our shoulders and forget.

The Memorial which it is proposed to erect is to be a real work of art. It will possess a spiritual significance for future generations of citizens far beyond our ken. It will stand for all time as a mark of our tribute to those who gave their lives in the great World War.

Sincerely yours,
Allen Evans, Jr.

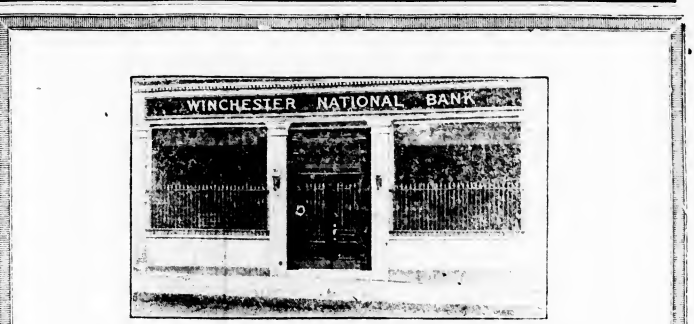

UNIQUE DECORATIONS FOR HOUSE PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Adams of Chesterford road are receiving many congratulations on the unique decorations for their home in preparation for the two-day Halloween house party they are holding this evening and tomorrow. They are entertaining friends from Lowell, Methuen, Arlington and Wollaston over the weekend.

The Halloween decorations are especially complete and are particularly attractive and unique. At the entrance, the door of the glassed-in sun porch faces the visitor with a hideous skull and crossbones orange and black framing setting it off to perfection. Inside the house, all the lights are covered with decorative shades, with greenery cut at all the wall brackets. A handsome effect has been made at the fireplace, the windows are all hung with draperies of black and orange and the doorways and stairs are most attractive. Mrs. Adams has also prepared her dining table along the same lines, with white, orange and black and orange settings. The entertainment prepared for the guests will be in keeping with the season and promises to thoroughly entertain the company.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Commander Clark presided, and Mr. Nathan Thum, of the base ball committee, made the presentation, complimenting Mr. LeDuc upon his able management and expressing the appreciation of the Legion. Testimonials were also presented to the Carpenter's Union in appreciation of the work of its members in constructing the new bleachers on Manchester Field last season. To Mr. T. P. Willson, the Winchester Star for assistance from his office. These gifts were in form of resolutions, finely drawn on parchment. Help the cause help Winchester. ELKS' BANQUET EMBLEM CLUB

Winchester Lodge, 1445, B. P. O. E., was host to its auxiliary body, the Emblem Club, at a testimonial banquet held on Wednesday evening in Lyceum Hall as an expression of appreciation on the part of the Lodge for the splendid services rendered by their ladies at the recent Fall Carnival.

About 150 were in attendance at the various tables which were presided over by Exalted Ruler George T. Davidson, as toastmaster. The speakers of the evening included E. L. K. Maurice Dimme, Chairman of the Fall Carnival Committee, who expressed his committee's thanks to the Emblem Club for their whole-hearted assistance in making the project so splendidly successful and Mrs. George T. Davidson, President of the Emblem Club who responded graciously, and spoke upon the work done by her organization. Mrs. George H. Lochman, Chairman of the Ladies' Auxiliary, also spoke for the carnival spoke of the fine spirit of co-operation existing between the various groups throughout the Carnival and E. L. K. Fred H. Schell, in like manner, praised the workers on the automobile committee of which he was chairman. Mr. Nicholas, President of the Emblem Club, speaking with remarks on the social and community welfare work of the Lodge, and of his plans for the distribution of the Emblem Club's baskets to the needy of Winchester.

Following the banquet a splendid entertainment was provided by Mr. Thomas F. Fallon, Treasurer of the Lodge. The program included ball and wing dancing by Mr. James Horn; Frisco dancing by Mr. Raymond Canada, vocal duets by Mrs. A. A. Morrison and Mr. George H. Lochman with Mrs. Lochman at the piano, some fine dance skill by Miss "Ginger" Gordon of Keith's Circuit, vocal solos by Miss Eleanor Larson, and songs and specialty dancing by Miss Mae Kennedy.

Dancing was enjoyed until a late hour with Fallon's Orchestra furnishing the music. The Elks' 11 o'clock treat was delivered by P. E. E. Frederick D. Clement.

SCHOOL NOTES

The School Department calls attention to the fact that this season, to its meeting on the third Monday of each month the presence of any citizen who desires to confer with the Superintendent of Schools at any matter of general educational import.

Another point which the department hopes citizens will bear in mind is the ruling that calls for a written request from any wishing to use the various school halls, and specifies that such requests be in the hands of the Superintendent of Schools at least three weeks before the date upon which the hall is desired.

Schools are closed all day today so that local instructors may attend the sessions of the Middlesex County Teachers' Association being held in Boston. Meetings are to be held in the Colonial Theater, the Hollis Street Theater, Ford Hall, Lorimer Hall, and Gardner Auditorium in the State House.

There will be a meeting of elementary school teachers on next Tuesday, Nov. 4th, to discuss the major objectives in education. This is one that the department may arrive at the decision of what the great objectives of education are before the actual school curriculum is made. The course of study which are to be developed in the next year or two will be decided in the light of the objectives agreed upon.

15 OAK STREET, READING

This morning was "right snappy," being the coldest thus far this season, with the glass at 23 at 7 o'clock. The turn from the extremely warm weather of the past week occurred on Wednesday night, and was accompanied by a particularly thick fog in the lowlands, many motorists driving during the late hours having a hard time to travel and keep on the road. The fog was very bad around the Mystic Lake, where a number of cars were held up by running into it. Warm weather is promised today.

The Winchester Fire Department was called out at 6:30 Tuesday afternoon by a still alarm for a dump fire at the foot of Oak street. The blaze was extinguished with sand chemicals. There was no damage.

THE GASOLINE TAX

To the Editor of the Star:
I have read with considerable interest the article in your paper by Mr. Lionel Norman, headed "The Gasoline Tax," and I cannot refrain from trying to give Mr. Norman some facts which may not only be beneficial to himself, but to the readers of your paper.

Let me say in response to his first statement that he is entirely wrong in his assertion that the automobile interests claim that they should be paid only for the maintenance of state highways, and not for construction.

Since 1921 the motorists have paid for the maintenance and reconstruction of all State roads in Massachusetts, and also for the construction of new State roads. They also have paid an enormous amount of money both to the Federal Government and the State, some of which has been diverted from Highway Trust funds.

Since 1917 the Federal Government has collected from motor vehicles, parts and accessories $208,921,012 and has only paid out in the same period for Federal and Forest Road Aid, including administrative expenses $264,822,116 or an equivalent of 45 per cent of the sum collected by the Federal Government from motor vehicle users. So much for Federal taxes, which the motorists still have to pay.

Mr. Norman says "Of course, during the brief history of the automobile there has been a vast improvement and increase in State highways." This is perfectly true. Records show that in the last decade general taxes have increased 121 per cent over motor vehicle fees, etc. have increased 130 per cent.

Mr. Norman also says "It seems grossly unfair that the taxpayers in general should be expected to pay for this constantly increasing construction as well as maintenance." From 1920 the motorists have been paying in one form and another for giving the State $44,052,276.65. During that same period all this vast sum was not used on the highways. The State only appropriated $1,000,000 for special purposes.

It may be interesting for you to know that the budget for the year of the suppression of gypsy moth, amounting to $15,000 was taken from the motor vehicle fund to say nothing of the large sum which was turned over to the Metropolitan parkways. To bear out my statement in this matter I quote from a communication from Mr. W. J. Ames, Commissioner of Public Works, under date of May 26, 1924, as follows:

"A substantial amount of the unexpended balance of the Motor Vehicle Fund is appropriated to the Metropolitan District Commission for parkway and boulevard work in the Metropolitan District."

The motorists of the State of Massachusetts are at the present time paying eight taxes, as follows:
A 5 per cent sales tax on his car.
A 2 1/2 per cent sales tax on all accessories.
A 2 1/2 per cent sales tax on all repair parts.
A driver's license tax.
A chauffeur's license tax.
An examination tax.
A tax on horsepower.
A personal property tax.

The records show that in 1923 the automotive products paid 77 per cent of the total special excise taxes. Is it reasonable that they should be asked to pay a further "excise" tax on gasoline? Should they be burdened with further taxes?

Mr. Norman further states—"Notwithstanding that certain people will tell you that the automobile is a necessity and not a luxury, we know that in at least 95 per cent of the cases this is not true; and luxuries can best afford to be taxed." Statistics of the United States government show that 60 per cent of the passenger mileage is for business purposes, and I sincerely believe that Mr. Norman's statement is borne out by facts. I believe that Mr. Norman will admit all the mileage of trucks is for business purposes. Statistics show that in the United States 28,000 children are transported to school daily in motor busses. I presume, Mr. Norman is aware that there is still an un-called luxury tax on the automobile, a Federal tax of 5 per cent, notwithstanding that luxury taxes on amusements, soft drinks, candy and other commodities have been removed.

I also presume that Mr. Norman is aware that the cities and towns at the present time have a personal property tax on automobiles domiciled within their limits. They also have the advantage of being able to tax all the private and public garages that exist in the backyards and unimproved property which previous to the inception of the automobile were non-productive, insofar as taxation was concerned, and why in the name of all fairness should the cities and towns be entitled to one cent when they are now collecting a large tax from the motorists.

You bring out the vote of the Board of Selectmen in Brookline endorsing a recent gasoline tax, but you do not go on and state that they agreed, according to newspaper reports that, if this went through, the town salaries would be raised. One can very well see where the gas tax money is headed—not for the highways at least. What the motorists are endeavoring to do is to keep the money that they pay into the State out of politics and have it expended on the State highways.

I want to be fair. We are fighting for a principle. For your information the Commissioner of Public Works is anxious of putting on a six-year program, which will amount to about $7,000,000. With their present engineering force and equipment which they have, they admit that this program will take from six to seven years to complete.

I think Mr. Norman will agree that the State received:
In 1922 $ 7,681,644.19
In 1923 10,062,890.55
and in 1924 it is paid well adjusted and it will receive approximately $12,942,124.41

Without any tax law, and if the amount continues to increase in the same ratio the six-year program will be easily taken care of without the addition of a two-cent gasoline tax, which would in all probability bring in about $6,000,000 a year.

Under these circumstances I believe it is for the interest of everybody in the State of Massachusetts to vote "No" on this referendum, and keep the taxes within the needs of the Highway Division of the State.

Yours very truly,
J. H. MacLellan, Pres.
Boston Automobile Dealers Assn., Inc.

FALL IN WITH THE MAJORITY

To the Editor of the Star:

I want to say a few words about our much talked of War Memorial—Many like it; some don't like it; some think it too soon to erect it; some, too late; some say the rich should pay for it; others say taxation is the only way and still others seem to think that public subscription is the best way to pay for it.

I am a many times and voted to pay the cost by taxation. There were many who voted to raise this money by public subscription—at town meeting last March the vote taken was 882 yeas and 4 nays. I, like many others have fallen in line with the majority and will work until this money is raised and the memorial erected. Why? Well, that vote almost unanimous didn't state how this could be gathered in; simply told the country to go ahead and buy the monument, place it on the high school lot, etc.

Now, then, we must all give and should give cheerfully. Many must work also and I know that they will work cheerfully as all Winchester citizens have worked.

I believe when the canvassers call at the Winchester homes every man, woman and child will give and give until it hurts, but still cheerfully, thinking all the time that this is really a debt we owe and that the ones to whom we owe it are not asking for a memorial.

I look back to the years 1917 and 1918 and think of the many auto loads of our dear patriotic young men being taken to Arlington Station on the way where? God only knew. And all the boys seemed to think of was their country. Did they find fault? No, they left us with a farewell smile, many never to return giving their all, over there. Many more who did return have since gone off to their heavenly reward, dying from the effects of service over there. Service for what? For the good old U. S. A. and that's you and I.

Suppose we, in Winchester, had been asked, one week before Armistice was signed, to raise a million dollars, as our share of the cost of finishing the war in a week. Would we have done it? I say, Yes.

Had a Committee asked for One Hundred Thousand Dollars to erect a War Memorial, one week after Armistice was signed, would it have been forth coming?

Don't let us Forget! What won the war? Was it our money alone? No! If we had sent all the gold in this country across the ocean and not sent our young men, what would the outcome have been?

CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

Oct. 28, 1924

To the Editor of the Star:
Was your honor invited to check the labor of children between Sept. 1, 1916 and June 3, 1918? The first child labor law, based on regulation of interstate commerce, was passed on the first date. It was held unconstitutional on the second by a five to four decision of the Supreme Court. A momentary prohibition of the labor of children under fourteen in cotton mills and was upset by a child of 13 years or under in North Carolina, who sent through his "next friend" (that designation is no more ironical than the self assumed title "for the protection of children and the home") by leading opponents of the pending constitutional amendment). Our highly honored Mr. Justice Holmes said: "But if there is any luxury tax on the automobile, a Federal tax of 5 per cent, notwithstanding that luxury taxes on amusements, soft drinks, candy and other commodities have been removed."

In February, 1919, Congress passed the same regulation as a tax measure. May 15, 1922 this was held unconstitutional in a case again from North Carolina involving labor by boy of 13 or under. Chief Justice Taft said: "We cannot avoid the duty even though it require us to refuse to give effect to legislation designed to promote the highest good." These decisions and the constant appeal of textile and other industries in the Northern states to ease up on our state requirements and to make them national and therefore non-competitive constitute the sole origin of the pending child labor amendment. Suggestions of Bolshevism are hysteria and bunk. This amendment is the orderly and safe method of procedure. A failure suggests a disorderly and unsafe method. The amendment is no broader than the need four Massachusetts powers extend to all children under 21. As Mr. Justice Holmes indicates, there is need of (1) prohibition of "premature" child labor—the Federal acts fixed 13 or under for mines and factories; and (2) regulation to prevent "excessive" child labor—the Federal acts fixed the eight-hour day, forty-eight hours week for children 14 and 15 years old. There seem to be no motives to induce an abuse of these powers by Congress.

If you don't care for child welfare (as stunted children soon become targets for Red propaganda), at least vote "Yes" to prevent "premature and excessive" child labor competition with Massachusetts industries.

The amendment is non-partisan, being approved by the leading three parties.

FOR THE PROTECTION OF WORKING CHILDREN

To the Editor of the Star:

The signs "Stop, Look and Listen" at our railroad crossings do not mean that no one shall cross the tracks. Correctly interpreted they say to use reasonable care and caution at certain dangerous points.

The child labor amendment says limit, regulate and prohibit, meaning that congress shall have the power by its enactments to confine the labor of children to reasonable hours, healthful and safe conditions and decent moral surroundings, combined with a stated amount of book knowledge.

It can be required that children who work shall be fit mentally and physically for the job they undertake. The labor of children can be prohibited where suitable regulations and suitable occupations are not provided.

In other words, this amendment is for the protection of working children. Authority converted into service to permit stunted development, impaired nerves and maimed bodies from being carried over into future generations.

We have gradually accepted the fact that children are wards of the state which means that you as voters are the guardians for the peace and welfare of all children.

As such protectors, let us not forsake the children in industry.

SERVICE PLUS

It was shortly after 6 o'clock on the afternoon of last Sunday, Officer James Donaghy was at his usual post in the centre directing traffic. Across the square, about to leave for his home after completing his day's work, Traffic Officer W. S. Sloan was waiting for a car while at yet another point gleamed the golden chevrons and trappings of a police officer. The officers who had paused for a bit while making his rounds of the center. In front of the corner drug store stood Mounted officer "Ned" Williams, and Special officer Harry Dotten. The stage was all set to handle anything from a wreck to a riot. What a moment for any one to come into the center seeking aid from the police.

And then the call came. Passing motorists reported that while coming along upper Main street they had seen the form of a man, indistinct through the dusk of the evening but still plainly discernable, in the act of climbing into one of the windows in the office of the G. W. Blanchard Lumber and Coal building. Not so much time had elapsed since a previous break had been reported at this establishment and the members of the Police Department in the square were on their toes in much less time than it takes to tell about it.

Commandeering a couple of automobiles, Sgt. Rogers and the four policemen departed in hot haste for the scene of the break, arriving on the Blanchard Company's premises in two minutes flat. Reconnoitering disclosed nothing open, and it had just been decided to force an entrance to see that everything was alright inside the plant since the motorists were insistent that they had seen some one enter, when the party was hailed from near the office door of the building.

Hastening in the direction of the voice the officers came upon a brother patrolman, Officer Archie O'Connell, who was in possession of evidence which threw a new light on the affair.

It seems that while Officer O'Connell was making his rounds he discovered a window in the Blanchard building unfastened and climbed in to investigate. Finding nothing amiss he had fastened the window, and had departed by way of a back door which opened from the inside. Everything would have been quite alright, if the automobilists hadn't seen the policeman climbing through the window, and if it hadn't been so dark as to make the distinguishing of his uniform impossible.

As it was, no harm was done, and the Winchester Police gave quite a demonstration of efficiency in handling five men on the scene of an alleged break within two minutes of the time the call was received. A big crowd which made all speed from the square to the lumber yard to view the promised excitement were somewhat disappointed at the uneventful ending of what bid fair to be an interesting party.

Motors Killed 22 in State Last Week
101 Drivers Convicted for Running Cars While Drunk

Twenty-two more lives were taken than the previous week were added in motor vehicle accidents in Massachusetts last week and 101 drivers were convicted of operating vehicles under the influence of liquor, the office of the registrar of motor vehicles announced yesterday. The fatalities included 10 children.

Despite repeated warnings given to motorists against infractions of the law, the list of suspensions and revoking of licenses, the registrar said during this period, with 360 drivers losing their licenses and registrations. This was 45 higher than the preceding week. Liquor again made heavy inroads, taking a toll of 116 of the suspensions and revocations. Nine were convicted a second time for driving while under the influence of liquor. —[Boston Herald, Oct. 27.]

Under the present state law the manufacture and transportation of liquor are not illegal. This means that the 5000 local police are severely handicapped in the enforcement of the national law. There are at present only 21 Federal officers in the entire state. The law to be voted on would make the manufacture and transportation illegal and thus permit these 5000 officers to enforce effectively the Eighteenth Amendment. League of Women Voters

RED CROSS RALLY AT TOWN HALL

The Red Cross annual Roll Call for membership will begin on Armistice Day, Nov. 11. Introductory to it the Winchester Red Cross has planned a rally, free to all at the Town Hall, Saturday evening, Nov. 8. There will be music, moving pictures showing what Red Cross is doing in the world at home and abroad; a silent talk on the seven recurring Red Cross disaster relief in the United States this year, and, especially, disaster relief in New England.

The speaker of the evening is to be Mr. Paul V. Donovan, principal of the Continuation School in Boston and member of the Metropolitan Chapter. Mr. Donovan was with the Red Cross in France during the war, and since then has been one of its important workers. He is especially interested in Junior Red Cross and has incorporated it in the work of the Continuation School. He has visited the Junior Red Cross Headquarters of the League of National Red Cross Societies, in Paris, and has a most thorough knowledge of Junior Red Cross service both in this country and abroad.

The Rally is for everyone. Come and enjoy it. It will increase your realization of the breadth and greatness of the Red Cross service.

WINCHESTER RED CROSS BOARD FINANCES BRAILLE WORKER

One of the most important humanitarian interests of the Red Cross, Braille transcribing for the blind, increased 35 per cent in the past year. No special campaign to enroll recruits was made, for this work has its own appeal, as shown by the fact that many Chapters this year have given the preparatory course to hundreds of new transcribers. Because of this increasing spread of Braille work, National Headquarters has found it necessary to curtail its expense incident to the work, and is asking each chapter to assume the proof-reading expense for its own workers. This will not entail a burden on the Chapters, for the charges are very low, between two and three cents per page. The proof-reading is done at Washington with greatest care, the accepted standard being perfection.

The Winchester Chapter, at a Board meeting on Monday, voted to finance the Braille work of Miss Horne, an expert transcriber living in Winchester, who has just completed a volume.

The books are first used at Evergreen School, Washington, by the blinded veterans of the World War. Later they are circulated among the blind of the country, being placed in libraries and institutions. Volumes in use 17 years are still in good condition.

GAS HOLDERS—PART 2

A gas holder consists of a steel tank full of water up through which there is an inlet pipe and an outlet pipe with their respective openings above the surface of the water. The gas holder may be compared to an inverted collapsible drinking cup. The entire height of the holder does not go down into the ground, as some people seem to think, but the holder is made in a varying number of sections, depending upon its size and these sections interlocking with one another—the interlocking being done by means of a water cup on the sections which carry water and therefore prevents the gas from blowing out at the interlocking points.

In cold weather it is necessary to heat the water in the various interlocking cups and in the huge steel tank at the base of the holder. This heating requires an enormous amount of steam and it is absolutely necessary, otherwise, freezing of the water would take place with the resultant damage to the holder. It is also necessary to paint the guide frame and the holder itself every three to four years. The painting of a large sized holder is no small matter as it costs well up to $10,000. It requires eternal vigilance and inspection of so large an area to see that no corrosion is taking place, or if it is taking place, to overcome its effects.

AS a result of a great national movement for traffic safety, "boulevard stops" are common in almost every city and town.

For safety's sake, the motorist must halt or slow down at every crossing. That means a constant battling with balky gears—in all cars except the Chandler; for the Chandler is the only car containing the

Traffic Transmission

Because it employs a new and simple principle, the Traffic Transmission eliminates all gear clashing. It makes the shift from high to second or low just as silent, just as certain as the one from low to second or high.

It makes every speed change an instantaneous, noiseless snap—yet you use the clutch and gear lever exactly as in other cars.

That is why you will be amazed when you sit at the wheel of a Chandler and drive!

All models of the 1925 Chandler are powered by the famous Pikes Peak Motor and come equipped with extra-size balloon tires. Four-wheel brakes are optional at a moderate additional charge. Frank J. Kernan of Woburn had a narrow escape from serious injury last Sunday afternoon. The police were notified about 3 o'clock that a man had been injured on Cambridge street and was lying at the side of the road. Sergt. William Rogers and Officer James Farrell responded and found Kernan on Cambridge street near the gasoline filling station off Pond street. He was lying so that it was almost a miracle he had not been run over by some passing auto. He was taken to the station by the Police and in Woburn Court on Monday morning was fined $10 on a drunkenness charge.

Winchester's War Memorial

The Campaign to collect the funds for this Memorial opens on FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 14th

and closes

THANKSGIVING DAY

In accordance with the vote of the Town, this Memorial shall be paid for by public subscription. The committee of 500, who are giving their time and energy, can succeed only by the hearty co-operation of every inhabitant of Winchester.

WILL YOU PLEASE BE READY to cordially receive the solicitor when he calls upon you, and contribute willingly in upholding Winchester's patriotic record?

COMMITTEE ON WAR MEMORIAL

BIG MEETING TONIGHT

Memorial Committee to Hear Speakers and Receive Final Information

The final meeting of the Winchester War Memorial Committee, embracing about 500 workers who will start on the canvass for subscriptions next Friday, will be held this evening in the High School Assembly Hall. This marks the culmination of the plans formulated for the canvass, the various teams having been made up and officers, and the town divided into districts.

At this meeting chairman Lewis Parkhurst of the committee will preside. The speakers will include Joe Mitchell Chapple, editor of the National Magazine and known throughout the country for his patriotic spirit and speaking ability. He will be the leader in imparting to the body of solicitors the importance of their work and in expressing the appreciation of the thought back of the memorial. Other speakers who will be present include Mrs. Helen B. Emerson, president of the Fortnightly, and Rev. Allen Evans, Jr., rector of the Church of the Epiphany.

A musical program is to be given in connection with the meeting, the Winchester Laundry Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. T. Parker Clarke, playing selections.

The drive will open on the following Friday, Nov. 14, and will continue through Thanksgiving Day. The sum necessary for the erection of the Memorial will be quickly raised if all residents of the Town meet the solicitors willingly and cheerfully, and unite in doing their part in this closing act of the Town honoring its sons and daughters who gave their services in the Great War.

REPUBLICAN VOTE

Winchester Voted Strong All Through the Ticket

This town voted a strong Republican ticket at Tuesday's election. As usual, there was no question of any contest, the only point of interest here being the size of the Republican vote, and thanks to the activity of the Town Committee, and especially to the Women's Committee, a record vote was cast. So far as Winchester was concerned, there was no question whatever regarding the outcome. The fine weather undoubtedly helped much in the polling of the record vote, and there was a steady stream of voters at the Town Hall during the entire period allowed for voting. The morning rush was by far the biggest yet, the lines at one time extending out of the hall and part way up the street in front of the hall.

The interest centering in the State and country at large, Winchester's part creates only minor comment. The Town, nevertheless, did its part. The total vote cast was 4522, of which 2268 were men and 2254 women. This was a little better than 90 per cent of Winchester's voting strength. While the vote created a new record, it was but a small number larger than that of four years ago, when the percentage was a little under 90.

Coolidge polled 3377 votes and La Follette 200, with Davis in the middle with 665. Coolidge polled the record vote. The two Winchester candidates, Messrs. Bateman and Harris, received ample testimony to their popularity and the faith placed in them by their townspeople, each standing close to the head of the Republican ticket.

The first vote cast this year was that of Representative and Chairman of Selectmen Thomas R. Bateman. Mrs. Alonzo F. Woodside cast the second vote and the first for the women.

All of the political organizations in town worked hard through the day, and it is said that seldom has an election been better handled or a more thorough canvass made to get out the vote. All of the political headquarters were open and manned by a large staff of able workers.

MRS. CATHARINE A. FOLSOM

Mrs. Catherine Abbott Folsom, widow of the late Judge Samuel H. Folsom, a former registrar of probate at East Cambridge, died at her Cambridge home, 19 Ware street, Friday night. She was in her 97th year, and up to her death had been in excellent health and retained exceptional command of her faculties. She passed away in her sleep during the night.

Mrs. Folsom was a native of Monmouth, Me. She came to this town with her husband about 1870 and resided here until 1910, living on the estate bearing the Folsom name on Highland avenue. She was a past president of the Fortnightly, a past president of the Ladies' Friendly Society and an active worker and member of the Unitarian Church.

She is survived by three daughters, Miss Anna Abbott Folsom of Cambridge, Mrs. Charles E. Jamieson of Wollaston and Mrs. Lucius E. Marple of Seattle, Wash.

The funeral services were held at the Mt. Auburn chapel on Sunday afternoon, Rev. William I. Lawrence officiating. The interment was in Wildwood cemetery.

Mr. George B. Whitehouse has broken ground for a house on Wildwood street opposite Woodside road.

LADIES BOWL

The first afternoon of bowling for the ladies was held at the Calumet Club on Wednesday. There was a large attendance and the scores ran high.

Prizes were awarded the winners as follows:
Mrs. Chester F. Wolfe—High hat string 1st
Mrs. James P. Heaton—High with handicap 2nd and 3rd making 102.
Mrs. J. Frank Tuttle—High with handicap 3rd and 4th making 102.
Mr. Harold Smith—Consolation.

The next afternoon will be held on the first Wednesday in December. The committee in charge included Mrs. Willard T. Carleton and Mrs. John A. Maddocks.

BOWLING CONTEST NEXT WEEK

The bowling committee at the Calumet Club announce that next Friday evening, Nov. 14, a bowling match is to be held at the club alleys with Whalen and Pochler as the chief attractions. These two professionals will roll against two Calumet men in an exhibition game. Both Whalen and Pochler have been seen here before and are experts at the game, rolling particularly even. It is planned to make the evening an event on the alleys.

TWO MOTOR MISHAPS WED. NEDSAY

Two automobile accidents were reported at Police Headquarters on Wednesday. The first occurred in the square at five minutes before twelve in the morning when the Ford sedan owned by Mr. Albert Murdock of Hillside avenue and operated by Mrs. Emma B. Murdock of the same address was struck by a 5½ ton Mack truck in front of Piccolo's fruit store on Main street.

The Ford had been parked in front of the fruit store and was just attempting to swing out of line and into northerly traffic when it was hit by the big truck which was headed in the direction of Woburn. Fortunately the big machine which was loaded with coal and operated by George H. McCafferty of Woburn was going slowly or serious consequences might have resulted from the collision. As it was the sedan had only its left front tire and rim pulled off. No, the Mack truck was not damaged.

The second smash took place at 1:30 p. m. on Church street at the junction of Central and Wildwood streets. A Ford sedan owned and operated by John T. Way of Woburn and a Rex speed wagon owned and operated by Albert J. Young of Vine street were the parties of the first and second part in this accident and again no one was injured.

The Ford was coming from Wildwood street across Church street and into Central street while the Rex was operating west along Church street when the collision occurred. The Ford suffered a broken front wheel and also had one of its mudguards and its steering wheel smashed. The speed wagon was not damaged.

MISS JOY RECEIVED BROKEN ARM

Miss Minnie B. Joy of Washington street had the misfortune to fall and break her arm near the shoulder Saturday afternoon. Miss Joy was talking on the phone with Mr. J. A. Laraway. She was called down stairs, and asked him to wait in the conversation for a minute. Miss Joy, who uses crutches, took the phone down with her, placing it on the landing. In descending the remaining steps she fell. She called to Mr. Laraway, who went to the house immediately and gave her aid, calling the doctor and assisting in making her comfortable. An X-ray revealed she had break near the shoulder and she was removed to the Phillips House, Boston, where she will probably be obliged to remain for several weeks. It was particularly fortunate that she took the phone down stairs with her, as she was in the house alone, and had she left it at the head of the stairs, might have been without help for a long period.

POLICE RECOVER STOLEN CAR

While he was attending the supper of the Unitarian Men's Club last Tuesday evening in Metcalf Hall Mr. H. A. Wadleigh had his Packard touring car stolen from the place where it was parked in front of the Unitarian Church.

Mr. Wadleigh at once notified the Winchester Police who started an investigation resulting in the recovery of the car at about noon on Wednesday. The machine was discovered in Charleston.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

An afternoon of high-class music is featured for Monday, Nov. 10, at 2:30 in the Town Hall with Madame Florence Ferrell, soprano, Julius Durlewka, violinist and Chester Cuck, pianist. This will be an open meeting and all who have heard Madame Ferrell before will be glad of this opportunity to hear her again. Her beautiful voice and charming personality endears her to all music-lovers.

Mrs. Carl L. Schrader, chairman of the department of literature in the State Federation will be present at the meeting, Nov. 24 and will outline the work recommended by the State Federation for the study of drama among the club women as a part of the literary program of the year. Children's Book Week is to be observed in all parts of the country, Nov. 9 to 15. This year the "American Home" is the title of a new department in the General Federation of the Women's Clubs. How to make "Literature Serve Life," is to be the slogan for the coming months. As a means of development to the home, libraries, bookshops and schools will co-operate with the home drama. Children's Book Week in furnishing not only appropriate lists of books, suitable for young people, but books themselves, to be inspected and owned.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

The largest whist party held in town in many years greeted the efforts of the combined charitable and visiting committees of the Court last evening at its first whist in aid of this year's fall and winter charitable work. A list of the prize winners will be published in next week's issue of the Star.

Next Sunday afternoon in Lyceum Hall, the Court will stage a class initiation when about 40 new members will be admitted to the ranks of the Society. The 1st degree will be worked by the Degree Staff of Court St. Agnes of Arlington, in charge of its Grand Regent, Miss Anna B. Calahan.

Miss Mabel M. Coty, organist, will have charge of the entertainment which will follow the initiation and a buffet luncheon will be served. Many guests are expected from the surrounding Courts and Mrs. Marie Cunio Fallon, D. D., recent bride, will be the guest of honor.

Sister Mabel M. Kelley has returned from Bethel, Me., and is the guest of her mother on Hill street. Sister Mary Mayon on Hill street is reported as recovering from her recent illness.

The sympathy of the Court has been extended to Sister Annie Carney of Brookline, who suffered the loss of her nephew two weeks ago.

Thursday morning witnessed the removal from the Hill street house of a quantity of liquor captured by the Winchester Police, including the big haul of Belgian Alcohol made by Sergeant Rogers in the late summer. Two big trucks from the State Department of Public Safety were needed to take the load. The liquor will be confiscated by the State.

You are invited to attend Armistice Day observance at the Town Hall Sunday evening at 7:45. The program is well worth your presence.

EMBLEM CLUB NOTES

The long delayed rummage sale is scheduled for next Friday, Nov. 14, at 10 a. m. in Waterfield Hall. This will be the first affair run for the benefit of the Emblem Club and the proceeds will be used to establish a relief fund. Although the members have accomplished much in the short six months since the institution of the Club, it must be remembered that the work has been wholly and unselfishly for others. Now is the time to make a concerted effort to put the Emblem Club on a firmer financial basis, and the assistance of all well-wishers is earnestly solicited. The donation of a few second-hand articles from each member's friends will cost the donors nothing but a little time and effort well spent. Any one wishing to contribute may have their articles called for by notifying either of the joint-chairladies, Mrs. Anna W. Lochman, 16 Kenwin road, or Mrs. Mary E. O'Neil, 39 White street.

The testimonial banquet given by the Elks to the members of the Emblem Club, in recognition of services rendered at the Carnival, was greatly appreciated by all who attended. Nothing was left to be desired in the way of food, service, or entertainment, and it is well said of the Elks that when they give they give royally.

The next regular meeting of the Club will be held in Lyceum Hall Wednesday evening, Nov. 12. It will be a big night. Visitors from the Peabody Emblem Club are expected and every one should be there to extend them a welcome. Also, plans for the social season will be under discussion and arrangements made for the next initiation.

FATHERS AND MOTHERS, ATTENTION!

On Tuesday evening, Nov. 18, at the High School Assembly Hall at 8 o'clock, the Mothers' Association cordially invites fathers, mothers and teachers to hear Prof. Charles W. Towne, formerly of State Committee on Americanization, to talk in us about Americanism.

The "Lincoln Players" will furnish the music, and a social hour with refreshments will follow in the gymnasium. Teachers are requested to stand under their school names to receive parents. A very large attendance is desired. Any who are interested are invited to be present. Nov. 18, Tuesday, 8 p. m.

Officer James Farrell of the Winchester Police Department was complainant in the Motor Court Thursday morning against a Winchester resident whom he had arrested some two weeks previous charged with drunkenness, operating a car under the influence of liquor, and driving without a license. The man was found guilty and fined $75 on the operating charge, and the other two counts being placed on file.

Tickets may be had at the office of the Colonial Theatre or at the Charitable Irish Society, 40 Court street, Boston. The tickets are all reserved, and the prices range from 50 cents up to $2.

GREAT CONCERT IN BOSTON

Will Be Given at Colonial Theatre in Aid of a Worthy Charity

The Charitable Irish Society of Boston, of which Mr. Charles J. O'Malley is president, will give a Charity Concert at the Colonial Theatre, Boston, Sunday evening, Dec. 7, the proceeds of which will be used to help the needy during the coming winter.

The Charitable Irish Society is a non-sectarian organization established nearly 188 years ago. It helps worthy people of all denominations and is deserving of the support of every charitably-disposed person. The entertainment will be of the very highest artistic merit and all who attend will enjoy the program furnished by the best artists of the country at an admission price of very modest cost. All the leading artists who will appear at the Boston theaters during the week of Dec. 7 will take part in the entertainment, which promises to be one of the best ever staged in Boston at a benefit performance.

Tickets may be had at the office of the Colonial Theatre or at the Charitable Irish Society, 40 Court street, Boston. The tickets are all reserved, and the prices range from 50 cents up to $2.

The flags on the public buildings and the Common were at half-mast this week in respect to the late Fred Joy, former Town Counsel and member of many important town committees.

Frigidaire keeps the Food you eat—Colder—Better—Longer

Frigidaire electric refrigeration is not a substitute for ice. It is far better than ice. Frigidaire places within your home the most practical means known for obtaining real refrigeration—refrigeration that is safe, efficient, convenient, economical and modern.

The Frigidaire refrigerating coils are built in sizes and styles adaptable to your present ice-box or to any ice-box that you may select. Frigidaire refrigerating capacities will take care of boxes with food compartments ranging in size from ten to thirty-five cubic feet.

Crackers, salt and meats will keep in its dry air indefinitely, while the cost of maintenance is greatly reduced—about one-third the cost of ice.

The average cost of installation, complete, is $375. It is quickly and simply installed without inconvenience. There's a size for any ice box; large or small.

CONGREGATIONAL MEN DINE

The first full meeting and dinner together with the annual election of officers of the First Congregational Church of Winchester was held Tuesday evening in the church vestry.

One hundred and five members and guests were present at the tables which were presided over by the retiring president of the club, Mr. W. L. Parsons. The dinner was in charge of Group 4 of the church and was as usual, ably prepared and daintily served.

While the dinner was in progress and throughout the evening music was furnished by Mr. T. Parker Clarke's "Laundry Orchestra."

The chief item of interest in connection with the business session was the treasurer's report showing the sum of $92 raised largely by voluntary subscriptions, against the club's pledge for the building fund of the church.

During the evening Western Union reports together with radio broadcasts of election returns were received by the club, the reports and their significance being read and explained by Mr. William Adriance, a member of the State Republican Committee.

The new officers for the ensuing year include Mr. J. Harper Blaisdell, president and Mr. Robert E. Fay, treasurer.

PROPOSED MEMORIAL PRIDE TO THE TOWN

To the Editor of the Star:

The question of the War Memorial is in our minds, and Thanksgiving month is an appropriate time to make our contribution for this worthy community object. We forget so quickly the strain and stress of the war years and the sacrifices that were made for us by our soldiers and sailors. Every boy who died in that great struggle, stood in my place, I cannot forget that. And every boy that went was real to me in my place if the supreme sacrifice was called for. I cannot forget that. It is of first importance that we all remember those things, and our gratitude in a tangible form so that our children's children unto the third and fourth generations will know and be proud of.

The proposed Memorial will be a thing of beauty, a work of art, which will be a pride to our town for generations to come. Some will be slow to respond to this appeal because they wanted a more practical memorial. Let it be known that it is still true that, "man shall not live by bread alone." The practical we never intended to impoverish the beautiful. The stars, we might say, have been found useful even though we cannot literally hitch our wagons to them. The signs of the times indicate that some sort of community garage would have greater utility than a monument, but surely our souls are not so dead to the aesthetic and spiritual that we should prefer it.

This Memorial will be most worthy if every family in Winchester contributes something.

Sincerely yours,

Clifton H. Walcott

ST. MARY'S HOLY NAME SOCIETY

St. Mary's Holy Name Society held a spirited and extremely interesting meeting last Sunday evening in the school gymnasium. At this meeting the Reverend Director, Fr. Fitzgibbons, spoke on Referendum number 7, and of the ways and means to make the Holy Name Society, numbering more than 200 members, to one of the largest in the Diocese. To this end the assembly chose five executive members to conduct its social and plans for an increase in membership during the coming year: Joe McCauley heads this committee with Frank Duncen, Bob Sullivan, John O'Driscoll and Joe Blackman as his aids. The meeting was voted one of the best and augurs well for the future. At the December meeting officers for 1925 will be chosen.

BICYCLIST INJURED ON POND
STREET

Joseph Amari of Vine Court, Woburn, sustained cuts about the head when the bicycle on which he was riding, along Pond street was in collision with a Ford touring car owned and operated by Frank H. Larivee of Stoneham.

According to Larivee's account of the accident his machine was coming along Pond street from Woburn and was making a turn into Woodside road when Amari who was proceeding up Pond street collided with the rear end of the car. The wheel was badly smashed and Amari painfully but not seriously injured. He was removed to his home where his cuts were dressed.

WINCHESTER GOLF

Another fine Saturday brought out a goodly crowd for the annual golf at the Winchester Country Club. Four ball best ball play was in order with R. F. Whitney and J. A. Wheeler showing the way to the field with a net of 71. P. A. Hendrick and S. T. Hicks were second with 72. The first six scores follow:

MOTHERS' CLUB RECEPTION

An affair that brought forth much favorable comment was the second annual reception of the Mothers' Club held in White's Hall, Oct. 30.

The hall was beautifully and appropriately decorated for the occasion, in orange and black, with wiches an cats galore. Covers were laid for the 75 guests an members present at the affair, an elaborately decorated individual tables. Music was furnished by Yancey's Orchestra.

PASSED BOGUS CHECK

Last Monday for the second time within six months a bogus check man was in operation in Winchester. Several stores in various parts of the town were visited, but so far as can be ascertained in only one was the fraudulent purchaser successful.

His first stop of the day was at about 9 o'clock in the morning when he made a purchase at a local store and offered a check in payment. The check was refused whereupon the man asked to have his package delivered, mentioning a house on Cutting street, and promising payment upon delivery. He gave his name as Cunningham, and in each of the stores he visited he stuck to the same cognomen. Unfortunately there was no hurry about the delivery of this first order, and consequently the fraudulent nature of the individual was not discovered until later in the day.

About 4:30 in the afternoon he entered the John T. Connor Company's store on Washington street and ordered goods to the amount of $4.66. Again he offered a check in payment, and again it was refused. This time "Cunningham" gave his place of residence as Eaton street but the remainder of his story was substantially the same as it was in each other instance, promising to pay at his residence upon receipt of the goods. Mr. B. J. McCall, manager of the Connor store, became suspicious of the stranger when his delivery was unable to bring any one at the house mentioned by "Cunningham" on Eaton street. His suspicions became confirmed when he met a fellow tradesman of his locality who had a similar experience with the man.

Together they sought the Winchester Police, telling their story to Sgt. Cassidy who at once took charge of the man. A round of the stores in the square was quickly made, and it was found that several had received visits from the bogus check man, and in all instances his pretense had been identical. Arnold's Florist Shop, Kaufman Brothers, John T. Connor Co., The Winchester Star and the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. on Mr. Vernon street were among the stores visited, but in only the last named did the check passer meet with any success. In the latter store he got back change on a worthless check to the extent of more than five dollars.

Fortunately the police were notified of the man's operations quickly enough to apprehend him, his delivery story throwing the merchants off their guard. Cunningham is described as a man about 30 to 32 years of age, about five feet six inches in height, and weighing about 145 lbs. He is of light complexion, and wore a blue suit with hutton of the American Legion, and a gray cap.

In getting in touch with the police of surrounding places the Winchester Department found that the man is wanted in connection with similar activities in Stoneham, Wakefield and Arlington, among other places. Police throughout greater Boston have been placed on the lookout for "Cunningham" and all store keepers of the vicinity have been warned to be on guard against the man.

WINCHESTER X-RAY
EQUIPMENT

The installation of the new and very complete X-ray apparatus by the Victory X-ray Corporation was completed Oct. 31. Every modern improvement is incorporated in the equipment. Several patients of the hospital, waiting for treatment, have already been cared for.

This large machine has cost $6,400 and can do work of the greatest precision. In accident cases, pictures can be taken and conclusions drawn 10 minutes after the exposure is made. It is probable that this department will serve more and more patients of Middlesex County as time goes on.

All forms of diagnosis and treatment will be done by Dr. Robert G. Vance, Roentgenologist for the Winchester Hospital. Dr. Vance was recently a member of the X-ray Staff of the Massachusetts General Hospital and is now Roentgenologist at the Huntington Hospital, Harvard Medical School. The possession of this most up-to-date machine will enable the hospital to greatly broaden its field of usefulness to the community.

The gift of this X-ray equipment to the hospital during the recent campaign was the largest individual contribution received. It is most gratifying to the hospital board that Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Houghton, though not residents of Winchester, should have had the interests of the hospital so much at heart that they could pledge generously to the Stoneham contribution in the campaign.

The X-ray department, at the present time, consists of three rooms. The largest room contains the X-ray table, which may be tilted to any position from that of horizontal to that of upright. The high tension current is brought from the transformer to the X-ray tube by means of brass trolleys which are suspended from the ceiling. The transformer, after receiving the street current of 220 volts, is capable of increasing the voltage to 140,000 volts. The highest voltage will be employed in treating cases of deep-seated malignancy.

A second and smaller room is employed as a dark room for the development of the X-ray plates. This room is large tanks of the necessary developing material which stand ready for use at any moment. The third room contains the transformer, the rectifying switch and its propelling motor.

The Winchester Hospital now stands ready to extend its services to a new field of development.

The Winchester High School second team defeated the Stoneham second team Monday afternoon in a football game at Stoneham, 20-12. This was a big improvement over the last game which the locals lost, 2-0. McCarthy starred for Winchester making several runs for big gains. It is hoped to have this dusky speed boy square with the office in time for the game with Melrose.

SEARCH FOR HERO

Honors Await U. S. Visitor for River Rescue

The Liverpool Shipwreck and Humane Society's silver medal and certificate of honor were awarded to Mr. George W. Winchester, Mass., at Chester, who is traveling the country and whose whereabouts are not known.

The Chester magistrates on Friday presented the medal and certificate to Mr. John Edward Harrison, of George terrace, Chester, who with the assistance of Mr. Elder, saved Mr. Harold Anderson, of Saughall Massie, and Miss Sarah Broughton, of Anson street, Liverpool, from drowning.

The couple were in a boat on the Dye when they got in front of a steamer and were capsized. Mr. Harrison and Mr. Elder were on the bank, and, seeing the couple struggling in the water, took off their coats and jumped in to the water.

The police have ascertained that Mr. Elder left Chester after the rescue for Wharfedale, but since then they have been unable to trace him.

Mr. Theo. P. Wilson,

Winchester Star,

Winchester, Mass.

Dear Sir:

While reading an English paper the other day, I happened across the above enclosed article.

Some years ago I attended the Wadleigh Grammar School with Samuel Elder, Jr., and as far as I can recollect, his was the only family in Winchester by that name. Thinking possibly that he may be connected with the incident mentioned in the article, I thought it advisable to send it to you for whatever action you deemed necessary.

Of course the incident may have been made public some time ago and the fact that Mr. Elder has a medal coming to him may be no news to him; but in the event that all this is to the contrary, I felt it wise to have you attend to the matter through whatever steps you deemed necessary.

I might add here that the Elder involved may not be in any way connected with the family I have in mind, but the fact remains, however, that there is a Winchester person in the role of a hero, which would make interesting reading to the people of Winchester.

Formerly of Winchester, and Respectfully yours,

Richard W. MacAdams

FIREMEN SPEND BUSY WEEK.
END

Though the Winchester Fire Department were not kept particularly busy on the evening of last Friday when business was rather expected to be brisk, the week-end was one of exceptional activity for fire fighters. Two calls Saturday afternoon and four on Sunday made up a schedule that exceeded any two days for some little time.

Fortunately none of the fires were serious. The first occurred on Saturday at 11 p. m. at Sylvester's swamp off Clark street where the bull-rushes were set afire by youngsters of the neighborhood. An hour later a boy's camp in a vacant lot off Middlesex street became ignited and started some grass and brush in the field. Both these fires were quickly extinguished without damage excepting to the camp.

Sunday's first call came at 10:20 a. m. from the Ginn estate on Bacon street where an apple tree was set afire apparently by hot cinder from a passing train. Two hours later the department was summoned to the residence of Mr. Joshua Philpott on Myrtle terrace where a brush fire had gotten beyond control. At 3:45 p. m. there was a rubbish and grass fire on the town property off Irving street, and at 5:25 some boys set another fire at Sylvester's swamp, this time in the rear of the town stables. The last call came at 9:20 in the evening for the first fire of the town to mention a dwelling of the town. Ladder 1 responded to a telephone call for a chimney fire at 89 Swanton street in the house owned and occupied by R. Vizzella. While the apparatus was on the way some one pulled in box 28 for the same fire which was quickly put out without much damage.

Because of the excessive dryness due to the long drought no permits for brush fires are being issued at the local headquarters and citizens are warned to exercise the greatest care in throwing lighted matches or other objects into places where they may ignite inflammable material.

CARS BUMP ON MT. VERNON
STREET

At 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon of election day Mrs. Frances Conlon of Russell road was driving her Maxwell touring car easterly along Mt. Vernon street accompanied by Mrs. Roger Noonan and Mrs. William McDonald.

When in vicinity of the Town Hall the Maxwell was in collision with the machine of Mr. Jonas A. Laraway of Main street who was in the act of turning around also to go east along Mt. Vernon street.

No one was injured but one of the mudguards on the Maxwell car was damaged.

Artistic Day celebrations are not passing out, but with the encouragement of President Coolidge, are taking on more important features. The tendency seems to be to make Artistic Day a Peace Day. This does not mean that the faculties are to be given the right of way with their peace at any price policy. There is too prevalent a notion that the churches incline to lean toward some such week-end world peace plan. The churches no doubt do have in peace their leader is the "Prince of Peace," and yet their concern is for a righteously peace. Probably the best definition of peace which we can find is, "Peace is a sense of harmony which arises from right relations." The problem of the churches is to bring about a condition of right relation between man and his maker, between individuals, nations and social classes. This is no small contract. Human wisdom cannot bring it about alone. The churches are essentially right. This is a question of religion. The "peace that passeth understanding" is the only peace which can give the needs of humanity. And this peace is "no weak and pallid negative," it is positive and constructive. Some modern cynic has said that this age is more afraid of blood than it is of sin. It will be a sorry day for the world if the time ever comes when physical disaster is more feared than moral and spiritual decline.

WHEN YOU START THE FURNACE

When you start the furnace keep the windows open to keep the air moist. The air may be made moist in several ways. If the house is heated by the hot water system, pans of water may be placed on the radiators. If it is a hot air system with registers on the walls, a pan of water may be set inside the register. With the registers on the floor, the water should be set on top of the register, leaving part free to allow the air to rise. Dry air makes dry skins and scalps and irritates the respiratory tract. Then we wonder why we are troubled with never-ending colds. A good deal of the trouble is caused by boxing ourselves in a stuffy house. Fresh air is necessary in the winter as well as in the summer. Why not have it?

LINCOLN SCHOOL TO BE DEDICATED SUNDAY—JUDGE LEVERONI THE SPEAKER

An event which has been anticipated by townpeople for several months will take place on Sunday, Nov. 9, at 3:30 p. m. when the Lincoln School will be officially dedicated.

This school, has been in existence since the resumption of school activities in September and from the beginning the pupils there have taken a very real pride in their membership at the "Lincoln."

This new school, situated on Westley street upon the site of the old Holton property, was erected at a cost of $150,000. The expenditure for purchase and grading the land was $18,500 and for the furnishings $25,000, a total investment of $173,500. There are ten large well-lighted and well-ventilated standard class rooms, each of which accommodate 35 pupils. A model kindergarten and an Americanization class room are conspicuous features. Shower baths, playgrounds, a ball field, and a further touch of distinctiveness to this fine institution. An assembly hall, which will seat 100 people, has been erected on Washington street. Incidentally, the Lincoln is one of the very few primary schools in the state which boasts an assembly hall. There are also a nurse's room, a rest room and an office for the principal. The building is of Northern Italian

FRED JOY

Honorable Fred Joy, one of Winchester's well known and most respected citizens, died at his home on Washington street on Monday, Nov. 3. He was born in this town and has always lived here. He was a lawyer as his father had been before him. His office was at 6 Beacon street, Boston, where he made a specialty of probate work and caring for estates. He had many clients in Winchester especially among the older citizens of the town who had great confidence in his careful and conservative advice.

Mr. Joy was a graduate of Harvard in the class of '81 and of the Boston University Law School, class of '84. He has occupied many positions of trust and responsibility in this town. He was a member of the House of Representatives in 1893 and a member of the Senate in 1899 and 1900, representing the fifth senatorial district. For many years he had been a valuable member of the board of trustees of the Winchester Savings Bank, his father having been one of the charter members of that bank. At the time of his death he was one of the vice presidents of the bank and a member of the board of investment where he had served for many years. Mr. Joy was a member of the Harvard Clubs of New York and Boston and the Boston City Club. He was especially interested in the collection of coins and was a member of both the local and the national numismatic organizations and at the time of his death was vice president of the larger body. Mr. Joy was a bachelor and survived by three sisters, Mrs. Irving P. Fox of Lexington and Miss Minnie B. Joy and Miss Alice Joy, both of Winchester.

Funeral services were conducted at his late residence on Washington street, Thursday afternoon by the Rev. Howard J. Chidley, assisted by two of Mr. Joy's clergymen, the Rev. Frederic Stoughton of Milton and Rev. John W. Souter, formerly of Winchester. In the passing of Fred Joy, Winchester loses an honorable and loyal citizen and his many friends a genial and whole hearted comrade.

CONGREGATIONAL BAZAAR

This evening will see the close of a most successful two day Bazaar, held under the auspices of the Women's Guild of the First Congregational Church in the Town Hall.

The Bazaar opened Thursday forenoon and has been well patronized from the start with the largest gathering of all looked for tonight. The general lay-out is excellent with booths and tables arranged about the large Town Hall, with the smaller hall given over to tables for the serving of a most attractive luncheon. More than 200 were served on Thursday noon, with more expected Friday.

Decorations are unusually effective, the hall having rarely appeared to better advantage for a similar event.

Among the unusual features of the Bazaar is the grab and white elephant booth which is in the form of a well, into which the purchaser lowers a basket to pull out whatever fortune decrees his lot is to receive.

Special mention should be made of the exhibit the both of the S. S. Pierce Company of Boston which is one of the finest of the Bazaar. Special representatives of the Company have been in attendance including Salesmanager Henry Warren of this town, and Messrs. Arthur A. Howett and D. E. Rice.

Music was furnished on Thursday evening by the Lincoln Players and an attractive entertainment is promised for tonight in charge of Mrs. W. H. Gilpatrick.

In general charge of the Bazaar is a committee consisting of Mrs. Cutler B. Downer, president; Mrs. Maurice F. Brown, vice president; Mrs. George H. Hamilton, vice president; and Mrs. James Nowell, treasurer.

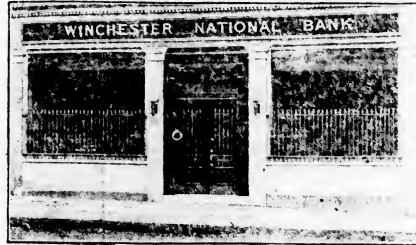

These have been assisted by more than 500 members of the Women's Guild with the following in charge of the special departments:

Decorations—Mrs. E. S. Seaver
Entertainment—Mrs. W. H. Gilpatrick
Food—Mrs. Louis E. Stoddard

A MEMORIAL FOR ALL

To the Editor of the Star:
Any piece of sculpture, any painting, or any other work of art is but the embodiment of the creative thought of the artist. When we see the finished object itself we are likely, unless we stop to think of it, to forget that this is so. The sculptor of the Winchester War Memorial, Mr. Herbert Adams, brings to the task which he knows means so much to all of us not only his remarkable skill as a sculptor, but also a broad vision of the fundamental meaning which the memorial ought to possess. It seems worth while, no doubt, that he has been living with the problem for more than a year, to renew our acquaintance with the sculpture's original concept. The following is a letter just received from Mr. Adams on the subject:

"I am glad the idea I had in regard to the Winchester memorial was that it should be a memorial to all who gave their lives in the war, regardless of the branch of service which they belonged; to symbolize the principles for which they fought; Humanity and Justice; by two figures bearing a cross and in memory of those whose names are inscribed on the pedestal upon which they stand."

HOUSEBREAKER SENTENCED

James Nelson, alias Louis A. Brown, alias Louis A. Nelson, alias James Dalton, the housebreaker who was interrupted by Officer Daniel Kelley of the Winchester Police Department while in the act of burglarizing the residence of Mrs. Annie A. Page of Bacon street on the evening of Monday, Oct. 6, and arrested by Motorcycle Officer Edward O'Connell on Cambridge street near the Country Club was sentenced Thursday afternoon in the Superior Court at East Cambridge.

Nelson drew from three to five years in State Prison on charges of breaking and entering.

The man is the possession of quite a police record, having been first sentenced in New York under the name of Fred Smith to 2½ to 5 years in Sing Sing with a fine of $250 for burglary in 1911.

In 1922 he was sentenced to 2 years imprisonment in Boston for larceny and larceny, being transferred from Suffolk Jail to Deer Island when he escaped before the expiration of his term.

He was later arrested in St. John, N. B., and drew a sentence of 22 months in the Penitentiary at Dorchester for burglary.

After serving part of this time Nelson was released for the purpose of deportation to the United States. He was removed again to Deer Island from which he had escaped and was released from that place the first of last January.

STEPHEN ROBERTS

Older residents of Winchester, particularly of the Highlands district, learned with regret that Stephen Roberts, a well-known character of the town since the days of the Civil War, had passed away early Thursday morning at the Winchester Hospital of infirmities caused by his advanced age. He was 82 years old.

Born a slave at Shreveport, La., in 1842, little is known of his early life, but at the time of the Civil War he became attached as an orderly to the late Nathaniel Richardson of this town, then a Brevet Major in the Union Army. Throughout the war of the rebellion he remained with Major Richardson, and at the cessation of hostilities accompanied him to Winchester where he remained in the service of the Richardson family until the Major's death.

Mr. Roberts was for many years a janitor in the Winchester schools and will be remembered by most of the older graduates for his cheerful disposition and willingness to serve. He was a member of the First Congregational Church until the Bethany Chapel on Cross street was built in 1887. At that time he became a charter member of the Second Congregational Church, and report has it that he turned the first shovel full of dirt for the cellar of the building.

Of a splendid upright character, "Stephen," as he was known to many, was universally respected and beloved. His cheerful disposition endeared him to all with whom he came in contact and his passing is a source of regret to his many friends.

Funeral services were held this afternoon in the Second Congregational Church on Cross street at 2 o'clock conducted by the Rev. John E. Whitely, pastor of the church. The interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

FOOTBALL TOMORROW AT WOBURN

Tomorrow afternoon Winchester High will play what many local sport followers consider its biggest football game of the season when it will journey to Woburn to clash with the Orange and Black eleven in a league contest on Library "Park" starting at 3 o'clock.

Both teams are out to win, and on paper seem evenly matched. Woburn is a tough club to "take" on their home ground and will have its full strength for tomorrow's game.

It is doubtful whether "Wop" Rolli will be in shape to start as he is nursing a bad leg hurt in a practice game with Saugus. The Winchester eleven will be considerably weakened by his absence from the lineup. Dabney, the big line man, who was out of the Woburn contest will be in the starting lineup at his old tackle berth.

The local boys are out to give everything they have to defeat Woburn, and should hold their own with any kind of a break in luck.

Couch Roberts has announced his tentative starting lineup as follows:

Ends, Robinson and O'Donnell; tackles, Capt. Cassidy and Dabney; guards, Hegel and Johnson; center, Melley; quarterback, Rolli or Colucci; halfbacks, Harriman and Knowlton; fullback, Halwartz.

MOTHERS' CLUB SECOND ANNIVERSARY

On Thursday evening, Oct. 20, the members of the Winchester Mothers' Club held their second anniversary reception in White's Hall. The hall was attractively trimmed for the occasion with Halloween decorations.

The early part of the evening was spent in receiving and dancing and at 10 o'clock the members escorted their guests to their respective tables which were artistically decorated with Halloween trimmings, candlesticks and favors. A delicious collation was served after which the dancing was resumed.

A most enjoyable evening was spent by all and the guests departed at a late hour. The affair was a huge success due to the untiring efforts of the social committee consisting of Mrs. Clara Robinson, chairman; Mrs. Edna Hunt, Mrs. Florence Corlies, Mrs. Jessie Richards, Mrs. S. Barksdale and Mrs. Edith Beasley.

The members of the Mothers' Club are planning to hold another food sale during Thanksgiving week. Watch the Star for the date and location.

The work of tearing down the building on the Mount Vernon street side of the First Baptist Church has been commenced. It is proposed to put the new church addition upon the ground cleared.

DID YOU KNOW THAT

The ignorance of the average man in matters pertaining to the negro, is appalling, when we consider the fact that one tenth of the total population of this country is colored.

In fact, colored people compose one fourth of the total of native-born Americans. It is plain that they are too large a factor to be overlooked. According to the latest available data negroes in United States own 700,000 homes, conduct 70,000 businesses enterprises and have accumulated property valued in excess of $1,500,000,000. This is being increased at an average rate of $50,000,000 a year.

The negro operates over 1,000,000 farms. He owns more than 22,000,000 acres of land, an area greater than that of the five New England States of New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island. Although commonly regarded as a tenant race the records show that one home out of every four occupied by negroes is owned by the occupant. Know your country, read and be informed.—(Contributed).

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

You are invited to attend Armistice Day observance at the Town Hall Sunday evening at 7:45. The program is well worth your presence.

The Winchester Police were notified last Sunday night at 12 o'clock that a free or all fight was in progress in a house on Middlesex street. Officers James Donaghey, Eugene Danahy and John Hogan were sent to investigate, and upon arriving upon the scene of the disturbance took into custody three Woburn men who they charged with drunkenness and disturbing the peace. In the District Court Monday all the defendants were found not guilty on the disturbance charge, but two of them were convicted of drunkenness and fined $5.

HALLOWEEN GENERALLY QUIET

Winchester's observance of Halloween was one of the quietest in years. The weird evening scared to the broomstick mounted witen and dusky kitty, hailed with delight or viewed with concern according to one's age or viewpoint, passed over the town with no due excitement and without occasioning particular activity on the part of the community's guardians, the firemen and police.

To be sure there were here and there instances of the exuberant spirits of youth getting beyond the bounds of reason. Several mail boxes on the upper end of Forest street were knocked down and another resident of the same vicinity dumped a large sign board which was evidently "spirited" away from the premises. In the vicinity of Mystic avenue the activities of the revelers seemed centered about the garbage pails of the various dwellings, several being removed and placed in more or less unsuitable places. It was fortunate that one piece of thoughtlessness in the same neighborhood was not productive of serious results. A collapsible clothes reel was removed from its moorings in the rear of one of the houses on Essexwell road and deposited in the street in such a manner as to make it quite possible to cause a had accident, should a swift moving motor car come upon it unawares. The reel was removed to a place of safety by pedestrians whose more mature judgment saw its dangerous possibilities. Here and there throughout the town windows in vacant houses were subjected to rough treatment, a notable instance being on Middlesex street where some ten lights of glass were broken.

There were but two instances of destruction of property in which it was necessary for the police to interfere. In connection with a complaint from Mr. D. W. Woodford on Cliff street, Officer Edward O'Connell escorted a boy to the local station house where he was turned over to his father after a warning from the authorities. Again in the vicinity of Crescent road Officer John Hogan was obliged to take a hand in curtailing the activities of another boy who was armed with an air rifle and whose particular idea of a pleasant evening was smashing street light bulbs.

In the main, however, vandalism on the part of the youthful merry-makers was taboo. There were three alarms of fire, all of which were probably a part of the evening's festivities, but they were all bona fide, and compared well with the dozen or so false alarms of a year ago.

There were many Halloween parties, both public and private throughout the town, especially fine affairs being arranged by the Calumet Club and the Winchester Grange.

Two complaints were received by the Police on last Friday of an air rifle dog belonging to a family on Central street, the first to the effect that the animal was causing considerable annoyance by chasing automobiles. The second was more serious, and charged that the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy M. Sargent had been bitten by the dog while riding his bicycle along Church street. The owner of the air rifle was warned by the Police to keep the animal tied up.

WINCHESTER LOSSES CLOSE GAME

Once more the goals of war refused to smile on the local football team and once more the Winchester eleven lost another tough game, this time to Watertown High School 7-0, on the latter's gridiron at Victory Field, Watertown.

It was a dandy game to watch and the Winchester rosters had small reason to be ashamed of the fight which their team waged against "Johnnie" Macdonald's boys. When you get right down to statistics the locals actually gained more yards than their opponents, registering 10 first downs to the latter's 6. Winchester showed its best game of the year, and with a little better cut in the deal of "breaks" would have pulled out in a tie at least. Coach Roberts was handicapped on his scrimmage line with Halney, his big right tackle, on the injured list, being forced to play a boy with scant experience in his place.

Winchester started like a sure winner. On the kick-off the locals ran the ball back ten yards and immediately launched an offense that ripped off three first downs in quick succession on a series of line bucks with Rolli and Halwart carrying the ball. With the attack working smoothly a first down was rolled off at the Watertown 15 yard line where the locals fumbled and lost the ball.

Watertown got going in their turn and plugged along to the enemy's country and the Winchester defense stiffened and piled up three attempts at the line with a scant 2 yard gain. On the fourth down with eight yards to go a pass was perfectly apparent, yet the Watertown hunk pulled their forward and put away with it for a touchdown. 1-0 to the visitors but that this score might have been prevented by a more alert defense. O'Brien went over for the touchdown with Specht adding the point for goal.

The remainder of the first half found neither team having much of an advantage. Watertown rushed once well down to the locals' goal and with a stiff last ditch stand took the ball on downs, and toward the end of the quarter Winchester got going and took the ball into the enemy's country on a nice bunch of end runs and off tackle plays in which "Wop" Rolli got loose several times for good gains. The half ended with the play was in mid-field with both clubs showing a stubborn defense that refused to allow either attack to get going.

At the beginning of the last quarter Watertown apparently started again and had taken the ball to the locals' 30 yard mark when by Melley intercepted a forward pass and by a stiff last ditch stand took the ball on downs, and toward the end of the quarter Winchester got going and took the ball into the enemy's country on a nice bunch of end runs and off tackle plays in which "Wop" Rolli got loose several times for good gains. Next Thursday, Nov. 13, there will be a meeting of the Florence Crittenton Circle at the First Congregational Church, and it is hoped that a large number of the members will be on hand to assist in the sewing up that day. A luncheon will be served at 12:30.

Mr. and Mrs. K. M. Walters (Helen Elliott) of Wollaston entertained 15 couples at their home on Marlboro street, on Halloween evening. Many novel games and surprises were in store for the gathering, guests coming from all the five New England States for the occasion. Everyone enjoyed themselves.

GAS HOLDERS—PART 3

Some people have an idea that the gas holder is a dangerous piece of apparatus to the public, but there is no possibility of explosion which is thought by some people to exist in the gas holder. In order to support combustion it is necessary to have oxygen present and there is no oxygen present, nothing but gas, on the inside of a gas holder. If it were possible to take a flame and place it in quickly into the interior of the gas holder all that would happen would be that the flame itself would be extinguished, as there would be no oxygen present to support combustion. It is necessary to periodically lubricate the various rollers which guide the lifts of the holder in the guide frame, and during winter months, while people are at home enjoying the evening before a good warm fire, the gas man during snow storms is very frequently on the crown of the holder removing and shoveling off the snow. It is necessary to keep the snow from the crown of the holder in order to keep the pressure in the holder below an excessive amount.

GOOD YEAR

HALLOWEEN FIRES

The Winchester Fire Department was called out last Friday evening for three fires. The first was at 11:15 p. m. at the station, and in each instance the call was for an actual fire. There were no false alarms.

This record shows a big improvement over last fall, as the department was called out 18 times, only six of the alarms being for fires. Possibly this remarkable falling off in the number of false alarms was due to the fact that the greater number of boxes were rather closely watched during the evening by the local authorities, but we prefer to believe that the youthful merry-makers have at last seen the injustice and danger of calling out the firemen without need of their services.

The first fire of the afternoon was at 4:51, the alarm being sounded for a blaze at the old H. S. House on Swanston street. The fire was apparently caused by some one throwing a match into some dried leaves that had been blown in around the foundation of the building, and was put out with little damage.

At 8:20 p. m. the department was called out on a "stiff" for a fire in a vacant lot next to Gilchrist's Garage on Main street. The blaze which was caused by the burning of rubbish, evidently the work of youngsters, was quickly extinguished and caused no trouble.

The last alarm was at 9:20 in the evening. A wagon had been drawn by youthful merry-makers to Bordwell street and set on fire as a part of a local celebration. Parts of both the Winchester and Woburn Fire Departments responded to the call, but the wagon was a total loss.

CAPTAIN MACMILLAN'S LECTURE WILL BE INTERESTING

Captain Donald MacMillan who is to speak in the Winchester Town Hall on the evening of Jan. 3, 1925, has just begun his winter lecture tour. He has ten new roles of remarkable moving pictures. These pictures, some future day, will not doubt be one of the authentic sources for a history of the Lost Races of the Earth. The South Greenland Eskimo women in their lovely beaded costumes, the shy, solemn-faced Eskimo children, the sturdy, intelligent men of this far northern people are shown in all their games and daily labors. Can you use your toes when you see? Can Eskimo women teach you 12 you watch her carefully. Can you slide down hill without any sled? Eskimo boys will show you how. Can you shoot holes in your automobile, so as to lash it together again, if you have had an accident, are a thousand miles from nowhere and have no tools? You can see how Eskimo drivers manage it after a sledging has been in a smash-up on a glacier. All these things are shown in Captain MacMillan's moving pictures.

Last Saturday he talked to 1200 Malden school children. Such laughter, such shouts and such tense excitement! The lecture in Winchester on a Saturday evening this year. Every child over 12 years old ought to be there.

LIKED WINCHESTER

Rev. Fr. Vincent E. Smyth, O. C. C., known in religious circles as Fr. Elsen, a prominent member of the Carmelite Order, returned to his duties at the Church of Our Lady of the Scapular, in New York last Saturday after a two weeks' visit in Winchester. He was the guest of his aunt, Mrs. James Donaghey of Water street.

He was born in County Mayo, Ireland and became an honor student at the National University of Ireland. Later he took a course in philosophy and theology at the College of St. Albert, the Carmelite International College at Rome, and was ordained in May 1923. He was first stationed at the Carmelite College at Middleton, N. Y. as Professor of English and Mathematics, later being transferred to the Church of Our Lady of the Scapular.

Father Smyth reported himself as greatly pleased with Winchester, being much impressed with the general layout and points of historic interest as pointed out in several trips around the town conducted personally by officer James P. Donaghey of the Winchester Police.

AN INVITATION

The ladies of the Methodist Episcopal Church invite their friends and neighbors to the first Fair to be held in the Assembly Hall of the new church on Thursday and Friday, Nov. 20 and 21.

On Thursday the Young Women's Club will conduct a Tea Room and other activities.

Dinner will be served on Friday night, at 6.30. For tickets to the dinner, please apply to Mrs. B. F. Miner, tel. 0165-W.

ASSISTED IN DESIGNING COSTUMES FOR MT. HOLYOKE SHOW

Miss Harriet J. Eustis of 83 Church street, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Eustis, was a member of the committee which designed and executed many of the costumes used in "What's in a Name?", the annual junior show presented by the Class of 1924 at Mt. Holyoke College Saturday night in the Chapin Auditorium. The show was a modernized version of Shakespeare, with, according to the prologue, "the essentials of the bard, with all left out that used to make him hard."

All of the above sales and rentals were made through the office of A. Miles Holbrook.

ELIZABETH C. MILLER

A former resident of the town, Mrs. Elizabeth C. Miller died at her home in South Weymouth Wednesday, Nov. 12, in her 60th year. She was the wife of Mr. Frank E. Miller, a well-known local business man.

Funeral services will be held at the chapel in Mt. Auburn Cemetery Saturday, Nov. 15, at 2 p. m.

Mr. John G. Allen has reported the sale of the "R" Momi by Commodore Sydney A. Beggs of the Corinthian Yacht Club to Mr. W. P. Yacht Club.

CHARLOTTE ANN MCINTOSH

Charlotte Ann McIntosh, wife of Chief of Police William R. McIntosh and a widely known resident of the town, passed away last Tuesday noon at her home on Stone avenue after an illness of more than a year. She was 59 years of age.

Mrs. McIntosh was born at Newtown, Conn., in 1865, the daughter of Boody and Jane (Stewart) Sherburne. Before coming to Winchester she made her home in Woburn for several years. In 1906 she was married to William R. McIntosh and seven years later removed to Winchester.

During the 27 years of her life here Mrs. McIntosh made for herself such a place in the affections of those who knew her as to leave a host of friends to mourn her passing, while her spirit of cheerfulness and readiness to serve will be missed by all with whom she had come in contact.

She was a member of the First Congregational Church of Winchester, the Western Missionary and Mission Union Societies of that body, the Winchester Chapter Order of the Eastern Star, and the Fortnightly Women's Club.

Besides her husband, Mrs. McIntosh is survived by two daughters, Miss Leah S. McIntosh of Winchester, and Mrs. Earl W. Douth of Boonsboro, Md.; a granddaughter, Janet Ann Douth; a sister Mrs. Charles E. Eaton of North Woburn; and two brothers, William A. and Charles B. Sherburne, both of Woburn.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at the late residence, conducted by the Rev. Howard J. Chibley, pastor of the First Congregational Church. The attendance of relatives and friends taxed the capacity of the house to the utmost while the abundance of beautiful flowers paid tribute to the esteem in which the deceased was held. Among them were pieces from the local chapter of the Eastern Star, the Fortnightly, the A. H. McIntosh Co., the Western Missionary Society, the Mission Union, and the Winchester Police Department which was also represented by a delegation of its members.

During the services Miss E. Myra Smith sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," and "Sometime We Will Understand."

The bearers were all nephews of Mrs. McIntosh and included Dr. W. Haven Sherburne, Charles B. Sherburne, Fraser Sherburne, Stewart Sherburne, Kenneth Sherburne, and Earl Sherburne, all of Woburn.

Interment was in the McIntosh family lot at Woodbrook Cemetery, Woburn, where the committal prayers were read by the Rev. Dr. Chibley.

MARY CONROY

Mrs. Mary Conroy, wife of Mr. Michael Conroy and mother of the late Fr. William Edward Conroy, assistant chancellor to Cardinal O'Connell at the Cathedral in Boston, passed away after a week's illness at her home on Lloyd street last Thursday noon. She was 66 years of age, and had been in failing health for some time.

Mrs. Conroy was born in Ireland, the daughter of Michael and Hannah (Sullivan) Shae. She came to this country when a young girl, and much of her life prior to coming to Winchester was spent in Weston, where she was prominent in Catholic circles being one of the founders of the new church at that place.

Upon coming to Winchester some four years ago she continued her interest in the church, becoming an active worker among the women of St. Mary's Parish as a member of the Ladies' Sodality of the Church. Though comparatively young, she was a member of the church, and had enjoyed a wide-spread popularity, and her death came as a distinct shock to her many friends.

Largely attended funeral services were held Monday morning at the late residence at 10 o'clock, followed by a mass at 10.15 a. m. at St. Mary's Church. Rev. Fr. Joseph M. Fitzgibbon of St. Mary's was the celebrant, assisted by Rev. Fr. William Cronin and the Rev. Fr. William Dacy of the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, Boston, and the Rev. Fr. Richard Powers of the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, Boston.

The bearers were six classmates at Boston College of her late son, the Rev. Fr. William Conroy, who died some two years ago.

Interment was in St. Paul's Cemetery, Arlington, where the committal prayers were read by the Rev. Fr. Neil Cronin and the Rev. Fr. William Dacy of the Cathedral of the Holy Cross.

AFTERNOON BRIDGE

There was a large attendance at the "afternoon bridge" at the Calumet Club on Wednesday afternoon, there being 30 tables of cards and a number of visitors. The hall was attractive with decorations of autumn leaves and refreshments were served by a group of young ladies in charge of Miss Helen Howe, including Mrs. Mary's, Waltham, Dorothy Sawyer, Ruth Bowen, Dorothy Aseltine and Elizabeth Stretch.

Prize winners included Mrs. S. M. Best, Mrs. W. D. Davis, Mrs. M. B. Abbott, Mrs. J. A. Jones, Mrs. A. D. Rogers, Mrs. Charles F. Brown, Mrs. Kimball of Newton and Mrs. C. W.

The committee in charge of the bridge consisted of Mrs. William H. Rogers, Mrs. F. D. Hollins, Mrs. Arthur E. Sanford, Mrs. Robert F. Whitney, Mrs. Frank W. Jones.

The first instalment of the list of subscribers to the War Memorial Fund will be printed in the Star of next week.

BADLY DAMAGED BY FIRE MONDAY AFTERNOON

The Winchester Boat Club was badly damaged by a fire of unknown origin on Monday afternoon, the hall at the club being gutted inside, with the loss of many flags, trophies and a valuable collection of the prompt work of the firemen saved the club house from destruction.

The fire had evidently smouldered for a long time; possibly from the day previous, as newspapers with Sunday's date on them were found in the house. It originated in the club hall on the second floor, starting in a window seat extending out over the canoe runway. When the firemen arrived the flames had broken out and the hall was a mass of fire and smoke. In fact every crevice about the house was leaking smoke, while the inside was thick with it from the ground floor to the attic.

The club house was closed for the season Nov. 1 and all accessible windows, together with the doors, were hoisted up for the winter. The house contained 80 canoes on the first floor, with the kitchen, steward's quarters, shower baths, and a room on the second floor. In the attic are a number of canoes, ice boxes, sails, etc.

The blaze was noticed about 3.30 by a lady driving by in an automobile. She called the attention of another autoist, Mr. Richard Norwood of Arlington, who rang in the alarm from box 573, this being the first alarm to be pulled from this box.

The firemen were soon on the scene and found their work out for them. Thick, heavy smoke filled the club house, and the intense heat in the hall had just commenced to crack the windows. In fact the windows in the bay had gone, and the flames were shooting out furiously. Rooms were ruf inside the building and through the upstairs windows.

The club hall was badly gutted. The front section where the window seats are located was burned and charred. The ceiling was also burned through, the fire being stopped just as it entered the attic. All of the wood paneling was charred and the piano partly burned and wrecked. Two large oil paintings, one by Lee Court of the club itself, were ruined. Every pane of glass in the hall was cracked or blown out, and the window frames were all charred.

Much water was used by the firemen, but this damage will be small, as it was all swept out of the building as soon as the fire was out. None of the canoes were injured at all, nor were the lockers, although probably some of their contents were wet down. The blaze required the attention of the firemen for two hours. It is reported that the loss is fully covered by insurance.

The fire originated under the window seat, which contains a cupboard for the storage of fire escape wood. It is thought that it had been smouldering for a long time before it broke through into the hall itself. The fact that every window and door was shut and fastened also served to keep the fire in a smouldering state until it gained heat enough to crack out the window sashes.

Plans for repairing the damage have not been formulated as yet, but it is stated that a special meeting of the club is to be called to consider the matter.

INTERCOLLEGIATE TEA

About 60 Winchester women, representing ten different colleges, attended the intercollegiate tea given Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 11 under the direction of the Winchester Wesleyan Club. Mrs. Henry Stone of 100 Cambridge street was the hostess. During the afternoon President Ellen F. Penfield of Wellesley College, presided in a most dignified manner of the work of the International Federation of University Women. President Penfield was a delegate to the third annual intercollegiate tea in Winchester was a most successful affair.

MABEL JANE SCHNEIDER

Mabel Jane Schneider, wife of Frederick Schneider, and a former resident of this town, died early Thursday morning at the Winchester Hospital after an illness of seven days. She was 37 years of age.

Mrs. Schneider was born in Woburn in 1887, the daughter of George William, and Ellen (Johnson) Hamilton.

Funeral services will be held at the late residence, 332 Salem street, Woburn on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Leach, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Woburn. The interment will be in Wildwood cemetery.

MRS. AGNES ROBINSON

Mrs. Agnes Robinson, widow of the late Thomas B. Robinson and mother of Mrs. E. W. Tustin of Wildwood street, died at the home of her daughter this morning. She was 80 years of age and was a native of New Brunswick, New York, the daughter of Mathew and Christine (Talley) Thompson. She spent the greater part of her life in Cambridge and during her life was identified with church and society life of that city. Besides her daughter here, she leaves three daughters and one son, Mrs. M. H. Lombard and Mrs. W. H. Lowell, all residing in New York and one son, Mr. Charles Doherty of Woburn, and Mrs. Benjamin Roberts of Beverly, Mass. Her husband died at Portland, Me., and the Misses Alice, Martha and Anna Hodge of this town. Her brother is Mr. Carl J. Hodge of Southbury, Conn.

Funeral services will be held at St. Mary's Church on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. The interment will be in Calvary cemetery.

MISS JOSEPHINE HODGE

Miss Josephine Hodge, daughter of John C. and Kathleen L. (Ring) Hodge, of 24 Quinlan terrace, Stamford, Conn., was married last Tuesday evening in St. John's Episcopal Church of this town to Mr. Edward E. Kimball of Boston. The Rev. Gerald Cunningham, rector of the church, performed the ceremony.

The bride was married by marriage by her uncle, Mr. Robert F. Oram, of Wharton, N. J. She was attended by Mrs. R. Maxwell Oram of Stamford, Conn., as matron of honor, and there were two flower girls, Helen Lyon and Lois Lyon, cousins of the bride, of Great Neck, L. I. Mr. Guy M. Kinley of Winchester was best man.

KINSLEY-PATTENGILL

Miss Pauline Leona Pattengill, daughter of Pauline Evans Ingstam Pattengill of 24 Quinlan terrace, Stamford, Conn., was married last Tuesday evening in St. John's Episcopal Church of this town to Mr. Edward E. Kimball of Boston. The Rev. Gerald Cunningham, rector of the church, performed the ceremony.

The bride was married by marriage by her uncle, Mr. Robert F. Oram, of Wharton, N. J. She was attended by Mrs. R. Maxwell Oram of Stamford, Conn., as matron of honor, and there were two flower girls, Helen Lyon and Lois Lyon, cousins of the bride, of Great Neck, L. I. Mr. Guy M. Kinley of Winchester was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Carroll of 12 Russell road are the parents of a daughter, born Nov. 7, at the Winchester Hospital.

LYNN FURNITURE FIRM OUT-FITTERS

Hill & Welch Company, 104 Munroe street, Frederick W. Aseltine, president, one of Lynn's largest home furnishers, has been awarded the contract for the complete interior furnishings at the Swampscott Masonic club's new building. This firm was the successful bidder against a large number of other firms. The contract calls for furniture, rugs and interior decorations.

This Lynn concern has also been awarded the contract for the furnishings at the new Stevens-Mader building, now under construction on Mt. Vernon street. The Lincoln reception room will have furniture of frost mahogany, with reed furniture and tapestry to match, while the Ford room will be outfitted in peacock blue and harmonizing tapestry. Rugs for these rooms will also harmonize with their surroundings.

Two other contracts were recently completed. One was the newly furnished Puritan annex at the New Ocean house, which will be open during the winter months. This contract called for furniture, rugs, draperies and other interior decoration, also the furnishings for the new dining hall and ballroom. The library chairs and sofas have been outfitted in blue with tapestry combination, the chairs being of Tudor walnut and the tables of mahogany, with a walnut finish. The rugs are of blue and taupe colorings, while the hangings are of blue, taupe and mulberry combination. Since the work has been completed the hotel has been inspected by visitors from New York and other places, who have commented freely upon the pleasantness of the interior and its harmonizing effects.

This firm has also received many compliments upon its furnishings installed in the ladies' waiting rooms and private offices of E. Crawford Hollidge, Temple Place, Boston. These fittings are in Italian.

The Hill & Welch Company also furnished the new luncheon, dining and tea rooms in the Haines building, supplied the hangings and draperies, mirrors and oriental rugs, which has been declared by Lynn residents as one of the finest shops of a like nature in New England, and it is a glowing tribute to the Hill & Welch Company.—(Lynn Item.)

FATHERS AND MOTHERS, ATTENTION!

On Tuesday evening, Nov. 18, at the High School Assembly Hall at 8 o'clock, the Mothers' Association cordially invites fathers, mothers and teachers to hear Prof. Charles W. Towne, formerly of State Committee on Americanization, to talk to us about Americanism.

The "Lincoln Players" will furnish the music, and a social hour with refreshments will follow in the gymnasium. Parents will be on hand to cordially receive the teachers. A very large attendance is desired. Any who are interested are invited to be present.

MEANEST THIEF

A candidate for the title of meanest thief was evidently at work in Winchester last Monday. Sometime during the afternoon or early evening the left rear wheel and shoe were stolen from a Ford touring car which was standing in the back yard of its owner's residence. Mr. Charles Joyce of 827 Main street made this unpleasant discovery when he went out to get his machine shortly after 8 o'clock in the evening, and he further found that most of the Ford tools in the car were also missing. He notified the Winchester Police, who are working on the case. It is fortunate the thieves didn't have a hankering for the engine of the car.

NEEDLEWORK GUILD ANNUAL MEETING

Having done their duty the day before at the polls, the officers and directors, 18 in number, of the Winchester Branch of the Needlework Guild of America, assembled in the Parish Hall of the Church of the Epiphany on Wednesday, Nov. 5 at 10 o'clock.

Long tables were soon laden with the gifts of new warm, useful garments which are yearly contributed by the members of this most generous organization.

The President, Mrs. W. Eugene Wilde, addressed the meeting and in a few words thanked the directors for their loyalty to the Guild. Without them, it would be impossible to carry on the work. Upon them, wholly depends the output of nearly 500 new garments or articles of household use, such as towels, sheets, pillowcases, etc.

The Secretary, Mrs. Anthony Kelley gave an interesting report of the last year's work and read a letter of thanks from the Town of Winchester, for most welcome contributions.

The Treasurer, Mrs. Alonzo P. Weeks, read a brief but satisfactory financial report.

A special effort has been made to raise $40, as the Winchester quota of a "Thank Offering" to be made by the National Organization in May 1925, in celebration of 40 years of service in this country. At least $10,000 is expected from the offering and the money will be used for extension of the Guild membership throughout the country. Since the meeting of Nov. 5 Mrs. Weeks reports that the $40 desired is on hand and will be duly sent to the Guild Headquarters.

After the business meeting the Directors proceeded to plan the distribution of the garments. Most of the ladies are Welfare workers in the churches of our town. They know the needs of their own parishes and neighborhoods. Gifts, especially suited to them are always sent to the Winchester Hospital, V. N. Association, Home for Aged People, Tubercular Sanatorium at Reading, Mother's Rest at Beverly, Sailor's Haven throughout the country. They know in our own town. It is surely a good work and will be carried on in our midst.

Wouldn't you like to give and be one among the many to give two new garments a year to the sick, the aged and the needy. If so telephone one of the officers—they will do the rest.

Several residents in the vicinity of Symmes' Corner have complained to the police of a few drivers casting their heavily loaded vehicles at high speed westerly, down Bacon street, one truck in particular having been called to the attention of the authorities.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The musical of the afternoon was given by Mr. Julius Durlshkaivich, violinist, Mr. Chester Cook, pianist and accompanist and Mr. Harry Newcombe, baritone, the last named, filling, at very short notice, the place of Madame Florence Ferrell, soprano, who, on account of illness, was unable to sing.

Mr. Durlshkaivich played as his first number, Bruch's Concerto, Op. 26. His tone was uneven, at times harsh, but showed some of the moments of great beauty, and throughout a certain technical proficiency. In his second group—an Intermezzo, by Rindberg-Crist, La Presieuse, by Couperin, arranged by Kreisler and a Valse Caprice by Wieniawski he warmed to his work, and demonstrated the difficulties of the last number triumphantly. His final pieces were delightful—a dance by Brahms, arranged by Joachim; "The Adieu," by Sarasate, and in response to enthusiastic applause, a Madrigal for unison strings by Simonetti—an exquisite thing—delicately given. Mr. Durlshkaivich stated that his violin was made by Joseph Guarnerius, the most illustrious member of a family of famous violin makers, who was distinguished from the others by the title of Le Gesu, because of the monogram I. H. S. with the Cross, which he printed on his violin label. He also stated that he was using a bow which was formerly the property of Ole Bull, the great Norwegian violinist and composer.

Mr. Newcombe's first songs were four modern compositions, along the usual lines affected by the newer writers. They were, "Nocturne," "The English," "Golden sunlight," and a setting of Herick's poem "To Anthea." For his second number he gave an Aria in Italian from Verdi's "The Masked Ball," in quite the operatic manner, having a robust voice and a flare for the dramatic. His last group consisted of "When the King Went Forth to War" by Keen, "In the Silent Night" by Rachmaninoff and the "Pines of Gordan's Men," by Hammond. These were admirably contrasted, the first and last very spirited, and the second song full of quiet contemplative beauty. Altogether an unusual and interesting program.

Mr. Cook, who had the Herculean task of drawing music from the poor old Town Hall piano, is worthy of all praise for his accompaniment, given sympathetically under such a handicap. A few numbers he played Schubert's familiar "Impromptu," "Theme and Variations" and a Valse of Chopin.

Many Winchester women will be glad to learn that Miss Margaret E. Wisner, the "Wizard Cook" of the Washburn Crosby Company, who has attracted large audiences daily at the Herald-Traveler Cooking School in Horticultural Hall last April, is to conduct a course of five practical cooking demonstrations in the small Town Hall at 2 o'clock on Friday, Nov. 21; Friday, Dec. 5; Friday, Dec. 12; Thursday, Dec. 18; Friday, Dec. 19. This course is under the direction of the Fortnightly Room Committee and open to all Winchester women, whether members of the Club or not. For further information apply to Mrs. A. F. Woodside, Mrs. H. H. Dodge, Mrs. C. W. Avery, Miss Florence Plummer and the Winchester Exchange.

Please take notice. Members who have not obtained the "Fortnightly News" for November, may have it by calling at the Winchester Exchange.

EMBLEM CLUB NOTES

At the regular meeting in Lyceum Hall last night the Club received and entertained a delegation from Peabody Emblem Club.

Among those who found it convenient to come were the president, Mrs. Bowman; the secretary, Mrs. Cassidy; Mrs. Bassett of the Woman's Relief Corps and about 20 other officers and members of the Peabody Club. One and all expressed much surprise and gratification at the wonderful progress of the Winchester Club, and special praise was given the officers' staff for the splendid floor work performed.

Mr. George T. Davidson, E. R. of Winchester Lodge of Elks was present and gave a resume of the work of this Club of which he was the promoter. Mr. George H. Lochman, E. L. K., performed his duty by lighting the atmosphere with a cheerful line of jokes and banter, which were hugely enjoyed by all.

A short musical program in charge of Mrs. Lochman, followed. Solos by Mrs. Clara Morrison and Miss Helen Larson, step-dancing by Mr. James Horn and duets by Mr. Lochman and Mrs. Morrison, each received much appreciative applause. A buffet lunch of chicken salad and rolls, coffee and coffee was served by the entertainment committee. During the evening, Mrs. Bowman announced that the Ford auto given away at the Peabody Club Bazaar was awarded to Mrs. Katherine Walsh of that city.

Today, Friday, the Rummage Sale, advertised in last week's Star, is being held in Waterfield Hall. The proceeds will be used for relief work during the winter and everyone should turn out to do her share for the welfare of the club—make the affair so profitable in fact that such sales may become yearly events.

On account of the many activities, it was voted to omit the next regular meeting, which falls on the Wednesday night before Thanksgiving. On that night volunteers to help prepare the Elks' Thanksgiving baskets are to meet at 6 o'clock at the Washington street School. Contributions of fruit and vegetables are requested.

Friends of Miss Katherine Ann Walker, last year's teacher of House-Paid Arts in the Winchester High School, will be interested to know of the opening of the "Foggy Ann Spa," 124 High street (corner of Pearl). Boston. This Spa is owned and managed by Miss Walker and Miss Margaret Burns, both Simmons graduates.

A TRULY GREAT AMERICAN

Nov. 12, 1924

To the Editor of the Star:

Permit me to suggest that if it is your purpose to note in the "Star" any reference to the passing of our late Senator, Henry Cabot Lodge, a truly great American, I believe you can do no better than to include an extract from his speech made in 1908, before the Republican State Convention of Massachusetts, when he alluded to the death of his colleague, Senator George F. Hoar. The sentiment therein expressed is one of the finest and most eloquent I have ever heard. It will make good reading for people whose dominating ambition appears to be the gathering of gold.

"Mr. President, as we grow older and the shadows begin to lengthen and the leaves which seemed so thick in youth above our heads grow thin and let us see the sky beyond; as those in the ranks in front drop away and we come in sight, as we all must,

of the eternal rifle-pits, a man begins to feel that, among the really precious things of life, more lasting and more substantial than many or all of the objects of ambition here, is the love of those whom he loves and the friendships of those whose friendship he prizes."

Respectfully,

W. F. Prime

WILD GAME IN WINCHESTER

As we've said before, when in doubt call the Police. Not that we think many of our town's folk especially need the admonition. Each day some member of the community calls upon the department to be extricated from some difficulty, self caused or otherwise. Consequently Sergt. William Rogers was but slightly surprised when on Thursday morning he received word to hasten to the vicinity of Wedgenere avenue and rid the neighborhood of a species of wild beast which was terrorizing residents and their children. The animal was described as a small bear, but of that information the Sergeant was a bit skeptical.

However, he hastened to the place where the beast was last seen, and sure enough there was some sort of creature to be seen in the rear of the residence of Mr. F. L. Ripley. As the Sergeant approached it jumped into a hole and remained hidden from view while the officer advanced upon it in light marching order.

Arriving at a place where his vision commanded a view of the bottom of the small pit, Sergt. Rogers took a good look at his quarry who also favored the Police Official with an interested glance. Of the two big policemen was the more alarmed, nor is there much to be wondered at. There in the hole, well within range, was a remarkably healthy looking skunk.

Sergt. Rogers retired hastily to a safer position and dispatched the skunk with his revolver after which he abruptly left the neighborhood. Arriving back at the Station House he detailed one of the police officers to Wedgenere avenue to bury a "cat" which he informed the man had been reported in the neighborhood.

The officer departed hence, nor had word been received from him when we left Police Headquarters. Seen later in the day, he refused to commit himself regarding the "cat's" interment, but Sergt. Rogers grinned broadly.

ELKS MEET TUESDAY

The regular meeting of Winchester Lodge of Elks is to be held on next Tuesday evening, Nov. 18, in Lyceum Hall. Important business will be transacted, including balloting upon a list of candidates and the receipt of the investigating committee upon another large list.

The date announced for the Elks' memorial services is given as Sunday afternoon, Dec. 7, the service to be held in Lyceum Hall. Mr. Nathaniel M. Nichols will have charge of the Thanksgiving baskets to be distributed this year as in the past. They are to be delivered about town Thanksgiving eve. The Charity Ball Committee will also report. This important affair, the proceeds of which are used for Thanksgiving, the children's Christmas tree and the annual August "Kiddies' Day," is progressing favorably and will undoubtedly draw the biggest crowd in the Lodge's history.

The old house at the corner of Elm and Mt. Vernon streets, long a landmark in that neighborhood, is rapidly disappearing. This property was recently bought by the First Baptist Church, which plans the erection of a parsonage on the lot, the house being removed for this purpose.

A TOWN SKATING RINK

To the Editor of the Star:

For the past two winters I have had in my own yard a satisfactory skating rink, which, for most of that time, has been the only skating place in town. I know that it would be perfectly possible for Winchester to have at small expense, a splendid skating rink, which would compare well with the Cambridge Skating Club, the oldest and most famous of the skating clubs in New England.

So long as there is ice without snow, the many ponds and lakes about Winchester furnish all the smooth ice required, but the long trails and then skating is over. Cleaning the lakes is a difficult matter. It is easy to shovel or plow a path, but the removal of deep snow from an area large enough to make a real rink is a big job. The cost of doing it by hand is prohibitive. Putting a horse or a motor truck on a lake involves a chance of losing the horse or the truck. Either would run into money.

If ice is made of the ground, horses, trucks and children cannot fall through. Ice can be made on the ground, as I have demonstrated on my own rink here in Winchester. It should be realized that it is necessary to resurface a skating place frequently, if large numbers of persons are cutting it up with sharp skates. Each hour a certain amount is shaved from the surface of the skates. If the ice is to be smooth, these small particles must be scraped off and then the whole must be resurfaced with water, which is a little might say, as so little water is required to make the ice smooth again.

A skating place must have as a water connection which will not freeze, that is the pipe must be well under ground. Winchester has a playground which is excellent for a skating rink. This is the four tennis courts on Palmer street, an area 120 feet wide and 190 feet long, considerably larger than the Boston Arena. The ground is level, except for a slight pitch about three inches toward Wedge Pond. A small bank of earth would be necessary on that side. The tennis posts were put in with the idea of having a clear path for skating. The posts are in sleeves and are removable, all can be pulled out and the holes plugged up, so that the surface of the rink would be free of obstruction.

The big problem is that of deep water. There is none on Palmer street and a pipe to a water main would have to be laid. A competent engineer has given a rough estimate of the cost of this work at about $60 cents a foot. Some 500 feet would be necessary.

The work of spraying would be begun as soon as the frost starts into the ground. It would take several sprayings to obtain ice, but it would be accomplished in time. The ice might have to be made entirely new several times during the winter, but there should be at least 60 skating days during the winter. The best time, January and February, with a few in March if spring is late. Sometimes Winchester trusting only the lakes has not had more than 10 skating days during a year.

It would be necessary to have the place moderately lighted because the darkness sets in by five o'clock and grown people would want to skate at night. There should also be a canteen, place, which need not be a building, as a cage of heavy wire netting built against the tennis practice board would serve.

A competent professional should be licensed to give figure and fancy skating lessons to those who chose to pay for them. One of the beauties of this is that all who look on at the lessons gain without charge much knowledge of one of the most graceful arts in the world. Winchester has been the home of the present Junior Champion of the United States, Little Miss Mirabel Vinson. It would be nice to have other expert skaters among the girls.

When a town has only one rink no provision can be made for man-sized hockey on it, as that means 12 players taking the whole place as long as the game lasts. Free skating would allow 200 persons on a rink the size of four tennis courts at the same time. Ultimately, of course, we should have a hockey rink, like Melrose, but free skating should come first. It will be enough to take care of this year. However, it might be possible to allow an undersized hockey rink on the fourth tennis court, this year.

Now why should not all this be done on Manchester Field? There is one big and excellent reason and that is the Manchester Field is beautifully open to the sun, as it should be. Palmer Playground happens to be shielded from the first sun of the day by having on the East hill, houses and trees. In keeping ice Palmer street has an advantage of about 20 per cent over Manchester Field, as far as the sun is concerned. Besides Manchester Field has no deep water.

How can Winchester have a rink this year? The present appropriation of the Park Board must be devoted to Street work for which it was appropriated. But there must be money for the required initial expense.

If people should see what it would mean to have a cleared and well kept place for skating where children would not drown and where grown-ups would have wonderful evenings, the money necessary for deep water and the other initial expense might be subscribed.

My colleagues on the Park Board are in sympathy with the idea of skating for Winchester. I believe it would be possible to get the money necessary for the upkeep at the next town meeting, and certainly should approve of devoting the services of the employees of the Board to the rink. The town would probably be grateful after a winter of smooth, safe skating.

Here is something for the town to think over. We have had a great tennis season. Let us have a great skating season. Make Palmer Street Playground work for 10 months of the year for old and young. Seven months for tennis, all the time the frost is out of the ground. Three months for skating, while the ground is frozen hard. The two months in between could be for changing over to other sports.

Let us have a skating season. There is no time to lose. I will subscribe $10 to any committee for skating approved by the Park Board to work with it. Fifty times that would bring people in town, wouldn't it you say?

Very truly,

William S. Parker

Member of the Park Board

DEDICATION OF LINCOLN SCHOOL

The new Lincoln School, the third of the four new buildings to be erected in accordance with the town's accepted school building program, formally entered the educational service of Winchester last Sunday afternoon when dedication exercises were held in its spacious assembly hall which were attended by more than 500 persons, including school and town officials and the school children and their parents of the old Chapin District.

Chairman James S. Allen of the town's school building committee presided at the exercises and made the formal transfer of the building from the high school department. Mr. Allen prefaced his presentation remarks with a brief historical sketch of the school which is to replace the old Chapin building. He stated that the Lincoln School is erected on a site which is in one of the oldest sections of the town, settled about 1600 on the edge of a tract of land owned by John Harvard, founder of Harvard College. He also told much of interest concerning Dr. Charles Johnson, the old Chapin School was named.

Rev. Fr. Joseph M. Fitzgibbon of St. Mary's Church offered the dedication prayer which was followed by the singing of 20 pupils of the school under the direction of Miss Agnes Ryan and instrumental selections by the high school orchestra conducted by Miss Jessie Haeger, instructor of music in the Winchester schools.

Previous to the formal transfer of the school to the new Lincoln School, which was chairman of the citizens' committee which reported favorably to the town on the project of appropriating $20,000 for the school building program of 1922, spoke briefly of some of the problems which his committee had to meet.

Chairman Robert M. Stone of the School Committee accepted the building on the part of the educational authorities and expressed the appreciation of his department for the efforts of the building committee in producing such a splendid building for the town. It might be stated that the new Lincoln School in layout and appointments is second to no building of its kind in the state.

A feature of the exercises was the acknowledgement by Mr. Allen on behalf of the school of a large back relief of Michelangelo's "Madonna and Child," the gift of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Higgins of Church street.

Before the address of Superintendent James J. Quinn and Judge Frank Leveroni of the Juvenile Court of Boston, Mr. Edward N. Griffin, supervisor of music in the Newton Schools sang a baritone aria from the "Carmen" by Verdi. Master Anthony Fighelli recited Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, and the school chorus sang "Santa Lucia."

Mr. Quinn spoke of the community hall as a means of giving solidarity to the school pupils and the community spirit, the advantages to adults of the district, the Americanization class, and to the school pupils in the opportunity classes. He emphasized the power in every American community of the great triumvirate of the church, the home, and the school, through whose co-operation everything for the welfare of the country can be accomplished.

Mr. Griffin rendered "Thank God for a Garden" after Superintendent Quinn's address.

Judge Frank Leveroni, the principal speaker of the occasion, gave a most interesting talk on the early life, hardships and sacrifices of Abraham Lincoln and emphasized the fact that Lincoln received but one short year of education as we understand the use of the word. He urged his audience to send their children through the public schools to college, even at a sacrifice, in order to emulate the spirit of Abraham Lincoln whose life was a continual sacrifice and struggle for the American people, until its culmination in his tragic death.

He spoke of the great value of education and knowledge and urged his hearers to realize that America is a land of opportunity for all who wish to receive an education, and that the country wants all her citizens to be well instructed in their moral and civic duties, that they may lead the world in making plans for their individual and their country's welfare. The exercises closed with the singing of "America" led by Mr. Griffin. Miss Agnes Ryan, principal of the Lincoln School, the members of the School Committee, Rev. Fr. Fitzgibbon, Selectman William P. Callahan, Superintendent of Schools, James J. Quinn and Chairman J. S. Allen, Secretary, Harry C. Sanborn, Mrs. Maurice Tompkins, Mr. R. T. Hale and Mr. J. K. Kerrison, members of the School Building Committee, were seated on the platform during the exercises. The school hall was artistically decorated with potted plants and flowers generously donated by the citizens by Mr. J. C. Haartz.

Alex A. Aronson and Vinton Freidley have engaged Brenda Bond for the ingenue role in "Lady, Be Good," the new musical comedy in which the Astaire and Walter Catlett are the chief luminaries. The piece will have its premiere Monday evening, Nov. 17, in Philadelphia, at the Forrest Theatre.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

The initiation of new members into the C. D. of A. on Sunday in Lyceum Hall was a brilliant affair and brought out many of the older members as well as many out-of-town guests. The new members were added to the court's roll, the initiatory work being performed by Court St. Agnes of Arlington with Lecturer Elizabeth C. McDonald, assisted by G. R. Annie E. Vayo and P. G. R. Frances T. Conlon in charge of the second degree and Organizer Mabel M. Coty in charge of music. Supper was served at the conclusion of the degree work and an entertainment, furnished by the following: Miss Mabel M. Coty and Miss Frances Ahern of Arlington, solos; Mrs. Frances T. Conlon and Mrs. Mary Ahern of Arlington, readings. One of the newly-initiated sisters, Mrs. Mary E. McGrath, soloist of St. Mary's Church, favored with a delightful group of songs.

On behalf of the court G. R. Annie E. Vayo presented to G. R. Anna B. Callahan of Arlington a bouquet of chrysanthemums and to D. B. Marie Cuno Fallon a pair of sterling silver vases. Both ladies responded in a charming manner and complimented Court Santa Maria on its splendid charitable report and the fine interest maintained by the local members in all progressive movements.

Sister Katharine Stapleton who has undergone a serious operation at the Winchester Hospital is reported by the visiting committee as being on the road to recovery. This will be welcome news to the membership at large.

Many of the sisters attended the whist at Arlington on Monday evening which was conducted by Court St. Agnes in aid of the southern missions.

A large number of the court members spent Halloween at the home of Truette Elizabeth Powers, the occasion being a delightful surprise for Sister Powers on the occasion of her birthday. On behalf of her many friends and neighbors, Miss Della Kelley, in a graceful little speech, presented Mrs. Powers with a very handsome floor lamp and a purse of gold. A most enjoyable evening followed. Halloween games causing all to make merry.

The next meeting night of the court has been changed to Friday evening, Nov. 21, on account of the Elks' Ball. This will be a social meeting and will be held at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Powers on Main street. In the year book this is called, "An Evening With Joyce Kilmer." Lecturer Elizabeth C. McDonald will give a sketch of this beloved poet's life and Vice-Regent Frances T. Conlon will favor with some selections from writings. Sister Mabel M. Coty and Sister Mollie L. Maguire will sing a group of duets.

Early in December the court will conduct its Christmas Charitable Whist in K. of C. Hall. Sisters Mary Penton, Josephine Power and Anna Hanlon will head the very vigorous committee in charge. The success of this party is already assured as every member feels it her special duty to help assure the success of the Christmas Whist.

HOW DOES A GAS METER WORK?—Part No. 1

The gas meter in the cellar is a much maligned and little understood measuring instrument. Scales, yard sticks, soda water glasses, bottles and watches we are inclined to accept with confidence, probably because we can see the process of the measurement, but the gas meter to most of us is a mystery. The U. S. Bureau of Standards, which has to do with all measuring instruments, reports that the gas meter is the most accurate commercial means of measurement known to man. If you have ever compared your watch for time when in a crowd you can appreciate the statement that a gas meter is more accurate than a watch.

One of the large New England gas companies tests from 15,000 to 20,000 meters per year and the average of these meters shows that they register 2 1/2 less gas than has actually passed through them.

If we had a quart measure, a spigot and a barrel of liquid which we desired to measure we would proceed as follows: place the measure under the spigot, open spigot, fill measure, close the spigot, empty the measure and count one. This process would be repeated until the contents of the barrel had been measured. The action of a gas meter is quite similar to that just described for the measurement of the barrel except that instead of one measuring device there are four compartments in a gas meter which are alternately filled and emptied through four valve openings which have the similar function of the barrel spigot.

DR. PLACE PRESENTS TECHNICAL FACTS IN UNTECHNICAL LANGUAGE

The Wyman Chapter of the Mothers' Association and others found keen enjoyment in the address at Wyman Assembly Hall last Friday by Dr. Edwin H. Place, noted authority, throughout the country, on communicable diseases. This subject, Dr. Place presented in terms clear-cut and illuminating and explained the latest research discoveries that promise so much for the control and eventual eradication of such dread diseases as diphtheria and scarlet fever.

Mr. George F. Furrington, who is in Shreveport, La., reports that duck shooting there was exceptional. Up to Thursday he had bagged 106 mallards, the fact that the weather there as elsewhere is extremely warm, with no rain during the last 90 days.

BAPTISTS PLAN FORWARD STEP

At a special business meeting of the church last Friday night, the report of the Building Committee was heard. Pictures were shown of the proposed Parish House designed to meet the needs of the Sunday School, Young People's and Social work of the church. This building will occupy the lot back of the present church building and the ground now occupied by the chapel. The present auditorium will continue in use until it can be replaced by a new building which the present plans envision as an ultimate goal. The church voted to adopt the recommendation of the committee that the church proceed with the construction of this parish house and a committee of three was appointed by the moderator to serve as a finance committee to work in conjunction with the building committee to carry out these plans.

IMPORTANT TO WINCHESTER

The day after Thanksgiving the Christmas seals for raising funds to stamp out tuberculosis will be mailed all over the state.

Winchester will not receive any help from seals which are bought in any place outside of Winchester.

People in business in Boston and buying seals in Boston will be adding Boston and not Winchester. Be sure to buy your seals in your own home town, for it is not a seal that can be raised by the sale of the Christmas seals.

You may not have heard much about it but a big work is constantly going on in this town to safeguard its people against tuberculosis. We need all the support possible to keep up this winning fight.

CONVERSE PLACE

WINCHESTER BOYS ON RIVAL TEAMS

In last Saturday's hard fought gridiron battle at Tufts Oval between the teams of the University of Maine and Tufts College two Winchester boys were the outstanding performers for their respective elevens. "Jim" Blair, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Blair of Fells road was the individual star for Maine, contributing many slaying runs for good teams beside kicking both goals after touchdown which ultimately won the game for the Pine Tree Staters. For the Jumbo outfit, Captain "Van" French, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. French of Highland avenue, gave a sterling exhibition of all around play. Beside doing his team's punting he turned in several clever runs, on one of which he dashed 20 yards across the Maine flank for Tufts first score. Maine won 14-13.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MABEL J. SCHNEIDER

Largely attended funeral services for Mabel Jane Schneider, wife of Frederick Schneider of Salem street, Woburn and a former resident of this town, were held last Sunday afternoon at her late home conducted by the Rev. Henry Elford Leach of the Montvale Congregational Church. There were many beautiful floral tributes, the deceased having a large circle of friends in both Winchester and Woburn. The bearers included Frank Schneider of Woburn, and Mrs. Schneider's five brothers: George W. of Everett, Thomas J. of Woburn and Henry, Adam and Donald Hamilton of Winchester. Interment was in Woodlawn cemetery.

THE GAME ON MANCHESTER FIELD

This game for the championship of the girls' Interscholastic Field Hockey League between Melrose High School, winner in the Northern Division, and Arlington High, leader in the Southern Division was played last Tuesday afternoon on the Manchester Field Court before a big crowd considering the severity of the weather. The contest failed to decide the issue, the game ending in a 1-1 tie. No overtime was attempted and a playoff will have to be held at a future date. Winchester fans should not miss this battle as it bids fair to be a thriller.

ORDWAY THREW PASS TO BEAT HARVARD FRESH

In last Saturday's thrilling struggle between the football teams of the Freshmen Classes at Harvard and Yale played at Soldiers Field, Cambridge, "Jack" Ordway, son of Dr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Ordway of Main street, started the game at right half-back for the Eli cubs. "Jackie" was one of the stars of the afternoon and threw the forward pass that was completed for a touchdown which, with the goal that followed, was enough to win the battle by the close score of 7-6.

Mrs. Bowen Tufts of Stratford road was vice chairman of the committee in charge of the Bazaar held Wednesday and Thursday at the Hotel Copely Plaza in aid of the Florence Crittenton League. Mrs. Thomas I. Furburn of Cabot street was another active worker for the same cause.

DISCOVERED MAN IN HOME

Mitchell Residence Entered Saturday

What is believed to have been an attempt at burglary was frustrated early last Saturday morning at Knollwood, the home of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Mitchell on Cambridge street when a man was discovered in the dining room of the house and frightened away while apparently in the very act of packing valuables for removal from the premises.

The Mitchells had entertained at their home on last Friday evening, and it was only Saturday morning before the last of their 100 or more guests had departed. It is believed that Knollwood may have been watched during the house party by thieves with a view of entering at the conclusion of festivities as it is thought the man interested in the house was not alone on the job.

Following the departure of the guests the Mitchells were about to retire when Mrs. Mitchell remembered that she had left some keys on the lower floor of the house.

Going downstairs she switched on a light in the hallway, and entered one of the front rooms. As she did so she saw a man crouched in the corner of the dining room. Giving no sign of her discovery Mrs. Mitchell passed through the room, humming a little tune, and on upstairs as if she had seen no trace of the marauder. Once upstairs she informed her husband of what had happened and while he was arming himself notified the police and called the family chauffeur.

As Mr. Mitchell and the chauffeur were going cautiously downstairs a whistle was heard outside the residence quickly followed by an automobile racing down Cambridge street. Whether the intruder was warned from without and made his getaway in a machine or whether he left immediately after he was seen by Mrs. Mitchell is not known. At all events when the dining room light was suddenly switched on no trace of the man could be found, the same holding true when Officers Kelley, Donaghy, Farrell and Hogan of the Winchester Police arrived on the scene shortly thereafter. A rigid search of the premises also proved unproductive and the officers were forced to abandon their efforts as fruitless.

In the dining room of the house several pieces of silverware were found piled together on the floor and a drawer of silverware found partly open and with all signs pointing to a hasty flight. An examination disclosed nothing missing in the room.

There was no evidence of an entrance to the house having been forced, but when the police arrived a double door on the Cambridge street side of the dwelling was found partly open and it is thought that the thief may have found the doors unlocked and gotten in that way.

The only description which Mrs. Mitchell could give of the burglar was that he was tall and slim wearing dark clothing and it was thought, a cap.

UNVEIL TABLET IN SPRING LANE

An interesting event to take place in Boston recently was the unveiling of a bronze tablet to the memory of Mary Chilton, the only Mayflower passenger who became a resident of Boston and who died there. It was dedicated in Spring Lane where it is attached to the side of the Minot Building, which stands on the site of Mary Chilton's home after she had become Mrs. John Winslow.

The tablet was unveiled by three-year-old Mary Chilton Winslow, granddaughter of Arthur Winslow, 18 Chestnut street and ninth in descent from John and Mary Chilton Winslow.

A program preceding the unveiling took place in Old South Meeting House, Washington and Milk streets, Mary Chilton and her husband having belonged to the Old South Society. The Old South is the only Boston church to which a Mayflower passenger ever belonged.

Dr. Washburn presided and James R. Garfield, son of the President by that name, and a descendant of Mary Chilton and John Winslow, spoke. Rev. Dudley Richards, Child of Hudson, another descendant, began the exercises with prayer.

Mary Chilton was married about 1624 to John Winslow, who arrived at Plymouth a year after her. They had 10 children, all probably born at Plymouth. It is believed they came to Boston before 1650. The Spring Lane home was purchased in 1671.

Being a Mayflower passenger, Mary Chilton's arrival in America antedated that of any other woman who became a Bostonian.

Miss Helen E. Sanborn of Winchester, a member of the Massachusetts Society of Mayflower descendants and a direct descendant of Mary Chilton, was one of the ushers who officiated at the exercises.

DANCE MANAGER LYCEUM HALL

Arthur Spaulding, one of the best known dance promoters in the country, with an army of Boston admirers, has been recently appointed manager of the Lyceum Hall Ball Room, of Woburn. In his new and responsible capacity, Mr. Spaulding or "Art," as he is commonly referred to by his large number of friends, will conduct and give to the dance-loving public of Woburn and surrounding towns, the most enjoyable and most up to date ball rooms in this part of the state, having had much experience in the operations of high class ball rooms, coming direct from the State Ball Room, of Boston, where he has been manager from its infancy, also conducting three of the largest summer dance pavilions in the state of Maine.

He will personally supervise many of the dances, and will have a large store for the clientele of Lyceum Hall and pay personal attention to every detail, insuring each event to be of the most enjoyable and profitable nature. It will be the policy to run weekly socials every Friday evening for the time being, starting tonight, and from the conversation of the evening, every one will be there, both old and young, as this is just what Woburn has been hungry for, a clean, and up-to-date ball room.

For music Mr. Spaulding will bring to Woburn, Bert Meyers and his music supreme, who has had national and two successful seasons at Nautical Gardens, Revere.

VISITING NURSE AND HOSPITAL NOTES

The hospital has had a busy week with 27 patients. There have been 17 babies, nine being born during the past week. The new X-ray machine is being kept busy, and the out-of-town doctors bring patients, as well as our own local doctors.

The new assistant superintendent, Miss Urquhart, has been here for over a week and has charge of teaching the junior nurses. She received the training at the General Hospital and has had much varied experience since then. She served overseas for three and one-half years and was decorated May 1918, for bravery during a bombing raid at Etates. The hut in which she was nursing at the hospital was bombed and damaged by bombs, but she remained alone throughout the night with her patients, many of whom were killed and wounded during the raid. Since the war she nursed in one of the hospitals for the soldiers in Canada.

A WORD TO YOU IF YOU ARE NOT ENROLLED IN THE RED CROSS

The Winchester Red Cross canvassers are now at work from house to house on Roll Call duty. Perhaps they called at your house when you were out. If you have not yet been personally asked to join the Red Cross you can greatly help the workers by joining the membership drive ($1) direct to Mr. William E. Priest, Winchester Savings Bank, Mr. Vernon Street, or by enrolling through Mrs. Carpenter at the Winchester Exchange, Mr. Vernon Street.

Winchester ranks high among Massachusetts chapters, largely attaining a membership of 2081. It counts on you to increase that figure; for all good things come from you.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

Next Sunday is Guild Day at the Holy Ghost Hospital in Cambridge. All members who are interested in this work are invited to attend the program which will last throughout the afternoon. Refreshments will be served to all the inmates and guests.

Plans are now under way for a Charitable Whist on Dec. 4, proceeds of which are to be donated to the Home for Destitute Children. An able committee directed by Miss Elizabeth Shunkel have this affair in charge and in view of its worthy purpose a very large attendance is expected. Incidentally, many worthwhile prizes have already been donated.

DOCTOR CHIDLEY SPOKE

Rev. Dr. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the First Congregational Church, was the speaker at the Boston Square and Compass Club last Saturday evening. Dr. Chidley took for his subject, "The Great Northwest and Alaska," and presided over the program for that territory, stating that its prosperity is being delayed for want of proper transportation. He further pointed out that even 10 years ago Alaska had given the United States a profit of $40,000,000. President William M. Tephane of the club presided.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

At a meeting of the Kappa Delta Psi Sorority held Wednesday evening at the home of Ethel M. Curry in Melrose Highlands the engagement was announced of Miss Alice Shaw Carrie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Carrie of Melrose to Mr. Paul Gustavus Eberle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Eberle of this town.

TO WED IN PHILADELPHIA

Invitations are out for the marriage of Miss Marie Louise Weightman, daughter of Dr. Randolph Farley of Philadelphia and Mr. Dexter Arthur Tutin, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Arthur Tutin of Winchester, to take place on Saturday, Dec. 6 at 4 o'clock in Calvary Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia.

A large group of Winchester Elks will attend the big initiation of 200 at Newton next Tuesday evening. The exercises are to be held in the West Newton Armory. The Winchester delegation, which is to be accompanied by a brass band, leaves Lyceum Building at 7.30 sharp.

PRIZE ESSAYS CHOSEN

Awards Made Wednesday in American Legion Contest at High and Wadleigh Schools

The awards were made Wednesday in the essay contest held last March by the Winchester Post, American Legion, in connection with the moving picture, "The Man Without a Country." These essays were submitted by scholars in the public schools upon the picture. Owing to the unprecedented number of contestants, over 300 essays being submitted, together with the excellence of the essays, it was not possible to announce the winners previously.

The result of this contest provides an interesting sidelight upon the educational value of movies, as well as illustrating the good which may be derived by our young people from a picture of high merit such as that shown by the Legion. In fact every essay submitted as reported to have held features necessitating consideration by the judges, and in making their final awards there was a large number which received very careful and painstaking consideration.

The awards were made as follows on Judge's decision of "The Man Without a Country":

High School Girls
1st prize, Winner No. 355, Charles Wadsworth (in High School); No. 356, Pauline Mansfield (not in school).
Honorable Mention: No. 94, Helen Wobber; No. 34, Charles Heiler (in school); No. 66, Margaret Smart (not in school).
Wadleigh Boys, 7th and 8th
1st prize, Winner No. 255, Charles Wadsworth (in High School); No. 256, William Norton (in High School).
2nd prize, Winner No. 394, John Eastwick (in High School); No. 395, Charles Tenney (in High School); No. 396, Gordon Bennett (in 8th grade); No. 47, Bradford Ball (in 8th grade); No. 25, Donald Bates (in 8th grade).
Wadleigh Girls, 7th and 8th
1st prize, Winner No. 369, Alice Biley (in High School); No. 370, Gladys McMillan (in 8th grade).
Honorable Mention: No. 365, Mary Louise Speidel (in High School); No. 366, Ruth Kingsbury (in High School); No. 367, Mary Bradley (in 8th grade); No. 36, Sally Ball (in 8th grade); No. 36, Harlan Gould (in 8th grade).

High School Boys
1st prize, Winner No. 45, James Cullen (not in school); No. 46, Irving McKown (not in school).
Honorable Mention: No. 55, Lars Sandberg (not in school); No. 11, George Sawyer (not in school); No. 12, Harold Smith (not in school).

The prizes given for the essays to the winners were gold pen and pencil set and engraved medals. The presentation was made by Commander Vincent Clarke of the Legion and Mr. Allan Wade of the committee, and were made at both the High and Wadleigh Schools. Owing to the lapse of time, some of the contestants had left school and others had advanced to another building.

The judge for this contest was former chairman of the School Committee, Robert F. Guild; Commander of Winchester Post, American Legion, Vincent P. Clarke and Selection Committee, Charles L. Main.

The winning essays are published in the Star at an early date.

CALUMET ACTIVITIES

An Interesting December Program Planned

An interesting program of events has been planned by the entertainment committee of the Calumet Club for the coming month. Opening on Wednesday, Dec. 3, with an afternoon of bowling for the ladies in charge of Mrs. Willard T. Carleton and M. John A. Maddocks, the month is well filled.

On Saturday, Dec. 6th, the annual "Father and Sons' Night" is to be held. In keeping with this event at the Country Club, the feature of the evening will be movies of Bobby Jones in action, and doubtless this number alone will prove a big drawing card. Other numbers await announcement for this evening.

An afternoon bridge for the ladies is scheduled for Wednesday, Dec. 10, with a committee of ladies in charge including Mrs. Fred W. Asoline, Mrs. Walter E. Chamberlain and Mrs. Guy H. Sargeant. This affair will start at 2 o'clock and tickets for it must be obtained of the committee. Attending guests must be accompanied by the wife or daughter of a member.

On Friday evening, Dec. 12, there is to be a ladies' night at Lexington, Calumet visiting the Old Belfry Club at that place. Matches will be held in bowling, billiards, pool and bridge. The bowling will be by mixed teams of ladies and gentlemen. There is always a popular visitation and a large crowd from Winchester will probably attend. The evening will close with general bridge and dancing, and a collation will be served.

On Friday, Dec. 21, the annual New Year's party will be held. This is to be a dancing party from 8 until 1. The tickets which will be limited, are $1.50 each, and must be obtained of the steward of the club. The party is limited to members and their ladies, and their sons and daughters over 18 years of age.

CAR STOLEN AT WINCHESTER STATION

The Ford sedan of Mr. Alonzo Smithman of Florence street was stolen from the rear of the Winchester railroad station last Sunday evening after 10:30 o'clock. Mr. Smithman discovered his loss upon coming out of the American Express office where he is employed as one of the Winchester representatives of the company. He immediately notified the Winchester Police who in turn got in touch with all neighboring departments. Later the same night the local station house received a call from Sgt. Hickey of the Woburn Police stating that Smithman's car had been found overturned on the Lexington road and had been towed to the garage of J. H. Bates in Woburn to await its owner.

MR. GEORGE S. CABOT

Mr. George S. Cabot, for 34 years identified with the selling force of the Paine Furniture Company, passed away at his residence 15 Herick street in Winchester, on Friday, the 14th inst., after an illness of several months, in the 68th year of his age.

He was born on a farm near Hartland, Vt., the son of George Dwight and Charlotte M. Cabot. While getting his education he taught District schools some winters but came to Boston when about 21 years old, and after working for a short time in clerical positions, early became connected with the Paine Furniture Company, with which he continued until his death.

Mr. Cabot married in 1882 Miss Florence M. Lathrop of South Boston. For some years the couple maintained their home in Boston, and then removed to Winchester. Mrs. Cabot died in 1913, in Winchester.

Mr. Cabot was prominently identified with the First Congregational Church in Winchester, having been a Deacon from 1905 to 1922 and for 13 years having been Superintendent of the Sunday School. In the church and community he held places of responsibility and highest esteem, always a gentleman of fine bearing, notable courtesy and judgment.

He is survived by a son, Dwight Cabot, Treasurer of the Revere Trust Company, and a daughter, Miss Helen L. Cabot, who has resided over his home since her mother's death. Three brothers also survive, Charles D., 255 Newtonville, Lyman F. of Windsor, Vt., and Frank L. Cabot of Woodstock, Vt.

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon at the late residence of Mr. Cabot, conducted by the Rev. Howard J. Chidley. Mrs. Luther Child sang two selections, "Lead Kindly Light" and "That Shadowland so Beautiful." A large delegation of men from the Paine Furniture Company, headed by Mr. William L. Shearer, the President of the Company, attended. A large number of the residents of the town, together with all of the nearest relatives of Mr. Cabot, also were present. The honorary pallbearers were Messrs. Charles E. Swift, Frank E. Rowe, Edward A. Tacker, James S. Allen, Richard Corbitt, Dr. Samuel T. Eliot, Joseph T. Clark and E. E. Devlin. The active pallbearers were the three brothers and the son. The burial was at Forest Hills Cemetery.

WIRE CAR HIT TRUCK

Last Saturday afternoon the wire repair car of the Eastern Street Railway Co. which left Winchester square at 2:40 p. m. bound for Stoneham was in collision with a Ford truck, owned by Mrs. Frances Bozgo of Lynd street, while on Washington street near Lebanon street. The Ford was being driven by Frank Reago, and according to his story was headed south along Washington street and in the act of crossing the car tracks when it was bumped in the rear by the wire car. The truck was slightly damaged having its left rear mud-guard bent and a rear tire blown. Reago reported the collision to the Winchester Police.

We have a full line of children's toys and games for Christmas and birthdays. Winchester Exchange and Tea Room. n21-17

Remember the date of the Unitarian Church Fair open, Dec. 2, from 6 to 7.30 o'clock. Tickets $1. may be obtained from the following ladies until Friday, Nov. 28: Mrs. F. E. Hollins, Win. 0904; Mrs. A. F. Hollins, Win. 0118.

A turkey roll is being held this week at the Calumet Club, it opening on Saturday night. The final bowling will take place this Saturday. Three birds will be awarded, one each in class A, B and C. The bowler rolling the highest three string total with handicap takes the birds.

Fourth of a series of advertisements regarding the telephone situation in New England

Pulling Together

We are going to need, during the next five years, $100,000,000 of new money to extend telephone facilities for present and future subscribers of this company.

In order to get it we must demonstrate your willingness to pay for it, because money has its market price just as corn or cotton has; and we must get this money from the telephone investor rather than from the telephone user.

Some telephone users seem to think that their monthly payments for service supply the money with which to build telephone plant. This is not so. Telephone users do something equally important, however. By adequate payments for service they provide a fair return on the property built with the money supplied by telephone investors.

We expect to get new money, as needed, from the savings of New England people. One-fourth of our stockholders have five shares or less each; nine-tenths of them less than fifty shares each. They, and others like them, will continue to put their savings at your service provided they are paid for its use and their investment is protected.

New England needs this new money in order to further develop an efficient telephone system. We ask only for rates that will enable this company to get it and thus to continue its service as an asset to the business and social welfare of New England.

One O'clock-and the TURKEY BROWNING!

"If its done with Heat --you can do it better with GAS"

O, the teasing, tantalizing savor that comes from the kitchen just before the Thanksgiving feast is brought to the table. Gravy bubbling in the pan. Sweet potatoes browning in amber syrup! The big mince pie all sweet and spicy, steaming in the oven.

And over at the gas works, the men know just as well what's going on in every home kitchen as though they themselves caught some of the appetizing fragrance. They've been working night and day to fill the holders to meet the gas demand of this great home cooking day.

Many gas companies find that their "peak load" or greatest demand of the whole year comes on Thanksgiving Day between 11 a. m. and 2 p. m. Gas Service is indispensable to our national observance of Thanksgiving and we're proud that it is!

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Any man can easily drift down stream but every man must work his own way up.
Our lives are knit together by simple things—the man is what the boy has been.
It has been said that when disaster overtakes us, we can do one of two things—either we hear it—or we needn't grin.
Good, better, best! Never let it rest,
Till your good is better and your better best.
We measure success by accumulation. The measure is false. The true measure is appreciation.

Thanksgiving is more than Turkey Day. Our Pilgrim fathers acknowledged the gift which is ever reminding us that "Man shall not live by bread alone." How easy it is to enjoy the creation and forget the Creator! Thanksgiving will fail for all who do not make it an occasion of thanksgiving to God. The picture of God which we may remember with profit is in the words of him who knew God best: "You Heavenly Father, knowest how to give good gifts unto thy children." God is one who knows how to give. It is more blessed to give than to receive. But it is a far greater blessing than it is to give. Only infinite wisdom could fashion a world which would be safe to trust the children of men with. As it is, some use their world for a plaything; others use it for a gambling house; only a few use it for the glory of God and for the benefit of their fellowmen. The test of thankfulness is our use of the good gifts which are entrusted to us.

Thanksgiving is more than Turkey Day. A thankful heart is of more value than a full stomach. When they go very well together, these things become equal. It is the giving of thanks which would be the easiest thing any one could give. It is not so. Giving money is far easier, for in giving money all you need is a purse, while in giving thanks you must have a big heart. If there is anyone who thinks he has nothing to be thankful for, the trouble probably is not with the number of his mercies, but with the size of his soul.

Thanksgiving is more than Turkey Day. For this reason the Thanksgiving Proclamation from State and Nation call us to go up to the house of the Lord and make our offerings of thanksgiving.

Inter Church Council WHERE WE LIVE

Facts that have come to attention within the past few days relative to the War Memorial campaign are responsible for the following thought: The World War is over—six years have come and gone since Armistice Day. We rang the church bells, had parades, planned big receptions for the boys who returned, and all was rejoicing and happiness.

Our country was no longer in danger, our liberty was still an assured fact and our hearts were full of gratitude to God for what we had won. Why to worry? Why to the boys who faced death and privation that they might go in peace, comfort and safety in the pursuit of love and the daily task.

If we were grateful then, what has become of that boasted gratitude? What sort of gratitude are we showing toward the boys who left their lives on the battle field? Has time so dulled our sense of justice and responsibility that we no longer care or think of the boys whose lives were laid down for us. Are we unwilling now to give just a little toward a memorial in their behalf?

Where is our civic pride? Where is our patriotism? Are they dead? Why are we so callous and unresponsive to the appeal of those who are trying to erect a memorial? What sort of feeling is being engendered by our listless attitude? When the boys marched away we waved our hats and watched them out of sight around the bend in the road, some never to return. It is only by the grace of God that we did not stand in their places to face the horrors of war. We are safe and comfortable, we should ask ourselves, what answer comes to us, clear and clear, we should put our hands in our pockets and show by our generous giving that we meant it, when we said "we were back of our boys to the end."

To those then who have been asked to give and refused, and to those who have not been asked—the former should reconsider their refusal and respond generously; the latter will, without the asking, do the same.

THE BEST CAMPAIGN SPEECH

"To my father who is listening in, in my old home in Vermont, and to my other invisible audience, I say Goodnight."

President Coolidge was speaking. Now and then a political foe has charged that the Executive lacks originality. But there was originality in that. We should be interested to know whether any other person in the whole United States thought of that as the climax of the Republican campaign! The President himself did. The chances are that it was a studied force. At any rate its fitness, its fine emotional quality, cannot be denied.

Life has been described as a little way, a few short steps, from the cradle with its bulging love to that quiet wayside inn where all at last must sleep and where the only salvation is "Good night." In all our language there are few words that are sweeter than those—"good night." "Good night—until we meet again—good night until the morning breaks and life's vain shadows flee!"
Radio listeners thrilled to those final words filled with filial affection. Portions of the speech were repeated the next morning. Grave issues hinged upon the people's word. But the last thought of the Nation's leader in what is some way the supreme moment of his life was a thought of the father who, in childhood and in the later years, had so often uttered the words "Good night" to every loving heart—good night!

A father's affection for his son who had honored him through all the years of his life was the supreme moment of his life was a thought of the father who, in childhood and in the later years, had so often uttered the words "Good night" to every loving heart—good night!

CONGRATULATIONS!

We are glad to publish the following appreciation of the quality of service rendered by the Winchester Police.

To the Board of Selectmen, Town of Winchester, Winchester, Mass.

Gentlemen:—
It seems only fitting that I call your attention to the excellent work your police department in connection with the break at the home of my mother, Mrs. Ellen B. Page, of 84 Bacon street.

The work of officer Edward W. O'Connell in giving chase to the suspect on a clew furnished him and finally capturing the right man was beyond my mind, a high order of intelligence, determination, and even bravery, and I am glad to know that we have men of his type on our force.

I would also commend especially the work of officer Kelley in discovering the break, which shows vigilance and close attention to duty on his part.

It is gratifying to know that we can depend on the protection of our local police officers, especially in the case of homes that are closed for the summer. Very truly yours,
John E. Page

ALMOST A THING OF BEAUTY

WINCHESTER GIRL IN FASHION SHOW

A Winchester girl, Miss Marie C. Locke of Thompson street, appeared in the fashion show at the Charity Ball held at the Conley Plaza this week Wednesday and Thursday. She was appointed by Jordan, Marsh & Company to represent that firm, exhibiting evening gowns and appearing as a bridesmaid.

Marriage intentions have been filed with the Town Clerk by Mr. William Gordon Chapman of Nashua, N. H. and Miss Dorothy Locke Smith of Ridge street, Winchester.

FLORENCE CRITTENTON LEAGUE BAZAAR

The Florence Crittenton League held its Annual Bazaar on Wednesday and Thursday of this week in the ball room of the Conley Plaza Hotel in Boston. The League has local circles in most of the surrounding towns of Boston and each circle had its own booth, sometimes two booths, at this bazaar. Wednesday evening and Thursday afternoon there was a musical and fashion show in the hotel foyer, which alone was well worth attending.

The booths this year were unusually attractive and gave evidence of much effort spent by the workers.

The Winchester Circle had a toy booth which made Christmas shopping for the children so easy and pleasant; there were mechanical toys, beautiful dolls of all kinds, beads to string, juvenile cedar chests, small Christmas trees already for the candles and gifts, doll furniture, games, and all sorts of things to delight the children.

The Winchester Circle also had a most attractive and alluring "sand-box grab" and "elephant grab" booth, which was one of the outstanding features of the bazaar. The sand-box was very kindly donated and delivered to the hotel by Mr. James Fitzgerald of Winchester. This was a very large box filled with sand, with flowers scattered here and there, from which the children could draw their grabs. For the elephant grab, you placed a dime in the elephant's mouth and as he was fed on sugar alone your grab was some kind of candy.

Those responsible for the success of the Winchester booths were Mrs. J. Harper Blaisdell, President; toy booth, Mrs. T. E. Eismann, chairman; Mrs. W. H. Lowell, Mrs. Newton Shultis, Mrs. W. G. C. Kimball, sub-chairman and the following committee: Mrs. T. Crawford Abbott, Mrs. George Ansey, Mrs. Horace W. Ash, Mrs. Howard J. Chidley, Mrs. W. S. Emerson, Mrs. James P. Heaton, Mrs. William Mitchell, Mr. Harris Richardson. Others assisting were Mrs. Schraft, Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Whitaker, Mrs. Soles, Mrs. Ordway, Mrs. Dissel, Mrs. Bradley, Mrs. Burnham, Mrs. Jenkins, Mrs. Barry, Mrs. Goff, Mrs. Kerrison, Mrs. William Hall, Mrs. Luce, Mrs. Dunper, Mrs. Parsons, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. O. E. Sanborn, Miss Sanborn, Mrs. George Kimball, Miss Langan, Mrs. Delbert, Mrs. Estabrook, Miss Sweet, Miss F. E. Palmer.

Grab Booth—Mrs. Frank A. Merrill, chairman; Mrs. Chandler Symmes, Mrs. Geoffrey Neilly, Mrs. L. L. Wadsworth, Mrs. F. T. Davis, Mrs. E. B. Smith, Mrs. Hoxey and Mrs. Wasratt. Mrs. Bowen Tufts was a vice-chairman on the general executive committee of the bazaar.

RUBBER PAVING LAID IN BOSTON

Invented and Developed by Mr. Rufus F. Herrick of this Town

Rubber paving was laid last week in a little stretch of roadway 18 by 30 on Harrison avenue, near Massachusetts avenue, Boston. Rubber paving has been laid before in Boston on a bridge where the base was of wood and under different structural conditions than in road building.

It was a ceremony, in a way, though participated in by only a few. A paving block is a paving block, whether it be of rubber or what not. The business of laying it is not a colorful or dramatic one. Yet in the midst of a little group of highway engineers and passers-by who watched city workmen swiftly fashion a street under the big black domes, one recalled the picture in his schoolboy book of history of a handful of Indians and whites who looked on in a doubtful silence as the last spike of the Union Pacific was hammered home.

For those directly concerned in the commercial production of rubber paving blocks the situation savored of the epochal. Highway engineers seemed conscious of the fact that they were participants in a bit of experimental pioneering toward which the road experts of the Nation may soon be directing their attention.

The laying of the rubber paving blocks is the personal supervision of J. H. Sullivan, engineer of the highway division of the City of Boston. The block so far used was developed by Rufus F. Herrick, a consulting engineer of Boston and assisted by William T. Gould, which was shown as a patent, and manufactured by the Boston Woven Hose and Rubber Company of Cambridge. The paving was given to the city, whose only expense was that of laying.

The blocks used measure 6 by 12 inches by 1 1/2 inches thick and are laid with the same facility as ordinary blocks, but being much larger in dimensions an area is covered quicker. The roadbed is prepared in the same manner as for any surface, except that the blocks are laid in a thin cushion of sand and cement mortar which holds them in place. Unlike the rubber paving that was put on Northern avenue bridge last May as an experiment, these blocks are not spiked down. The blocks used on a part of the highway are made with spikes for nailing purposes and are spiked to the wood of the bridge floorings. They were the blocks used on Harrison avenue today, used on a bridge they would be laid in a mastic cushion of an asphalt character, the flexibility of which would prevent cracking.

The primary purpose of the present test is to determine whether these slabs will stay "put." In order to accomplish this the blocks are made with lugs, or cleats, on the bottom surface. When the blocks are placed in position and rolled these lugs are forced into the mastic cement or asphalt cushion. This forms an anchorage to the road bed, thereby overcoming the crawling and other movements of displacement that have marred rubber paving heretofore impractical.

There seems to be no question about the wearing qualities of rubber paving compared to other surfacings. While this form of paving is new in America

It is not new in England, having been tried as far back as 1871. At that time a stretch of St. Fumers street in London was paved with rubber and, according to figures obtained by city engineers, the surface has worn only three-sixteenths of an inch in more than 50 years.

The fullest data, however, concerning these experiments in England, have not yet been collected. It is understood that the blocks laid in London were smooth on the lower surface.

The blocks used in Boston are manufactured from scrap rubber—old automobile tires, rubber boots and rubber balls—reclaimed and compounded. It is expected that it will be more expensive than other forms of paving but that this will be offset by its greater durability and facility of laying, in the opinion of Mr. Herrick and his associates.

Among those present at the laying, besides Mr. Herrick and Mr. Sullivan were Edgar E. Fay, assistant general manager of the Woven Hose & Rubber Company, and E. S. Dorr, consulting engineer, and for 14 years connected with the sewer division of the city.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Chief William R. McIntosh of the Winchester Police Department is constantly receiving additions to the record of James Nelson, the man with many aliases who was interrupted while burglarizing the residence of Mrs. Annie H. Page on Bacon street by motorcycle officer Edward O'Connell on Cambridge street near the Winchester Country Club. His last bit of information comes from the police department of Buffalo, N. Y. where Nelson was arrested Feb. 11, 1920 under the name of Louis Brown for forgery.

Chief McIntosh did not learn what disposition was made of his case at the time, but it is evident that the charge on which he was taken was still hanging over him when he was arrested in Boston on a forgery charge March 19, of the same year.

The Winchester Fire Department was called out Wednesday evening at 7:45 o'clock for a fire at the K. of C. House on Vine street. The fire was confined to the heater room of the house which had become saturated with oil apparently from an over supply which had not been properly shut off in the feed pipe of the oil burner. When the department arrived a lively blaze was in progress, and the ceiling of the room was full of smoke. As the heater room is fire-proof no damage was done, and the fire was put out with hand chemicals.

Roses

These roses under my window make no reference to former roses or to better ones; they are for what they are; they exist with God today. There is no time to them. There is simply the rose; it is perfect in every moment of its existence. Before a leaf-bud has burst, its whole life is in it; in the leaf-bud that flower there is no more; in the leafless rose there is no less; Emerson.

Convicts Pulled Street Cars

Years ago when Australia was the exile to which many English offenders against law and society were sent as convicts, some harsh disciplinary measures were resorted to, among them being the hitching of six men to a street car that traversed six or seven miles. They had to run the entire distance and the drivers lashed them when they began to tire. Six men were supposed to pull a ton of weight in the way of passengers.

The Alarm Went Off

"Just as I was about to scoop up the peck of $20 bills a pink elephant stepped on my hand, caught me in his trunk, tossed me high into the air, and I alighted in a den containing two large circle-colored lions, who advanced with jaws open, and then—the alarm clock went off. What could be sweeter?"—Slowdown.

Raindrops Flat as Ends

Raindrops are not perfectly round. Motion pictures show that, contrary to popular opinion, they are flat at the top and bottom, apparently due to air pressure. The flattening makes each drop comparatively only about half its expected height.

THE ULTIMATE PURPOSE OF RED CROSS

God works His will upon earth through the hearts of mankind. The Red Cross, from its Geneva beginning, by men yearning over the fearful agony of war, to its spread today throughout the world with deepening realization of unselfish service for all peoples, is one of the powerful witnesses of God's beneficent will upon earth. The world is growing better. You are part of God's motive power that will finally develop His kingdom upon earth.

Abyssinian Alphabet Hugs

Abyssinian is a nation of more than 10,000,000 of whom a large percentage are illiterate, and it is a coincidence that the Abyssinian alphabet contains 286 letters. If an Abyssinian typewriter should be built on the same principle as the one used in America and European countries, it would have nearly 500 keys. Without any extra characters it would ordinarily have 472 keys, providing 944 letters, numerals and necessary characters.

What is a "Tinker's Dam"?

A "tinker's dam," says the Kansas City Star, is a wall of dough or of soft clay raised around a spot which a plumber, in repairing, desires to flood with solder. The material of this dam can be used only once, and is thrown away after this very temporary period of usefulness. Hence the saying "not worth a tinker's dam," which either through a perverse humor or through misunderstanding has been converted into profanity by the addition of a final "n."

English Idea of Murder

The generally accepted definition of murder in English law is that of Coke: When a person of sound memory and discretion unlawfully kills any reasonable creature in being and under the king's peace with malice aforethought, either expressed or implied.

Advice for Poet

To the poet, as to every other, we say first of all, "Be." If you cannot do that, if it is of no use to keep struggling rhymanes together, flinging sensibilities against each other, and name yourself a poet; there is no hope for you. If you cannot do this in prose or verse, in action or speculation, all manner of hope—Carlyle in "Heroes and Hero Worship."

"Adrenaline Type"

There are certain men and women who surprise others by their power apparently to endure and perform beyond the ordinary capacity. Scientists are of the opinion that these people are able to draw stored energy from certain glands, and they are sufficiently numerous to constitute a type, to which the name "adrenaline type" has been given.

Sperm Whale Valuable

The most valuable catch that is made in salt water is a sperm whale. A very large specimen taken off the west coast of Vancouver Island was found to contain 250 pounds of ambergris. This alone brought $150,000, while the blubber and spermaceti were worth another $3,500.

Utilizing Sun's Heat

Mirrors concentrating the sun's rays are said to have yielded temperatures as high as 2,500 degrees. One proposed method of storing the heat is by using it to produce elements that will give out heat when required on exposure to air and water, or through similar reactions.

Hit White Bread

The sale of white bread throughout England has decreased 50 per cent in the last two years due to the repeated warnings by doctors that white bread is a likely cause of cancer. There has been a corresponding increase in the sale of wholewheat bread.

GOOD YEAR

POP CONCERT BRILLIANT SUCCESS

The annual Pop Concert for the benefit of the Winchester Hospital, losing none of its former attractiveness, though occupying a much earlier date on the social calendar than heretofore took place in the Town Hall last Friday evening. It was the usual success which we have come to expect Pop Concerts to be from past experience, well planned, capably handled, pleasing in each detail. There was a good attendance at the tables on the floor with many availing themselves of the opportunity to view the spectacle and enjoy the music from the balconies.

As upon many former occasions the concert program on last Friday was furnished by the Salem Cadet Band under the direction of Jean M. Missus, veteran conductor, this year assisted by Mrs. Helen Edlefson Barr, soprano, and Miss Marie Louie Thomas, Denishawn dancer. Miss Mary H. French was accompanist for Mrs. Barr with Miss Blanchard filling a like role for Miss Thomas. The entire program was excellent and warmly received, the instrumental numbers being varied and well done while the dancing of Miss Thomas proved a novel and most attractive variation from the purely musical numbers.

It was Mrs. Barr, however, who made the individual hit of the evening, and apparently she gains in popularity with each local appearance. While wisely confining herself to selections of the lighter sort, nevertheless her numbers clearly showed her ability as a vocalist and she was obliged to add many encores. She sang, "Come to the Fair" (old English), "What'll I do" from the Music Box Review, "For You a Rose" (The Heart of a Rose), "Say it Again" from "Moonlight" and the late Victor Herbert's extremely popular "Kiss in the Dark." Mrs. Barr's effectiveness with the usual artistic accompaniment.

The complete program follows:

March "Parade of the Legionnaires" Musical
Overture "St. John's Bell" Chabrier
Valse "Espana" Bachelard
Saxophone Solo "Impromptu" Bachelard
Fred. E. Bachelard
"Celebrated Operatic Themes" Tabani
March "Down South" Middleton
Selection "The Rose Tree" (Morris)
Dance "Lendyda Marica" (Morris)
Song "Waltz Ballet"
Song "Spainia Mia" Verdi
Dance "Alma" Verdi
Selection "Home Sweet Home" Gounod
Song "America the Beautiful" Musical
March "Parade of the Legionnaires" Musical

The formal program was followed by general dancing. The ushers for the evening were in charge of Mr. Marshall W. Symmes and included Messrs. W. Gleason Buckley, Harry E. Bigelow, Edward Sandberg, Louis E. Goddu, Rowan Parker and Kenneth M. Pratt.

Mrs. William A. Lefavour was in charge of the waitresses, among whom were the following Misses:

JOHN HENRY MOYNIHAN

John Henry Moynihan, a lifelong resident of Winchester, passed away at his home on Winchester place last Saturday afternoon. He was 64 years of age and had been in poor health for several years.

Mr. Moynihan was born in Winchester in 1860, the son of Cornelius and Abbie Moynihan. He was educated in the public schools, and for many years was employed as a gardener until ill health forced his retirement from active work some ten years ago. During the 44 years of his life the deceased made many friends, and was widely known among the older residents of the town to whom his death came as a distinct shock.

Besides his wife, Mr. Moynihan is survived by a daughter, Mrs. William McMillin, and two sons, John C. and Henry Moynihan, all of Winchester; by one sister, Mrs. Abbie Daley of San Francisco, California, and by three brothers, Joseph, James and Henry Moynihan of West Newton.

Funeral services were held at the late residence, 14 Winchester place, at 8:30 o'clock, Tuesday morning, followed by high mass of requiem at St. Mary's Church celebrated by the Rev. Fr. Joseph M. Fitzgerald. The bearers included Messrs. John, Peter and Patrick Mawn, James Murphy and Edward and John Danahy. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery, Montvale.

REV. WILLIAM L. LAWRENCE ON LONG TOUR

Rev. William L. Lawrence, the secretary of the Department of Religious Education of the American Unitarian Association, started this week on a tour which will keep him in the Middle West and South all winter, conducting church school inlets, holding joint meetings of parents and teachers, conferring with officers and teachers of church schools on their special problems, and occupying Sunday morning pulpits.

Upon starting his tour Dr. Lawrence went first to Hollis, L. L., where his daughter, Miss My Lawrence, conducts a very successful church school in a community which has no Unitarian Church. From Hollis he goes to Kansas City, Topeka, Wichita, Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Dallas, San Antonio, Houston, New Orleans, Memphis, Nashville, Chattanooga, and Atlanta.

Dr. Lawrence is well known in Winchester, having formerly resided here for many years, and minister of the local Unitarian Church.

BOY SCOUT LECTURE POSTPONED

Announcement was made this week that owing to the illness of Ernest Arnold, the lecturer, he will not be able to deliver his lecture under the auspices of the Boy Scouts on Nov. 22. No date for the lecture has been set as pending the recovery of Mr. Haynes.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

WORK?—Part No. 2

As the measuring compartments of the gas meter are emptied and filled they are recorded as cubic feet on the dial. This principal of measurement was invented about eight years ago and has so well served its purpose that but few minor changes have been made to it since.

The measuring compartments are made by means of most carefully selected and specially treated sheet metal. Should there be a hole in these diaphragms the gas will pass from the compartment being measured to that already measured and thus such gas would not be measured. Similarly, if the valves to the compartments are not tight, unmeasured gas will slip by to the gas which has already been measured.

It is the gas which passes through a gas meter which causes it to register. If no gas is being taken from the outlet of the meter it will not move, as soon as the gas flow stops instantly will the meter stop.

When all the burner openings on the meter outlet are closed off the gas trapped in the pipings on the outlet side of the meter acts as an instant stop on the meter mechanism.

All householders should learn from their gas company how to read their meter. The meter is only a mechanism which sums up the amounts of gas used from time to time. It is like a cash register of the business man.

The housewife may consult her meter each day to determine her daily expenditure for gas. Such daily meter reading will act as a budget reminder on household expenses and will serve to promote confidence in the accuracy of the gas meter.

TRACKS BLOCKED BY AUTO SMASH

Last Monday afternoon shortly before 3 o'clock there occurred an automobile smashup on Church street near the junction of Bacon and Fletcher in connection with which it is most fortunate that there was not serious injury or worse.

The crash was occasioned when a Ford truck driven by Frederick J. Harris of West Melford collided with a Ford touring car operated by Harold Senabough of 940 Main street, Winchester. The truck was headed south on Fletcher street bound for Bacon street while Senabough's machine was going southwest along Church street. Both cars were badly damaged, and many who viewed the wreckage voiced their surprise that the operators escaped without injury.

The Eastern Street Railway tracks were blocked by the battered machines and traffic along Church street was delayed until they could be removed. It was necessary to tow both cars away for repairs, the Ford touring being taken to the Central Garage.

WINCHESTER AND MELROSE IN JOINT DEBATE

A joint debate is to be held by Winchester and Melrose Granges in Lyman Hall on Tuesday evening next, Nov. 25, the subject being "Resolved, that the proposed child labor amendment to the Constitution of the United States should be ratified."

POP CONCERT BRILLIANT SUCCESS

The annual Pop Concert for the benefit of the Winchester Hospital, losing none of its former attractiveness, though occupying a much earlier date on the social calendar than heretofore took place in the Town Hall last Friday evening. It was the usual success which we have come to expect Pop Concerts to be from past experience, well planned, capably handled, pleasing in each detail. There was a good attendance at the tables on the floor with many availing themselves of the opportunity to view the spectacle and enjoy the music from the balconies.

As upon many former occasions the concert program on last Friday was furnished by the Salem Cadet Band under the direction of Jean M. Missus, veteran conductor, this year assisted by Mrs. Helen Edlefson Barr, soprano, and Miss Marie Louie Thomas, Denishawn dancer. Miss Mary H. French was accompanist for Mrs. Barr with Miss Blanchard filling a like role for Miss Thomas. The entire program was excellent and warmly received, the instrumental numbers being varied and well done while the dancing of Miss Thomas proved a novel and most attractive variation from the purely musical numbers.

It was Mrs. Barr, however, who made the individual hit of the evening, and apparently she gains in popularity with each local appearance. While wisely confining herself to selections of the lighter sort, nevertheless her numbers clearly showed her ability as a vocalist and she was obliged to add many encores. She sang, "Come to the Fair" (old English), "What'll I do" from the Music Box Review, "For You a Rose" (The Heart of a Rose), "Say it Again" from "Moonlight" and the late Victor Herbert's extremely popular "Kiss in the Dark." Mrs. Barr's effectiveness with the usual artistic accompaniment.

The complete program follows:

March "Parade of the Legionnaires" Musical

Overture "St. John's Bell" Chabrier

Valse "Espana" Bachelard

Saxophone Solo "Impromptu" Bachelard

Fred. E. Bachelard

"Celebrated Operatic Themes" Tabani

March "Down South" Middleton

Selection "The Rose Tree" (Morris)

Dance "Lendyda Marica" (Morris)

Song "Waltz Ballet"

Song "Spainia Mia" Verdi

Dance "Alma" Verdi

Selection "Home Sweet Home" Gounod

Song "America the Beautiful" Musical

March "Parade of the Legionnaires" Musical

The formal program was followed by general dancing. The ushers for the evening were in charge of Mr. Marshall W. Symmes and included

STRUCK HYDRANT NEAR HOSPITAL

The slippery condition of Highland avenue is believed to be responsible for an accident that occurred Tuesday morning when a Ford truck owned by the National Coat and Apron Supply Company skidded and ran into a hydrant near the Winchester Hospital. The machine was driven by William E. Taft of Roxbury who was accompanied by Daniel Hourihan also of Roxbury. Hourihan was thrown against the windshield of the truck by the impact and received minor cuts about the face. He was removed to the Winchester Hospital by Messrs. William Nowell and Frank Carse, the local Water Department. It was attended by Dr. After treatment back.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING OF THE MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

Fathers' Night of the Mothers' Association was held on Tuesday the 18th at High School Assembly Hall. The well-known "Lincoln Players" gave great pleasure opening the meeting with America, sung by the audience, followed by two selections of their own well-played. Kipling's "Recessional" was recited in spirited manner by Miss Frances Lovell. Then came the address on Americanism, "As it was, is and as it may be," by Prof. Charles E. Towne of Lowell Seminary. The patience of the audience with the long preamble was rewarded by some telling and interesting facts and figures later. Though it was nearly ten before the social began, it proved a very social one. Many parents were there to meet the teachers. All seemed to enjoy it and the refreshments provided by our faithful social committee.

UNITARIAN CHRISTMAS BAZAAR

Mrs. Clifford P. Nutting and a host of eager workers have planned a gay Christmas bazaar at the Unitarian Church on Dec. 2, at two o'clock. Beautiful and practical holiday gifts of every sort, as well as wreaths, greens and wrappings will be displayed. Do your Christmas shopping early and pleasantly at this bazaar. Supper served from six until half past seven, with Mrs. Stillman P. Williams and Dr. Mary T. Maynard in charge.

WINCHESTER HOSPITAL SCHOOL FOR NURSES

Miss Mackay, Superintendent of the Hospital wishes to announce that a new class for probationers will be started in January. Miss Urquhart is particularly well equipped to give the most up-to-date practical training and Miss Redfern, graduate of Columbia University is the instructor in the theoretical branches. Miss Mackay will be glad to give information at any time and we feel that this is an exceptional opportunity for young women interested in nursing as a profession.

MORE SUBSCRIBERS NEEDED

Nov. 24, 1924
To the Editor of the Star:
I have recently sent the enclosed personal letter to some 20 or more substantial and influential business men of Winchester and it occurs to me that there may be some whom I do not know or whom I may have overlooked who would like to join us in this good work. Will you therefore kindly publish this letter so that all who wish may have an opportunity to aid to this extent.

My dear Sir:
I have been asked by the Committee on the Town Memorial to assist in raising funds by subscription to vote of the town at the annual meeting. This I am very glad to do, as I have been interested in the war in having a suitable memorial erected by our town. You will remember in the recent campaign for our hospital, in order that it might be brought to a successful conclusion it was necessary for a certain number of men to give $1000 or more for this worthy cause. I was very glad to be one of those men. Now, in order to bring this campaign to a successful issue, it may be creditable to our town, it would seem necessary for a certain number of men to give $1000 or more for this purpose. Again, I am glad to be one of that number, and I ask you to join me by giving a similar amount.

This campaign will close on Thanksgiving Day, but the subscriptions may be paid any time before May 1, 1925 and in the case of the larger subscriptions the whole or a part could go over into the fall of 1925, when the final payment will probably be due.

Appreciating very much your hearty co-operation in this matter, I am
Sincerely yours,
Lewis Parkhurst

SEA HAWK AT STRAND THEATRE, WOBURN, MONDAY, TUESDAY, WEDNESDAY

The management of the Strand Theatre, Woburn, announce "The Sea Hawk," the year's most talked of picture for next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Milton Sills, Edith Bennett and Wallace Beery head the cast of 3000 players that were employed in making this gigantic spectacle, in which four great galleys were specially constructed at a cost of $275,000, costumes made at a cost of $85,000, an entire moorish village of the 16th century type was built. Seven sea captains assisted in maneuvering the ships.

Rafael Sabatini, the author, has given the world his greatest romantic drama in "The Sea Hawk."

CHRISTOPHER WREN TEA SHOP

Christopher Wren Tea Shop, formerly Mrs. Elizabeth's, will open December 1st. There will be breakfast, luncheon afternoon tea and supper served in the tea room and popular priced luncheons at the soda fountain. The front of the shop will be devoted to gifts and antiques especially suitable for Christmas. Tremont at Park streets, Boston.

CONCERT MUCH ENJOYED

On Monday evening, Nov. 24, in the Town Hall Mme. Sargent Goodelle presented her pupil, Miss Marionne Godbout, in a vocal program of unusual merit, and one calculated to demonstrate this young lady's mastery of her art.

Miss Godbout is a true coloratura soprano, combining a rare fluidity of expression with an ample roundness of tone akin to the Galli-Curci type, a combination only too rare in the world of song today, and one which possessed by so youthful an artist as Miss Godbout, must lead eventually to universal recognition.

Miss Godbout's charming rendition is executed with an assurance which indicates the wealth of technical training which has fitted her for the position in musical circles which she occupies today.

Mr. Levene at the piano was at all times in thorough sympathy with the singer, and with rare skill assisted in the rendering of the program.

It was a charming concert, and Mme. Goodelle was generously felicitated upon the success of the occasion. The complete program follows:

Delight Waltz Luckstone
(a) Sally Rose Haskins
(b) I Saw Thee Weep Samuels
(c) Phillis Has Such Charming Grace Wilson
(d) To a Messenger La Force
Dovo Sono From Nozze di Figaro Mozart
(a) La Molitio Des Biers Massenet
(b) Vrai Que Le Printemps Debussy
(c) Les Yeux Robey
Aria, A Force Lui From La Traviata Verdi

Children's Day

Some very entertaining surprises will be ready to greet mothers and children at the December meeting on the 17th at 8 p. m. in the High School Assembly Hall.

Watch for further particulars in next week's Star.

Have the date, Dec. 17, and bring the children.

The whole Association invited to be present. An announcement will be made of proposed important changes in the by-laws, to be voted on at the annual meeting in January.

THE SKATING COMMITTEE

A committee has been arranged to help further the plan for a skating rink for the town on the Palmer Street Playground. The members of the committee are Messrs. Dudley Cotten, 29 Wilbur street, Mr. Herbert W. Kelley, 3 Willow street and Mr. Richard R. Higgins, 68 Church street. All these are near enough to the playground to give it their personal attention.

Efforts are being made to persuade the Electric Lighting Corporation to deliver its current near enough to the playground to enable the town to buy

FOOTBALL OUTLOOK FOR NEXT YEAR BRIGHTER

Winchester High has just closed what even its most partisan supporters will have to admit has been a most disastrous season. One win in eight starts cannot be held up as an enviable record, especially by a team that has scored but 22 points in those contests while its opponents succeeded in piling up 161 on the other side of the ledger. The fact of things it would naturally seem that something has been radically wrong with local football and those knowing the least about conditions this year have been quick to adopt that view, assigning this and that reason for the team's poor showing.

Before swinging the hammer too lustily upon any one for anything connected with Winchester's football team this fall let's take a look at a few of the obstacles that stood in the way of a successful season, and then let us ask ourselves how we would like under the circumstances to have been expected to produce a winning team.

In the first place, what of material?
No team can be a whole lot better than the material of which it is made. The roster for the local eleven this year was for the most part very light in weight, and weakly inexperienced. There was but one experienced man available for the backfield while in the line Melly at center was the only player who had any previous experience in the game of playing as a regular with a winning team. And to make things even more gloomy material was by no means plentiful. Only some 20 boys being about all Coach Roberts has had to work with during most of the season. When this number is reduced, as it was in the case reported at Melrose last fall, and it is understood that of the 20 playing at Winchester only some 15 or so were ready when the season opened, it becomes apparent that the locals got away to no running start from a material standpoint.

Then to cap the climax three men upon whom Coach Roberts had dependent were not available this year.
One did not return to school while the other two were ineligible because of studies. This same tightness of the scholastic reins also kept three or four other promising men out of the lineup when the season would have been a material benefit to the team. Having five or six men out of the game on account of studies, and three or four more on account of ineligibility, Winchester, with its small number of candidates at best, proved no exception to the rule.

So much for the local material. In an ordinary season of Mystic League football Winchester might not have done so badly. But this year everything was made doubly difficult by the exceptionally heavy boys in their several squads, and in most instances these same lads had played a lot of football in the same manner in the two teams which Winchester played outside the league. Every game found the home eleven outweighed from 10 to 20 pounds a man.

Going up on each Saturday against teams much bigger, stronger and more experienced than themselves had a telling effect upon the local boys, who knew before the start of most of their games that they did not have a chance against the rugged machines with whom they were contending. In each contest the Winchester players took a hard battering and to the writer, it is a wonder that they stood up under it as well as they did. Only Melrose actually overwhelmed them, and in all the other contests the teams put up a splendid fight against big odds. We're inclined to think the boys and their Coach deserve more credit than they get on their year's work, it being no part of a coach to go out week after week with nothing ahead but a tough hammering ending in defeat.

For next year, then, Winchester, the outlook seems considerably brighter.
Eight letter men who have been considered regulars will be available next fall along with several first string substitutes. Melly, center, Hegel, guard, and Dabney, tackle have all played their final game for Winchester, and their loss will be felt as they have been the three biggest men in the squad this year. Melly especially will leave a huge hole to fill, his play this season stamping him as the best center in the Mystic Valley League, and one of the best around Boston.

Hegel's weight has made him a valuable man to the team while Dabney has proved dependable at his tackle position. In the backfield "Wop" Rol-li will be the only absentee another fall, and while the little fellow has been Winchester's best running back all season, it is expected that in some of those ineligible to play this fall a worthy successor will be found. Both first string ends, "Spiky" O'Donnell and "Bud" Robinson will be on hand next year as will "Fat" Johnson and Walker, first string guards, the latter alternating with Hegel. "Charlie" Cassidy, this year's captain and left tackle is a lineman who should prove a tower of strength to the forward line next season. Cassidy has been a first string performer for two seasons and this year is the only man to play every minute of each game, a notable record in view of the terrific battering the Winchester forwards were subjected to in each contest. In the backfield Harriman, Knowlton and Haiswartz will all be on hand another year, and their experience in the games this fall should make them a valuable trio. Knowlton, especially, showed promise in the last few games, and as he is but a freshman should develop into a real star.
Along with these boys are McCarthy, a speedy back; Haley, a flashy quarterback and Simmons, a promising line plunger who were ineligible this season but who it is expected will be available another year.

With eight first string men as a nucleus together with subs and ineligibles of the present season Winchester should have a whole lot more enjoyable football season next fall, and it is hoped that local sports' followers will look ahead to that time rather than back to what is expected to prove the beginning of better things.

WINCHESTER GIRLS HAD GOOD HOCKEY YEAR

Winchester High School Girls' Field
Hockey Team hung up its sticks last Tuesday afternoon after defeating Reading Hook at home on Manchester Field to close what has probably been the most successful season the school has enjoyed since the introduction of the sport back in 1919.

Out of 10 games played six resulted in wins for the local outfit while the four defeats were by the margin of one goal and came after stirring battles. The only lack licking which the Winchester girls received was at the hands of Stoughton which won 4 to 0 in the first game of the season. Winchester was in a badly disorganized state at that time, and it is entirely within reason to believe that it would have beaten Stoughton later in the year.

Much of the credit for the splendid showing made by this year's eleven must be given to its coach, Miss Fris-cilla Wheeler of the Department of Physical Education who has worked hard and to good purpose in producing a winning combination, largely from green material.

The outlook at the start of the season was not entirely rosy as only two veteran players were available for the eleven. Three other girls were in school but two were in scholastic difficulty, and the third had decided not to play. Almost an entirely new team had to be developed.

Placing her two veterans, Captain "Lou" Skilling, and "Kay" Carlisle at their old wing positions Miss Wheeler showed the judgment in selecting and placing her other nine players, judging them around until a first class combination was produced.

Several obstacles had to be overcome during the season, and the way in which these difficulties were met was a distinct credit to both coach and squad.
Besides Captain Skilling and Carlisle on the forward line were Wilhelmina Simmons, Anna Mackenzie and
"Katie" Valley at the centers, and
"Dot" Wentworth at center forward.
All were good with the two veterans, Skilling and Carlisle shining in nearly every game. Winster probably had the two best wings in the league this year, and "Kay" Carlisle will be back to carry on another season. With her in the lineup Simmons, "Dot" Wentworth and "Kay" Valley, leaving only one of the wings to be filled next fall. The half backs this year have been "Bud" Bourne, Vincenza Rollo, and "Kay" Nelson, and their work has been satisfactory. "Bud" Bourne was especially good on defense, showing the best quality of any on the team at that important position, checking back. Both she and "Kay" Nelson got through this year, leaving but one veteran for next year.
Good material, however, is available and the half backs should not be weak in the coming year.

The defense of the eleven consisting of Florence Ferrina, and
"Dot" and "Gertie" Bond will all be available next season. The fact that these three teams were able to score more than one goal against Winster is a good indication of the ability of this trio. "Dot" Bond was particularly brilliant, and her work did not suffer by comparison with any defense player in the league. She should be a real whiz next year. Possibly no player showed as much improvement during the season as "Gertie" Bond, the Winchester goalie. Starting the year in rather indifferent fashion, she became noticeably as the season advanced until in the final games her work left nothing to be desired, and on several occasions she saved the day for her team with brilliant stops.

Florence Ferrina who replaced Elanor Healey at left fullback also came strong in the final contests and should be a star another year.

The individual records show that
"Kay" Carlisle was the individual scoring ace of the outfit with 13 goals in 10 games. Captain "Lou" Skilling and "Dot" Wentworth each tallied three goals with Anna Mackenzie scoring one. As a team Winchester played 10 games, winning six and losing four. Winchester scored 20 points to its opponents 13, was shut out three times while whitewashing its adversaries on three occasions.

The season's record follows:
Winchester 0 Stoughton 4
Winchester 0 Woburn 1
Winchester 0 Lexington 2
Winchester 3 Wilmington 0
Winchester 0 Melrose 1
Winchester 5 Wellesley 1
Winchester 1 Swampscott 9
Winchester 0 Canton 0
Winchester 2 Winthrop 3
Winchester 5 Reading 0

WINCHESTER SWAMPS READING

Winchester High closed its varsity field hockey season Tuesday afternoon defeating Reading 5 to 0 on Manchester Field in a slow game which was too one-sided to be particularly interesting. Reading is having its first year of hockey this season, and the lack of experience was clearly noticeable in their play. Winchester on the other hand was not particularly impressive, its players showing the effects of their long lay-off since the Winthrop mid-fight. The locals can thank the weakness of the visiting defense, and the individual brilliance of
"Kay" Carlisle for the top-sided score, its crack left wing scoring four of the five goals, two on shots from difficult angles.

Winchester scored shortly after the opening whistle, Carlisle pushing the ball from scrimmage in front of the Reading goal, and quickly following up with another tally which ended the scoring for the rest of the half.

Shortly after the beginning of the third quarter, Carlisle scored again on a nice individual effort which took the ball from beyond middle field down to the Reading sticks for a goal from a tough angle, the best play of the afternoon. In the fourth quarter Captain Skilling took the ball from mid-field in front shooting direct into the Reading goal before she was blocked. From the resulting scrimmage "Dot" Wentworth poked the ball home for the fourth goal.

The final play was made by Carlisle from scrimmage after Wilhelmnia Simmons had brought the ball up the field and "Lou" Skilling had shot in from the Reading half line.

Winchester's goal was never seriously threatened, only two shots getting as far as the sticks, both of which were blocked by "Gertie" Bond. Incidentally Florence Ferrina was very much on the defensive job, and was largely responsible for stopping the visiting attack before it reached the threatening stage. "Kay" Valley and "Bud" Bourne were also thorns in the sides of the Reading ball carriers.

Growth

New England's large and varied tele-

In scores of communities large office buildings are under construction and new manufacturing and residential sections are developing.

To illustrate how New England is progressing we show the prospective telephone growth of a few of its larger communities:

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Many men know how to take success quietly, the real test of a man is the way he takes failure.

One of the greatest blessings in life is alterations, the ups become outs, the outs ins, the ups downs and the downs ups.

The past did not behold today;
the future shall not be the most use if now, if it is to be of any benefit to mankind.

A real man does not require or want all his barriers brought to one level.

It is the difficult or unpleasant things of life that puts men on their mettle.

A request has come from many people for better train service from Boston at the lunch hour and as the schedule shows no train between 11:40
a. m. and 2 p. m. except on Saturdays.
The Fortnightly has unanimously voted to petition the Boston & Maine R.
R. to arrange to have the 12:30 p. m.
train from Boston stop at Winchester to discharge passengers. The Fortnightly, in taking the initiative, is not doing so to benefit its members alone, but for the advantage of any of the town's people who would like to return to Winchester about 1 o'clock; it, therefore, is a petition that should be of interest to other organizations in the town, and if there are such who would like to sign it, The Fortnightly will be very glad of their cooperation.

It has been gratifying to the committee in charge of collecting the subscriptions for the War Memorial to the heavy and untiring response to the appeal for funds made by the Italian residents of the Town.
A glance at the list published in the Star will give some idea of the way in which these citizens are meeting their obligation. The response of the Town at large has been much more gratifying to the committee during the past week, and as the campaign will not end until next year, in that subscriptions may be made up to any first, it is anticipated that the necessary money for our Memorial will be secured through voluntary giving. There has been found, however, marked contrast in various sections of the Town. One solicitor, in canvassing a list of 43 names, received subscriptions from 41; another, canvassing a list of 100 names, received contributions from 10. The latter had nothing to do with this contrast, just as the psychological state of the two sections may have influenced conditions, but it is hoped that before the first of May the viewpoint of every resident may focus upon one objective, and that Winchester shall have kept faith. The have planned for a War Memorial in 1918 would have been folly, but who can question what the result would have been in unity of thought, even though action could not be considered? This is an age of individual thought and action—or more rightly independent thought and action, and we hear much of forcing the will of the minority upon the majority—the individual upon the many; but Winchester has always appeared united in one phase of its Memorial—that it will have one, and we have never heard a dissenting voice to this.
Surely such a minority vote expressed in choosing the Memorial should be accepted by all, and our last community act in closing the great struggle should be as united as our response in the beginning.

This "rolling stone" age in which we are living, it's chief characteristic is speed, and its greatest luck is stability. There is an old adage, "A rolling stone gathers no moss." The modern world facetiously asks, "Who wants stones covered with moss anyway?" We all do. At least we want some of them to sit still long enough to give Mother Nature a chance to hang her beautiful diaperies over them. If all stones were rolling stones, the giants of destruction would have an unholy picnic. Modern society has a hymn: "I don't know where I'm going, but I'm on my way." Motion is mistaken for progress and speed is king. Our school children learn in children the multiplication table with a stop-watch in their hands. If the first six tables can't be recited, the child has failed. This is not a criticism. Speed is a necessary part of the child's training to enable him to go to school and home again alive. The little car heekles the big car on the

C. D. OF A. NOTES

At the last meeting, held at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Powers, 928 Main street last Friday evening a most delightful social was enjoyed by the 80 members who attended.
The paper on the life and Letters of that beloved and brilliant poet, Joyce Kilmer, read by Lecturer Elizabeth C. McDonald, was much appreciated by all present. And Kilmer's poems, "Thanksgiving," "Trees" and "The Snowman in the Yard" were read just as they should be by our talented Vice-Regent, Francis T. Conlon.

Sister Mollie Maguire was absent,
due to illness and Organist Mabel M.
Foley was unable to attend owing to the illness of her mother. Both sisters were missed as they are always a charming addition to our social evening.

Sister Mary McGinn presided at the piano in a most able manner and several solos were rendered by Sisters Anna Hanlon and Josephine McGinn and a specially capable committee called by the K. C. H. Hall on Dec. 12. More details will be announced later.

G. R. Annie E. Vayo presided at the meeting and was also in charge of serving refreshments.

The next event of interest on the calendar is the Christmas whist tournament, under the Chairmanship of Sister Mary Fenton, assisted by Sisters Anna Hanlon and Josephine McGinn and a specially capable committee called by the K. C. H. Hall on Dec. 12. More details will be announced later.

G. R. Annie E. Vayo and many of the K. C. H. members attended the K. of C. whist on Monday evening and voted it a fine party.

Sisters Mollie Maguire and Katharine Starkey are reported as being well on the road to recovery.

BOY SCOUT NOTES

Beginning next week on Thursday,
Dec. 4, at 8 p. m., there will be a series of meetings for new members of the Boy Scouts of America. The meetings, in an informal way about scouting. All men interested in boys and in the Boy Scout movement are cordially invited to attend. The meetings will be held in the library of the Winchester High School.

Dana Kelly gave an unusually interesting talk to the Scouts in regard to the coaching and supervising of the Harvard freshman football squad, mentioning that each player had to report to the doctor each time before he went to practice, and if there was the least suspicion that the player wasn't entirely fit he was not allowed to practice.

Troop 1 boys will report as usual for Saturday, Nov. 29th meeting.

Attention is called to the series of meetings to be held in the Winchester High School library beginning at 8
p. m. Thursday, Dec. 4, for the purpose of showing men who like boy or are interested in the Boy Scouts the benefits of scouting, both to boys and to their instructors. Present Scout officials in Winchester believe that scouting furnishes an excellent means for men to get a proper nervous and physical balance, or in other words, "keep young" by becoming instructors or advisors in some branch of the movement.

MUSIC AND ADDRESS AT WY- MAN ASSEMBLY HALL

At Wyman Assembly Hall next Friday afternoon the Wyman Chapter of the Mothers' Association presents as its speaker Miss Alice For-dun of Boston Public Library. Miss Jordan's subject, "What Your Children Read" will be appreciated as especially timely, at the beginning of the Christmas month, for the suggestions it is sure to afford of the best books for children of different ages.

The meeting will open at 3.15
(earlier than usual) with a program that all may have a chance to enjoy the beautiful playing of the new piano. Everyone interested is cordially welcome.

Marriage intentions have been filed with Town Clerk by Karl Bernard Olson of 14 Lackman street, and Miss Ruth Solveig Hansen of Dorchester.

MET WITH MRS. COREY

The Committee of Safety Chapter,
D. A. R. of Winchester, Mrs. Charles
S. Baudry, Regent, met at the home of Mrs. Charles E. Corey, 226 Mya-valley Parkway on Wednesday,
Nov. 19.

The business hour was of especial interest and pleasure to the Chapter due to the fact that applications for seven new members, one new member by transfer and six associate members, were unanimously received by the Chapter; the following being residents of Winchester, Mrs. George M. Byrne, Mrs. Frederick A. Bruce,
by transfer, Mrs. Henry R. Toobert; associate members, Mrs. Archibald C.
Jordan, Regent of Bunker Hill Chapter; Mrs. C. H. Symmes, Col. Loamie Baldwin Chapter; Mrs. Emma B.
Cottle, Sea Coast Defense Chapter;
Mrs. J. Frank Hodge, Registrar,
Gen. Benj. Lincoln Chapter; Mrs.
Charles Bartlett, Ex-Regent, Sarah Bradlee Fulton Chapter; Mrs. Cleora Cleworth, Old South Chapter.

During the social hour there was a rare treat in store for the members and guests, namely an exhibition of "needlework" by the hostess, Mrs.
Corey. A cent per letter per name was charged as admission, a neat sum was in this way earned to be used for patriotic educational work.
Mrs. Corey was the recipient of much praise for her work which was truly an exhibit of art.

During the closing hour a salad
luncheon was served by the hostess, Mrs. Charles E. Corey, assisted by Mrs. Sewall Newman and Mrs. Preston E. Corey.

On April 19, 1925 the 150th Anniversary of the battle of Lexington will be celebrated formally by an outdoor pageant of a week's duration to be held in Lexington in June.
Preparations have been underway since 1920. Boston and vicinity including Winchester will be the mecca for thousands of tourists.

The Regent would like to get in communication as soon as possible with all residents whose ancestors served in the revolution in order that we may greet our guests as members or associate members of our own local D. A. R. Chapter, the Committee of Safety Chapter. The Regent can be reached by tel. 0438-M or by letter, Mrs. Charles S. Baudry, 5 Raymond street, Lexington.

CALUMET AT BOSTON CITY CLUB

Calumet bowlers visited the Boston
City Club Thanksgiving eve, rolling a 10-man match. The local bowlers lost two of the three strings. Stephenson was high for Calumet and led the 20 men. He rolled 248 with 125 for his best single. Taylor rolled a fine game with 333 on 138, and all of the local men showed up strong. Although the match is scored as a tie, the figures taken were up for the entire 10 men.

The scores:

Word received by Winchester friends from Mrs. Joseph C. Adams of Burbank, Cal., a former well known resident, states that she and her family are well and happy.

Mr. John McHugh of Canal street reported that a tire had been stolen from his Ford car early last Friday morning.

ALL THE HORSE SHOES IN THE WORLD WON'T BRING YOU LUCK UNLESS YOU SAVE . . .

Ninety per cent of the people who come to want, who get "up against it" for money, who reach old age without enough to pay for their old, have themselves to blame.

There was a period when it would have been just as easy for them to save as for the friends and neighbors who now have success and plenty.

Good luck is largely a matter of thrift and the will to save SOMETHING regardless of the size of the pay envelope.

Invest your savings in this strong association where every dollar is backed by absolutely sound first mortgage security; where your earnings are greater and your money grows faster.

THANKSGIVING PLAYS AT GIFFORD AND NOONAN SCHOOLS

Two interesting and well done little Thanksgiving plays were given by the pupils of the Gifford and Noonan Schools on Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning respectively. Both productions showed careful training and were much enjoyed by their enthusiastic audiences.

RANDALL-VIRGIN

Miss Velma I. Virgin, daughter of Mr. Samuel H. Virgin of Boston and Roy A. Randall of Newton, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Randall of Lloyd street, were united in marriage at the pastor's study in the First Congregational Church, Winchester, on Saturday morning, Nov. 15, by the Rev. Howard J. Chidley, pastor of the church. The couple were unattended. Directly following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Randall left by motor for New York.

PROFESSIONAL WOMEN AT WINCHESTER

Mrs. William A. Mitchell was hostess at her home on Cambridge street to a large number of members of the Professional women's Club last Tuesday afternoon. Lieut. Charles W. Furlong was the chief speaker and took as his subject, "South America and Why."

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Asst. Superintendent of the Water Department Harry Dotson reported a fall of 1.18-100 inches of rain between Saturday noon and Monday morning.

Seemingly Nothing New

An Egyptian biologist recently discovered a hawk perched on the Nile banks 4,000 years ago. This hawk differs very little from the stammering birds of modern times.

Birds Forced to Fast

In cold weather the birds' greatest enemy is the length of the night, which means a long fast for the day-feeding kinds.

PORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The meeting on Monday, Nov. 24, was one of unusual interest. The reports given by the various chairmen showed that the activities along all lines of work are now in full swing.

The Conservation Chairman, Mrs. S. C. Sanderson, stressed the "Health Walks" that are taken every Friday morning, leaving Mrs. Messenger's house at 9:30 sharp. She reminded us that this is the time of year to put out food for the birds and asked everyone to co-operate in this splendid work for the preservation of bird-life in this country.

The Education Chairman, Mrs. J. H. Powers, spoke of the great interest manifested in Child Welfare Work as shown by a whole day given to the discussion of subjects pertaining thereto during Education Week. A banner was displayed, on which was inscribed a message to the public pertaining to the duties of parents in home-training, showing that the chief essentials in character-building must be done in the home. A letter was read from the Boston Children's Aid Society telling of the "Home Library Department", its advantages in a city to the poor children and how conducted. An appeal for funds to help carry on this splendid work was made.

Mrs. Sherman, General Federation President, has sent out a message to all the clubs, asking the members to observe International Golden Rule Sunday, Dec. 7, by providing on that day approximately the same menu that is provided for tens of thousands of children in the Near East. Relief orphanages and by making a generous contribution to their needs for the remaining days of the year.

Very interesting reports of the autumn meeting of the State Federation held in Lowell, Nov. 29, were given by Mrs. E. D. Chase and Mr. P. C. King. Mrs. Schrader, Chairman of Literature gave a few minutes' talk outlining the work for the study of drama in the clubs as recommended by her department. (A detailed account of this will be given in a later issue.)

The regular program of the afternoon off-red two attractions. The first was a group of piano solos by Mrs. Mavis G. Peterson, a musician of rare ability, and a member of whom the club is justly proud. Mrs. Peterson's first number was the second movement (often called the military movement) of Schumann's Fantasia. This was followed by two delightful sketches of Macdowell's: "Brook's Rhapsody," so quaintly humorous and charming, and "In a Garden Forest," a thing of mystery and wonder and awesome beauty. It is seldom that we are privileged to hear Macdowell rendered with such exquisite understanding. Mrs. Peterson caught his poetic feeling, and gave it to us at its best. The last number was Liszt's Etude in D flat, beautiful both in execution and in feeling. As an encore, Mrs. Peterson played a charming little dance by Debussy—"Chromes"—"Moderato"—whose dainty minor chords left everyone smiling.

The second part of the program was an illustrated talk on New England by Mr. Eugene Sturwood Jones, official photographer for the Boston and Maine Railroad, and a very interesting speaker. He showed lovely pictures of familiar scenes: Intervale, Dixville Notch, Gloucester Bay, Provincetown. Then he showed some places of peculiar interest—the Merrimack River which turns more spindles and furnishes employment for many people than any other river in the world; the town of Warren, N. H. which boasts 100 rivers and brooks; the sand dunes on Cape Cod which can only be compared with those of Scotland; the Old Oakum Bucket about which the song was written: "The stern and rock-bound coast" of New England which, after all, does not extend as far south as Plymouth; the rock that worked the Hoopstap; and many more. Unfortunately, the moving picture machine which was to have shown two reels of summer camping pictures refused to work, and all were disappointed to miss them. But a machine with a broken belt is helpless, and Mr. Jones promised to show the pictures at some future time if a date can be arranged.

The women who attended Miss Welmer's cooking demonstration at the Town Hall last Friday afternoon were most enthusiastic over the new salads and salad accompaniments which she taught them to make. The next demonstration, Dec. 5, is on the making of meringue, fancy jellies and cakes.

The next meeting of the Literature Department of The Fortnightly will be held at the home of M. M. Eugene McDonald, 92 Bacon street, Monday, Dec. 2, at 3 o'clock. The life and work of the great writer and naturalist, W. H. Hudson, will be studied with Mrs. F. E. Getty, chairman of the afternoon. "Far Away and Long Ago," which Morley Roberts calls the best and greatest story of a man's boyhood in all English Literature and "A Portrait" by Morley Roberts will be the two sources from which a sketch of Mr. Hudson's life will be drawn. "Green Manston," "The Purple Land" and one or more short stories from "The Tales of Pausanias" will be reviewed. There is no fee and all members of The Fortnightly are cordially invited.

MRS. HENRY AIDS MORGAN MEMORIAL

Announcement was made this week that Mrs. Eliza Ann Henry of Lincoln, N. H. has deeded to the Morgan Memorial of Boston the large six-story structure at 17 Yarmouth street in the Back Bay. It will be utilized as a home for working women at a moderate cost with rooms and suits for married students in Boston educational institutions. The property is one of the most remarkable and timely gifts received by the institution in recent years.

Mrs. Henry, the donor, is the mother of John H. Henry of Pasadena, Cal., and the late George E. Henry of this town, both widely known for their same philanthropies and their personal interest in a number of institutions. They have many times given substantially to the work of the Morgan Memorial, and the late George E. Henry made possible the building of the first large industrial building of the Morgan Memorial on Cornhill street.

A large portion of the former Snyder estate lying between Highland avenue and Border road is being developed by the Edward T. Harrington Company. The property has been subdivided and streets are being cut through and constructed, a steam shovel and a large gang of men being at work. This will be a restricted residential development and with the beautiful natural setting of trees, rocks and ponds, will undoubtedly be one of the town's future beauty spots.

It's Hard to Build Good Balloon Tires

Balloon tires are fine—but it's hard to build good balloon tires.

They're fine because they practically eliminate jars and jolts to you and to your car.

But they're hard to build because they are large, have thin sidewalls, and they are not pumped up hard. This means they are constantly bending and flexing, and this action is hard on the carcass of the tire.

But in Goodyear Tires this problem of construction is solved.

Supertwist Cord is the answer.

This new Cord is finer, tighter woven and will stretch further, and because of its wonderful elasticity, Goodyear Balloon Tires are made practical.

Supertwist is found only in Goodyear Balloon Tires—either to fit the new small wheels or without change—the wheels now on your car.

HANLON-JOHNSON

St. Alens' Church, Brookline, was the scene on Saturday evening, Nov. 29, of the wedding of Miss Evelyn Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Johnson of Beacon street, Brookline and Daniel L. Hanlon, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Hanlon of Garfield avenue, Winchester. The Rev. John Cracy officiated at the ceremony which was at 7 o'clock.

The bride was gowning in a wedding dress of white satin crepe with a veil of tulle caught up with pearls, and carried a bridal bouquet of white roses and orchids. She was attended by her sister, Miss Anna Johnson, as bridesmaid. Her gown was of white beaded tulle with a long train and carried a bouquet of white roses and orchids. She was attended by her sister, Miss Anna Johnson, as bridesmaid.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, and a wedding supper was served. The ushers for the occasion included the three brothers of the bride, Messrs. Paul, Kimball and Ralph Johnson.

At the conclusion of the reception Mr. and Mrs. Hanlon left on a wedding trip to New York and Washington. Upon their return they will make their home in Cambridge.

CHAPMAN-SMITH

A pretty home wedding took place on Thanksgiving evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Lester F. Smith on Ridge street when their daughter, Miss Dorothy Locke Smith, was united in marriage with W. Gordon Chapman of Nashua, N. H. The ceremony was performed at 6 o'clock by the Rev. Forrester Macdonald of Hyde Park.

The bride was attractively gowned and was accompanied by Miss Marjorie Chapman of Winchester as maid of honor. The groomsmen were Arthur French of Winchester.

Following the ceremony a reception was held, at the conclusion of which the young couple left for a honeymoon trip by motor. Upon their return they will reside at 107 Ames street, Nashua, N. H., where Mr. Chapman is engaged in business. Mr. and Mrs. Chapman will be at home after Feb. 1.

LEST WE FORGET

(An address delivered by Mr. Lewis Packhurst at a union service in Winchester Town Hall on the Sunday evening before Armistice Day, 1924.)

It was a happy thought on the part of the Legion to invite all the churches in Winchester to take part in this union service and it is a real pleasure to me to be asked to join with the ministers of all these churches in this simple service on the Sunday nearest Armistice Day, lest we forget the sacrifices of that war-time period. The hearty response which this invitation of the Legion received is evidence that it was much appreciated.

It is a rare privilege to be permitted to speak on any subject to such a representative gathering of our town's people as I see before me here to night, but when I was invited to speak briefly upon the subject which I am sure interests every one of us and in which I am so deeply interested—the War Memorial—I accepted with alacrity.

Six years ago, on the Sunday before Armistice Day, a district meeting in and in front of this Town Hall. But how different our situation then from what it is tonight! How thankful I should be for the difference! Have you forgotten the conditions which surrounded us at that time? Millions of men were arrayed against each other in the air, the battle-line, armed to the teeth with every engine of destruction that man could conceive or modern science invent. Men were being mowed down like wheat before the reaper, and for a time it seemed as if our boasted civilization was threatened with destruction. Devastation, destruction, and annihilation seemed to be the watchword of those days.

Six hundred of our Winchester boys were in the service of their country. Six hundred homes were watching the papers every day to see if any of their boys' names were among the long lists of killed and wounded. Every day we were thinking about these boys of ours in the training camps, on the stormy seas, and the deadly submarines, in the trenches under the scorching shells, or boldly flying above the clouds over the enemy's lines, like an eagle seeking its prey. Every night as we went to our beds we wondered how and where they were—were they warm, as we were; were they fed and clothed, as we were; were they sick and wounded, and if sick and wounded, were they being cared for as we would be, and above all else, would they ever come home? We were ready at that time to give our last dollar, if need be, to the war and bring them safely back to their homes.

On the very next morning after that meeting hostilities ceased and the war was practically over. Will we ever forget that? How we shouted and leaped for joy! How we thanked God that dark clouds which had been over our heads were now being swept away, that the sunlight of Peace was to be poured in upon us, and, above all else, that the boys were home.

But 16 of these boys of ours did not come back, for they had gone to their last sleep, wrapped in the flag of our country. They had given their all; the scourge of war might be kept from their home-land and that you and I might live on in peace, but they had given their lives, and somewhere in France or in Flanders' Field.

Over the women of Winchester did not in their great joy forget these boys or the great service they and their fellows had rendered. We determined that somewhere in our town a memorial should be erected—a suitable memorial that should keep forever fresh in our minds and in the minds of our children and our grand children the story and the lesson of the Great War. Committees were appointed to prepare such a memorial. A hundred thousand dollars were given for their disposal—two hundred thousand could have been secured for such a purpose at such a time, so thankful were we that the war was over.

After six years of careful study and consideration our hopes are now to be realized. We are now in the midst of erecting a suitable memorial to be erected. There is to be no element of utility connected with it. The glory and power of war will not be accentuated. While it will forever call attention to the dreadful struggle which the world has passed through in the great war, it will emphasize the purpose for which we entered the war—not for conquest, not for booty as in the olden days, but that humanity might not be ruled by the rule of military despotism; that justice, right, and fair-dealing might prevail among the nations of the earth, and the rights of the smallest as well as the most powerful nation might be respected.

TWO HUNDRED AT RECEPTION

Mrs. J. Churchill Hinds and Mrs. Russell B. Wiggin were hostesses to more than 200 of their friends at a reception held at the Town Hall on Friday afternoon from four to six in Waterfield Hall. The decorative color scheme was worked out in yellow with white and red accents. Refreshments were served. From all reports the affair was highly successful.

MR. HARRIS HAD SAFE MARGIN

Final figures now available on the contest at the November election for the office of Registry of Probate for Middlesex County show that Mr. Charles N. Harris of Winchester received 139,206 votes with Mr. John J. Butler of Wakefield polling 81,817.

MACMILLAN "RADIO" SPEED RECORD

When Captain MacMillan lectured in Winchester two years ago he told us how, way up in Baffin Land, he had corrected his watch every day by the stars from Washington. We all gaped. We thought that was marvellous—two years ago.

But when he comes to Winchester on the evening of Jan. 9 to tell us of his last expedition we will hear of wonders in radio which out-marvel that one until it shrinks to common place. Here is he probably will not have time to mention. A year ago Thanksgiving the mother of MacMillan's young radio operator sent him a message from Hartford, Conn. The only stations which could reach "Wireless North Pole" at that time were those on the Pacific Coast. How thankful we should be for the difference! Have you forgotten the conditions which surrounded us at that time? Millions of men were arrayed against each other in the air, the battle-line, armed to the teeth with every engine of destruction that man could conceive or modern science invent. Men were being mowed down like wheat before the reaper, and for a time it seemed as if our boasted civilization was threatened with destruction. Devastation, destruction, and annihilation seemed to be the watchword of those days.

Do you remember to know the other wonders? The tickets for Captain MacMillan's lecture will be put on sale at the Star office a week from Saturday morning, Dec. 13.

UNITARIAN CHRISTMAS FAIR

A truly Christmas atmosphere pervaded the Unitarian Church rooms at the opening of the annual bazaar on Tuesday afternoon under the direction of Mrs. Clifford P. Nutting. The decorations, the work of Miss Margery Bradford of this town, were charmingly suggestive of the holiday season in their red and green, with silver stars shading the lights and icicles giving a wintry touch.

The general plan of the fair was a succession of little shops presided over by ladies of the church. The French Shop, showing dainty dress accessories displayed on black velvet covered counters, was a great success as presided over by Mrs. Frank Merrill. The Antique Shop with its fascinating old-fashioned furnishings was completely sold out under the management of Mrs. Frederick M. Ives, Mrs. Arthur Black and Mrs. James Dwinell. Mother Hubbard's Old Woman in the Shoe was the feature of the Doll Shop, the many children being dolls of all kinds under the care of Mrs. Warren Gould. Mrs. Richard Derby's "Don't" was laden with good things, the few which were remained unsold being sent to the Home for Aged people. The bazaar was a success. Mrs. Barton K. Stephenson, whose Candy Shop was stocked with sensible sweets for youngsters.

The Grab Shop, with Mrs. Arthur Rogers and Mrs. Hight in charge, was a special feature for the children, who rang the doorbells and were given their all; the scourge of war might be kept from their home-land and that you and I might live on in peace, but they had given their lives, and somewhere in France or in Flanders' Field. Over the women of Winchester did not in their great joy forget these boys or the great service they and their fellows had rendered. We determined that somewhere in our town a memorial should be erected—a suitable memorial that should keep forever fresh in our minds and in the minds of our children and our grand children the story and the lesson of the Great War. Committees were appointed to prepare such a memorial. A hundred thousand dollars were given for their disposal—two hundred thousand could have been secured for such a purpose at such a time, so thankful were we that the war was over.

After six years of careful study and consideration our hopes are now to be realized. We are now in the midst of erecting a suitable memorial to be erected. There is to be no element of utility connected with it. The glory and power of war will not be accentuated. While it will forever call attention to the dreadful struggle which the world has passed through in the great war, it will emphasize the purpose for which we entered the war—not for conquest, not for booty as in the olden days, but that humanity might not be ruled by the rule of military despotism; that justice, right, and fair-dealing might prevail among the nations of the earth, and the rights of the smallest as well as the most powerful nation might be respected.

COMMUNITY BOWLING LEAGUE

It is reported that eight teams will make up the Community Bowling League this year. Included are the Winchester Laundries' team, last year's winners, the Old Polio's, Winchester Park Lodge of Masons, Winchester Post American Legion, Benedict Club, Sullivan's Alleys, George W. Timers. The last two named are new to the circuit this season. The K. of C. and the Carpenters and the Elks failed to enter. It is expected that bowling will begin next week.

E. T. VINAL

Mr. E. T. Vinal, formerly of Boston, died after a two weeks illness, on Saturday, Dec. 29, at the home of his son, Ralph S. Vinal, 6 Salisbury road. He was in his 91st year and had resided in Winchester during the last 12 months. He was a native of Norwell, Mass., and is survived only by his son, Ralph S. Vinal.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 conducted by the Rev. George Hale Reed, minister of the First Congregational Church. The body was cremated and the interment will be made in the spring at Norwell, Mass., his former home.

"LITTLE WOMEN"

In bringing to Winchester the Children's Theatre Company of Boston, with their delightful plays for children, the Unitarian Church Committee offers a much desired opportunity to provide suitable amusement for our young people right here at home. Without the additional expenditure of time and money required in going to Boston, or to neighboring towns. While the program are intended especially for children, the demand for tickets by grown-ups who plan to "take some little friends" is surprisingly great, and the supply will not be alone in their enjoyment.

CATHERINE CORBE

Catherine Corbe, seven year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Corbe, passed away Monday afternoon at her home, 100 State street, Winchester. Her death was caused by heart failure, the little girl having been in poor health for the past two years. Funeral services were held at her home on Thursday morning followed by a High Mass of Requiem at St. Mary's Church celebrated by the Rev. George Hale Reed. The interment was in Calvary Cemetery, Montvale.

PULLED CHILD FROM WATER

Florence Pynn, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pynn of Mt. Vernon street, while playing near her home, fell into the Winchester River. Fireman Everett Kimball, who was on the second floor of the building happened to be looking out her window just as the little girl slipped into the river. Hastening from the building he quickly pulled the child from the water and removed her to her home. Miss Pynn is not expected to suffer any ill effects from her icy ducking.

DRAWN FOR JURY DUTY

At this week's meeting of the Board of Selectmen Messrs. Charles N. Eaton of Lewis road, Stanley G. Fitch of Oxford street, Gustave Hakanson of Lincoln street and Arthur P. Irving of Warwick place were drawn for jury duty in the Superior Court. Mr. Fitch was to serve as a Grand Juror, Mr. Fitch as a traverse juror in the civil court, and Messrs. Hakanson and Irving as traverse jurors in the criminal court.

Mr. Harrison Chalkwick is located in Detroit, Mich., where he has accepted a position with the Dodge Brothers' Motor Car Company. He was formerly with the Hollis-Hoyce Company in Springfield, Mass.

WINCHESTER STARTS BASKET-BALL

A squad of 22 answered the call issued last Monday by Coach Ernest Roberts for candidates for this year's basketball team at the Winchester High School. While this number is not so great as that of last year, it is nevertheless a good one, and Coach Roberts is in hopes to put a fairly good team on the floor. It should not be expected to equal last year's crack quintette which was in the thick of the league title fight up to the very last gun's firing.

Winchester's team last season was one of the best which the school has had for some time, and no little degree of its effectiveness was due to the fact that most of its members had been playing together for the past three seasons. The situation this year finds but one man of that slick working outfit available for the current year. Captain Francis Tansey is again ready to start at his old forward berth, but "Jimmy" Fitzgerald, "Lead" O'Donnell, "Plays" Flaherty, and "Skinny" Lynch have passed out of the picture.

Unfortunately last year's substitute material has little or no opportunity to play during the season due to the fact that Winchester was a little contender, and could not afford to weaken its front. All of last year's relief men, Mollie, Roll and Cassidy are available and with Johnson, Kendrick, J. Halwartz, Dolan, Haley, Quill and Culbert from the second team will make up a tentative first squad from which a good combination should be produced. "Jack" Harriman who was expected to shoot a fine team work for a place on the team is lost to the squad at present through scholastic deficiency.

This year's five will be contained by Francis Tansey, one of the best forwards Winchester has had in a long time, and apparently a player without a weak point. A splendid shot, a fine team man and a master of the work, he should have another fine season this year. He expects to contain a whole team in each game. He will find the team which he had to beat.

THE MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

IF YOU REMOVE YOUR ANTENNA

The children are unable to spoil your neighbor's reception. The Star has received during the week past complaints of a similar nature regarding interference about town with radio reception. The stories appear to be all about the same—howling and squealing of regenerative sets with rhyme or reason. One gentleman feels sure it is caused by children playing with the set. He suggests that parents remove the antenna from their set when through with it. Then let the children play with it all they wish—they cannot disturb the neighborhood. This advice seems good. If you, as a radio owner, are in the habit of allowing the children to play with it, disconnect your antenna; it will give relief and pleasure to many listeners about town.

Snow time is Overcast time. If you need one, it will pay you to call for Mr. Robinson, ten years with Jordan Marsh Company's Men's store, Third floor, Shuman Building.

THE THIN ICE DANGER

By Commander W. E. Longfellow, Assistant National Director of Life Saving Service

The time is approaching when ice forming on thousands of small ponds, rivers, and lakes will lure many small boys and some older persons to a watery grave. Thin ice is dangerous. Give it a wide berth.

One-inch ice is too thin to hold the weight of a person. Two-inch ice if freshly made at a very low temperature might hold up one person but avoid company on such ice.

Three-inch ice will hold up small groups but there is no guarantee that groups will stay small, so park officials do not open up skating ponds until there is at least four-inch ice or of sufficient strength for the weight of the horse scrapers and plows.

Whenever you go skating, take a brief inventory of what would be available if someone broke through the ice. Locate loose fence rails, a ladder, plank, a boat hauled out of water, or think where you saw a clothes line in a back yard. All these might be useful.

Give an occasional thought to how you would get out if you broke in yourself. It is not easy to swim with skates on, nor is it easy to think clearly while submerged in ice water up to your chin with your fingers slipping off the edge of the ice every time you try to climb up.

Persons have climbed out by letting their mittens freeze to the edge of the hole and using these to keep from slipping. The best part of this is that you are nearly frozen yourself by the time the mittens are stuck to the ice.

In rescuing a person who has gone under, use the arm around your body under the arms will help you to find your way back to the air hole. A life line wrapped around the handle of a life preserver makes a good hand grip and gives you something to use in an emergency.

The person rescued through the ice should be treated the same as for any other surface case. Lay face down, head with arms held out, then the body level and alternate application of heat to the chest and back. Do not rub the body. Do not give any food or drink until the person is fully recovered. Do not let the person get up until he is fully recovered. Do not let the person get up until he is fully recovered.

Life buoy and a small first aid kit are useful in such cases. Life buoy should be used as a flotation device. Do not let the person get up until he is fully recovered. Do not let the person get up until he is fully recovered.

"STAR" WILL NOT PICK ALL MYSTIC VALLEY TEAM

In response to several queries the Star wishes to announce that it will pick no All Mystic Valley League team this fall. We have arrived at this decision because of several reasons. For one thing we haven't seen all the Mystic Valley League outfits in action this season, and therefore could only pick this or that man from hearsay. Again we don't believe in picking a man for unusual talents for a game; the game in which we or somebody else happened to see him against our home club. And finally we are not too strong for scholastic "All" teams anyhow. The conditions under which the boys compete at various schools is so utterly dissimilar as to make one's judgment upon the work of individual performers in many instances absolutely unfair. There has been a wealth of dandy football players in the Mystic Valley League this fall, and we would really hate to pick the eleven best candidates for the various jobs. We have but one choice for a "All" eleven, and he is the best Winchester has had at his position since we've known anything about football. You've probably guessed whom we're talking about, but we'll name him anyway—Francis Melley, the valley center rush in the Mystic Valley league.

POLICE TO WORK NINE HOURS

The Winchester Police Department were notified on Tuesday that the Board of Selectmen had voted to reduce their working day from ten to nine hours. This move is in line with a tendency pretty generally prevalent around Boston, and comes as a sort of compromise with the Winchester Police union who had asked the Board for an eight hour day. The innovation will not particularly affect the men assigned to day duty at the local police station. Night men, however, will start work an hour later under the new arrangement. Two men will continue to go on duty at 6 o'clock each night, the desk man at the Station House, and the officer in charge of traffic in the square. The other night Patrolmen will start work at a 10 o'clock hour, most of them at 6 and 9. No new duty assignments were announced.

APPEARED WITH DARTMOUTH PLAYERS

At a recent production of G. Bernard Shaw's "The Devil's Disciple" at Dartmouth College, Gordon Corliss, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Corliss of Fells road, made his third appearance upon the Hanover Stage, thereby winning the coveted gold chain of the Dartmouth "Players." Corliss is identified with several important student activities, being on the Junior Board of the Board of the "Bema," the college literary pictorial monthly publication, and a member of the Lincoln and Glee Clubs.

Christmas

AT this season of the year nothing can express your sentiments more eloquently than flowers.

They bring bright, cheery sunshine and gladness wherever they go.

Why not "say it with flowers" this year and let us supply them, fresh and fragrant from our greenhouses, where they are grown.

We have exceptionally fine Roses, Carnations, Calendulas, Paperwhites, Lily of the Valley, Sweet Peas and Violets.

Growing plants are always acceptable gifts and a continual source of pleasant memories of the giver. We suggest Poinsettias, of true Christmas Red, Jerusalem Cherries, full of bright red berries, beautiful pink Begonias that are just a cloud of delicate flowers, Cyclamen in salmon and pretty shades of red and Primulas in many shades.

Beautiful Holly Ferns, Assorted Fancy Ferns in dishes and baskets, Large Specimen Ferns, Palms and Rubber Plants offer a good variety to select from.

We will have a highly attractive showing of special Christmas Baskets, Wreaths and Novelties, also high quality Holly and Christmas Trees.

ALL THE HORSE SHOES IN THE WORLD WON'T BRING YOU LUCK UNLESS YOU SAVE . . .

Ninety per cent of the people who come to want, who get "up against it" for money, who reach old age without enough to pay for their salt, have themselves to blame. There was a period when it would have been just as easy for them to save as for the friends and neighbors who now have success and plenty.

Good luck is largely a matter of thrift and the will to save SOMETHING regardless of the size of the pay envelope. Invest your savings in this strong association where every dollar is backed by absolutely sound mortgage security; where your earnings are greater and your money grows faster.

Marriage intentions have been filed with the Town Clerk by Mildred M. LaRue of 46 Magnolia street, Arlington and Alfred J. Thibault of Water street, Winchester.

Among the Winchester people attending the Army-Navy game at Baltimore Saturday was Mr. Nathan Thumlin of Sheffield road.

An important meeting of William Parkman Lodge, A. F. & A. M., will be held next Tuesday evening, Dec. 9, at 7:30 o'clock. This will be the regular meeting of the Lodge, with the usual business and election of officers. In addition, an important feature of the By-Laws will be met on, together with receipt and action upon the reports of officers of the Lodge.

The Star received word from only one radio operator in Winchester who received the continental broadcast during last week, Mr. Nathan Thumlin listening to 210 (England) on Sunday night from 11:20 to 11:40, on his Super-heterodyne.

GIRL SCOUT RALLY

Five captains and 70 enthusiastic Scouts met in the High School Gymnasium on Wednesday afternoon. This was the first of the rallies which are to be held each month when all the troops are to come together under the leadership of Mrs. Horn, our new director. After the opening exercises, Mrs. Chidley, Winchester Scout Commissioner gave a short talk to the girls.

In a knot tying contest to decide which troop should choose the color guard for the next rally Miss Parker's troop won the honor. For the opening song "Babe" was then played. The singing of "Tans" closed the

WAR MEMORIAL COMMITTEE

NEW NURSES' HOME
Front Elevation of Proposed Nurses' Home at Winchester Hospital

To the Editor of the Star:
As the time draws near for the second payment on the pledges for the new hospital, the question is doubtless arising in the minds of many of the subscribers as to what has been done since the drive last March.

It will be remembered that in the prospectus used at the time of the campaign, sketches were shown which embodied the ideas of the officers as far as supplying the needs of the hospital, although entirely tentative as far as general lay-out and construction were concerned. Figures used at that time were simply estimates as to probable cost to carry out these ideas, and were not based on detailed plans or specifications.

It was emphasized that the immediate need of the hospital was more room for nurses, and with this in mind, the committee gave its attention to the question of how to do this, and the committee has been endeavoring to carry out the suggested enlargement which appeared in the prospectus. Plans and specifications were prepared and bids obtained, but it was found that they were far in excess of the sum which the committee had allotted to this building. It was therefore decided that the entire problem must be studied as a whole, and this the committee has been doing.

Therefore the intention to use the present building in the present conditions, on a Maternity wing adding a surgical wing which will contain wards for men, women and children, in addition to administration quarters and a new operating room. It has seemed very desirable to remove the Nurses' Home from its present location in front of the Hospital Building. The Home is much too near the street, and it is impossible to add to it without spoiling the general appearance of the Hospital Building. It is therefore planned to move the Nurses' Home to the lower corner of the lot on Fairmount street near the corner of Maple road, erecting another building of practically the same design at right angles to it, connected by a sun porch facing the southwest.

It is shown above an elevation of the new Nurses' Home. This combined building will give ample accommodation for between 45 and 50 nurses, with a large recreation and class room. The building will be heated from the main heating plant and we believe will prove an attractive addition.

We already have tentative plans for the enlarged Hospital, which include a combined heating and laundry building at the northerly end of the present building. It is hoped that the construction of the Nurses' Home may be started some time during the winter, and that a definite start on the new Hospital building may be begun as soon as frost is out of the ground in the Spring—the heating plant to be erected during the summer and ready to supply steam before cold weather next Fall. If these plans can be carried out, the entire plant should be in operation during the summer of 1926.

HERBERT H. NICKERSON DEAD

Mr. Herbert H. Nickerson of the Hotel Kenmore, Boston, well known to a host of Winchester people through his residence here of more than 36 years, died suddenly on Wednesday. He was 61 years of age.

Mr. Nickerson came to this town when 21 years of age, his parents being Capt. Phineas A. and Mrs. Nickerson, taking up their residence here. He married Miss Eugenia Brown of Boston, who died about four years ago, and following her death he took up his residence in Boston. Early last fall he again married, and his present wife, who was Mrs. Florence Whitaker Smith of Malden, survives him.

He conducted for many years haberdashery stores in Boston under the name of "Nickerson's." For many years his stores on Washington and Boylston streets have been known as the city's foremost furnishing stores for men. During his later residence here, he occupied the house at the corner of Fletcher and Bacon streets. Aside from his wife, he leaves no immediate relatives.

The funeral services are to be held this Friday at 1 o'clock at the Eastman Funeral Home, 896 Beacon street, Boston.

"LITTLE WOMEN"

The play, "Little Women" to be given by the Children's Theater of Boston should be of unusual interest to parents and children, because it is so genuinely a book adapted for the stage. A year or two ago a list of the 25 best books for young people was prepared by a joint committee representing the American Library Association and the National Education Association. "Little Women" headed this list; this was a great honor when one considers the many excellent books for children.

ELKS MEET NEXT TUESDAY

The next regular meeting of Winchester Lodge of Elks will be on Tuesday evening, Dec. 16, at 8 o'clock. Important matters are coming before the lodge, including initiation and balloting exercises. Twelve candidates will be initiated.
District Deputy G. E. Ruler John F. McGann will pay his first official visit at this session and Fred Strachan and his philharmonic orchestra will furnish the music.

THE ALICE F. SYMMES SOCIETY

Wednesday night the Alice F. Symmes Society held another of its very successful dances, in Metcalf Hall. This Society which is composed of young people in town, meets at the Unitarian Church the second Wednesday each month.

EMBLEM CLUB NOTES

At the regular meeting of the club last Wednesday committee the Elks Christmas Festival, scheduled for Friday, Dec. 26, was under discussion and nearly every member present volunteered assistance. Announcement was made by President Allie E. Davidson that all members are earnestly requested by Mr. Nichols of the Elks' committee to be present in the Town Hall the day after Christmas, Dec. 26, at 1:45 p. m. There will be work for all who can spare the time, as this is an affair where women's tact in handling children shows to great advantage.

Owing to changes made in the original standing committee, two members were omitted from the sick committee through an oversight of the secretary in her notifications of Dec. 5. The full committee as recorded is as follows: Mrs. Katherine T. Macdonald, Mrs. Harriet C. Cleary, Mrs. Annie E. Ford, Mrs. May Little, Mrs. Katherine E. Fallon. Each of these members received a notification of her appointment when the club was first formed. Any member having of illness of a sister should notify a member of this committee. It was suggested at the last meeting by Vice-President Anna W. Lechman that a collection for flowers for the sick be taken up at each meeting.

On account of the many activities during the holiday season it was decided to omit the next regular meeting which falls on Christmas eve, a very busy time for housewives. Whether or not the hall will be available Wednesday evening, Dec. 31, will be announced in next week's Star.

CELEBRATED FIRST BIRTHDAY

A very pleasant party was held last Tuesday afternoon when little Barbara Adele, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Kewler, was hosted to some 20 of her friends and relatives at her home on Swanton street, the occasion being her first birthday. Games were enjoyed and refreshments served. Among the guests were Miriam O'Leary, Catherine O'Leary, Christine Flaherty, Margaret Shaughnessy, Mary Shaughnessy, Rita Hannon, Corinne Hannon, Marjorie Forehand, Natalie Harrold, Virginia Forehand, Daniel O'Leary, John Flaherty, Edna Walsh, Chester Sims, George William Hatch, Russell Belcher of Winthrop, Robert and Helen Patterson of Everett.

WINCHESTER POLICE GET THREE MORE

At about 1 o'clock Thursday morning Officer James P. Donaghey of the Winchester Police Department single handedly captured three men apparently about to break into one of the stores in the Norris Block on Main street near the Abjona River.

Officer Donaghey was on duty in the square and shortly before 1 o'clock he noticed a Ford sedan containing three men circle about the center and head up Church street as far as the big tree at Common street where it turned around and returned through the square into Thompson street.

Thinking that the machine was being driven strangely and growing suspicious of its occupants, Officer Donaghey proceeded along Main street toward Thompson street to investigate. Arriving there he could see no trace of the car, and as he started along Main street he noticed a man glancing around the corner of Locke's Pharmacy which is the store nearest the river in the Norris Block. Apparently the man saw the patrolman coming for he whistled shrilly and ducked out of sight behind the building heading toward Waterfield road.

Thinking to head him off Officer Donaghey ran along Thompson street to Purification place. As he got there he saw his man and two others running from the rear of the block to the Ford sedan which was parked on Purification place. They climbed in and started as the police officer drove the car to the Winchester Police Station. As Officer Donaghey entered the car he saw what looked like a revolver in the hand of one of the men who quickly attempted to get the thing out of sight before the policeman should see it.

When the men were booked at the station house one of the three was found to be carrying a 32 cal. revolver which was, however, unloaded. The men gave their names as Thomas P. Lynch, 20, of Roxbury; Frank Gateley, 27, of Jamaica Plain; and Wilfred Keenan, 19, of Roxbury. All were booked as suspicious characters and Gateley on whom the gun was found was further charged with carrying a loaded revolver without a license. An investigation disclosed the fact that the car in which the three young men were riding had been stolen from the house of a Dr. Rice of Mattapan. The original number plates on the car had been covered by others which were evidently from another car.

Thursday morning in the District Court at Woburn Gateley was found guilty of carrying a revolver without a license and given a fine of $100. He appealed and was held in $300, being remanded to the East Cambridge Jail in lieu of bail. No charges were brought against the other men by the police authorities since the car was broken could be laid to them. Without doubt the young men were planning to rob either Locke's Pharmacy or some other of the stores in the Norris Block and were frustrated by the watchfulness and quick work of Officer Donaghey who is deserving of much credit for so fine a capture made without assistance.

Upon learning of the Winchester Police's haul the Boston authorities immediately put in touch with the local department and in the city it is thought that the three young men captured by Officer Donaghey have been connected with several break-ins which the Boston Police are investigating. The authorities at Station 5 were particularly anxious to get the men, and Thursday morning Sergeant Miller with an inspector and a patrolman from that post came to the local Station House where they took into custody the three men. Gateley having been removed to East Cambridge.

The Boston Police were loud in their praise of the local department's capture which is the fourth important arrest which Winchester policemen have made since last summer.

CHILD STRUCK ON BLACK HORSE HILL

While driving his Ford truck south on Main street Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock Mr. George Poland of Canal street was unable to avoid striking little Betty Butterfield, aged 6 of 87 Main street. Mr. Poland had gotten along to Black Horse Hill when the little girl who was accompanied by an adult broke suddenly away from her companion and ran from the side walk directly into the path of the machine. She was knocked down and received minor bruises. Mr. Poland took the little girl to her home and notified the police of the accident.

MACMILLAN LECTURE IN SYMPHONY HALL

Audience of Two Thousand People in Breathless Interest Throughout

Captain Donald B. MacMillan gave his lecture and showed his new moving pictures in Symphony Hall last Monday evening. The hall was well filled and for nearly two hours the audience watched with utmost attention the scenes of Arctic life which he has brought back to civilization.

Probably the most thrilling of all the pictures, in securing which MacMillan took great risk of losing his life, shows a herd of musk-oxen in close formation, bulls protecting the females and young. Capt. MacMillan stands at 50 feet, then at 25 feet turning the crank of his machine. The herd is being hurried by five of the best fighters among the Eskimo dogs. The bulls paw the ground, toss and lower their heads, sharpen their horns on the ground, then charge forward with terrific impetus. Once the picture is cut off for a second, a bull has charged and is ready to maul the photographer. The next instant, the audience sees the bull separated from the herd. I didn't know just what to expect, says MacMillan, but I'd take his picture! All his life Capt. MacMillan has longed to ride on the back of one of these powerful Arctic beasts, and now he is riding on the back of a captured musk-ox, well-devised little creature, and illustrates for his audience the excellent reason which has made him change his mind.

It is almost as remarkable to sit quietly in a substantial theatre seat, and at the same time ride out in a canoe, as it is to see a picture of a hunter into the very midst of a herd of those fierce lions of the Arctic world, the walrus, and in full view of his harpoon, spears one of the largest of the herd; with incredible dexterity swings his kayak right about-face, and in a twinkling is in the midst of the wounded walrus. A vivid scene of swift and astonishing movement.

But the pictures are not all of the world's wild animals. There is the North. The beauty of those snow-capped mountains, the grandeur of age-old glaciers, the turrets and pinnacles of the great icebergs, the play of Eskimo babies, shy and enchanting little polar folk—all these things present a people and a land of which we know so little, and most glorious in all the world round.

DIED SUDDENLY

Julia Brodie, 72 years of age, died suddenly Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock in the home of Mr. William E. Taylor on Blind Bridge street where she had made her home in Winchester. She was the widow of John Brodie, Quebec and was unmarried. Medical Examiner Tyler of Lexington was notified and pronounced her death due to natural causes.

BRIDGET DOHERTY

Mrs. Bridget Doherty, widow of Patrick Doherty of Watertown, passed away Wednesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John McManis, on Canal street. Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at St. Mary's Church.

Fitzgerald was Chief of the Department, and horses had replaced the men for locomotion on the Swanton street reel. One day as the story goes, the doors of the station were open with only a rope stretched across to keep the animals from bolting out of the building. Suddenly an alarm was pulled in, and the two horses burst from their stalls ready to be hitched to the reel. Unfortunately the firemen did not appear quite as quickly as one of the equines thought they should. Consequently he leaped the rope and started for the fire on his own hook mindful no doubt of the company's watchword of speed at all costs. The loss of a horse left the firemen with the problem of getting a two horse reel to the fire with but one animal available. Did they despair? By no means. That was a company that was a company. Hitching their one horse to the wagon, "Dun" Kelley, now a sturdy defender of the law as a member of the Winchester Police Department, leaped to the other side of the reel, and with "Hayes" Belmont, present Fire Chief, handling the reins and other members of the company stunting the reel, the Excelsior Hose rattled out of its house to make the fire on Florence street, and yet a line of hose laid before any of the other apparatus could put in an appearance. Yes, that was some company.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

The new Ahrens-Fox ladder truck which has recently been added to the Winchester Fire Department had its first try out over the streets of the town last Saturday afternoon. Several of the so-called "hail" streets were traversed in the course of the trip including Prospect street and Swan road. Demonstrator George Wheeler of the Ahrens-Fox Company was at the wheel, and was accompanied by Messrs. Charles R. Main, Thomas R. Bateman and Walter H. Dotson of the Board of Selectmen, Robert H. Fay of Box 52 Assn., Captain Benton of Hose 3 and Captain Edward Fitzgerald of Ladder 1. Subscriptions from the following persons are hereby acknowledged by the committee:

pany shown in this issue, the time being taken from the first stroke of the alarm until the reel appeared ready for action. As the test was made at night and the men had to get out of bed to answer the call we hardly think there are many average groups of 10 men who could shade the figures turned in.

Many are the stories woven about the old days of Hose 3, but space forbids our recounting only one of them. The following yarn is told of the company in the days when James J.

CREDIT

The Greatest Problem

New England demands every year more and more telephone service. It also demands that the quality of its existing service shall be maintained.

This can be accomplished only by building millions of dollars' worth of new telephone plant for additional service, and by rebuilding millions of dollars' worth of plant, as it becomes unserviceable, at prices greatly in excess of its first cost. The service of every subscriber is involved.

To build more plant requires more money. We must get a hundred million dollars in the next five years if this demand is to be met.

The greatest single problem of this Company is how to get this money.

It ought also to be of the greatest concern to New England, because, if this new money is not obtained, the telephone business will cease to advance as New England advances.

New money cannot be obtained unless our credit is good.

For good credit, we must earn dividends sufficiently large, and a margin that will insure the payment of these dividends at all times, to make our securities an attractive investment for the savings of New England people.

We cannot do this at present telephone rates. The problem cannot be solved unless we get higher rates.

ELKS' MEMORIAL SERVICES LAST SUNDAY

The largest attendance of the past three years was present in Lyceum Hall last Sunday evening at the memorial services of Winchester Lodge, 1445, B. P. O. E. At the same hour similar services were being held throughout the country wherever there is in existence a lodge of Elks, in accordance with the time honored custom of the order to pay tribute to the memory of departed brothers on the first Sunday of each December.

The observance of the local Lodge was in charge of Exalted Ruler, George T. Davidson, assisted by the officers of Winchester Lodge: Maurice Dinneen, E. L. K.; Fred H. Schell, E. L. K.; George H. Lochman, E. L. K.; Dr. James H. O'Brien, Sec.; Thomas F. Fallon, Treas.; Robert Bolling, Chaplain; Parker Holbrook, Esq. and John Donohy, Tyler.

Following the ritual service of the order for the absent brothers which was performed by the officers the principal address of the evening was delivered by the Hon. Frederick W. Cook, Secretary of State for the Commonwealth and a member of the Boston Lodge of Elks. Mr. Cook held the attention of his hearers throughout his remarks which opened with a brief explanation of the significance of the occasion, and closed with a touching reference to what he termed the National Shrine at Washington, the burial place of that unknown soldier who lost his life in the World War.

Vocal selections were rendered by Mrs. Mary Brooks of Stoughton, and Mr. Albert Stevens, also of Stoughton, and a member of Wakefield Lodge. A special instrumental program was given by the well known Lincoln Players of Wakefield, the direction of Mr. Walter L. Rice.

APPOINTMENT TO NAVAL ACADEMY

Congressman Dallinger will hold an examination for principals and alternates for appointment to the Naval Academy at Annapolis, under the auspices of the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Custom House Tower, Boston, Saturday, Jan. 3, 1925. Candidates must be over 16 and under 21 years of age, and residents of the Eighth Congressional District, which comprises Cambridge, Melrose, Malden, Belmont, Arlington, Lexington, Stoughton, Wakefield, Watertown and Winchester.

Applications for permission to take the preliminary examination should be filed as soon as possible with the District Secretary, U. S. Civil Service Commission, Custom House Tower, Boston. The District Secretary will be able to give candidates full information concerning the examination.

HOUSE DAMAGED BY SMOKE

Only one fire occurred over the past week end. On Friday evening at 8:10 the Winchester department was called out by an alarm from box 33 for a fire in the double house at 569 Washington street owned by Charles S. Wigwagworth, and occupied by Messrs. F. A. North, Jr. and H. Clyde Moore.

The fire started in the cellar of the house among some papers and boxes of excelsior piled up beside the coal bin under the front stairs. The entire department responded to the alarm, and when the firemen arrived the flames had worked through the first floor of the house under the stairs. For the most part however the blaze was confined to the cellar, being finally extinguished with heavy chemicals without much damage excepting from smoke. The damage from this source is expected to prove rather extensive as the whole house was about completely filled. The fire is attributed to spontaneous combustion.

Amazon Valley Is Greatest

Although the Mississippi valley is quite often spoken of as the largest valley drained by a river, its area is scarcely more than half as large as the valley drained by the Amazon river. The Mississippi river valley embraces 1,244,000 square miles, while that of the Amazon ranges over 2,330,000 square miles.

Hold to Things of Beauty

"A farm woman's prayer" reads: "Keep ever in my heart a sense of the perspective, that my kettles and dish-cloth may not obscure the beauty of the rose blooming outside my door, the quiver of the leaves in the summer wind and the classic purity of the snow on the valley or hill."

"Mother Goose"

It is not known for certain that Mother Goose was a real character. It is supposed that possibly the name is derived from Queen Gosford, or Berthe au Grand Pied, mother of Charlemagne. The queen was a special patron for children.

CALUMET BOWLING

Teams Now Entering Last Quarter in House Tournament

Good bowling is the rule in the Calumet house tournament as the 21 teams engaged enter the final quarter of the schedule. On Monday evening, although team 14 won all four points from 8, it took the last string by only four pins, while team 10, in dividing honors with 4, won the second string by one pin. Team 11, which won all four points from 16, collected the best game of the evening.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

By merely saying that victory can be won, is among the surest ways of winning it.
 A merry heart doeth good like a medicine. A little laughter will cure many a seeming ill.
 Many of us merely exist, to think we live. What we should regain at all costs is freshness and intensity of being.
 Most of us have failed or gone astray in one fashion or another, at sometime or another, but got the full benefit of the discovery.
 A great, achieving soul will not clog itself with a cowardly thought or a cowardly watch-word.

There are two words commonly used in speaking of Christmas; sometimes we say we "observe" the holiday, and sometimes we "keep" it. The words suggest two quite different ways of approaching the festival. Some people simply observe Christmas—that is, they look at it from without. They do not let it enter them. They are like people who leave their work for awhile to see a procession in the street. They watch the pageant go by, observe its lights, hear its music, and then go back to their work—that is all. But there are others who keep it. They try to keep the festival. They do not simply look at it, they enter it. The soul of the holiday enters them. They cherish its memories. They try to live its hopes, and to realize its ideals. Like the mother of old who came back from a certain Passover "keeping all these things and pondering them in her heart," they find that the holiday has brought them an enrichment of character and purpose. Surely Christmas is a day to be observed, but kept. We lose the great opportunity we watch it go by, instead of finding that the soul of it enters our hearts and makes them stronger for the joy and service of life.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

Mr. Harry Good of the Winchester Riding School has issued a very attractive calendar for the coming year depicting "leatherbreeches." The record-breaking jump of 8 feet, 2 inches. The picture is in color and makes a fine adornment for the walls of one who enjoys horseback riding.
 Mr. Luigi Carpiella, a mechanic, wishes to announce to the public that he is to open a little shop on 31 Irving street, Winchester. He makes kitchen utensils, repairs musical instruments, polishes silverware, makes all kinds of tools, repairs automobiles and any other kind of work along that line. Mr. Luigi Carpiella.

Miss Maude McClelland was tendered a shower in the form of a surprise party last Tuesday evening at the home of the Misses Saps and of Miss Maw, 287 Washington street. An original poem was read by Mrs. William A. Lefavour. Unique gifts were brought by her friends. Delicious refreshments were served and the occasion was thoroughly enjoyed by those who attended. Miss McClelland will be married in the near future to Mr. Alexander Bailey of Earlton, N. S.

Thoughtful Hotel Men

Greetings to guests and a serviceable sewing kit are contained in a neat card placed on dressers by the management of a New York hotel. The articles are those most likely to be needed for emergency needs and are two copies of three and a stout safety pin—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

ONE of our leading agents in an Ohio City spent Christmas with an intimate friend. Christmas coming a procession was formed in the upper hall, the father at the head with his youngest child on his shoulder and proceeded hilariously down to the Christmas tree.

For our man did as he ought and said, "John will you be here next Christmas to lead the children down?"
 The man's eyes were opened and immediately a North-western policy guarded that household.

"WILD BULL" IN THE FELS

We aren't referring to Luis Angel Fierro, Wild Bull of the Pampas, and one time contender for the heavy weight title of pugilism. This animal is a real sure enough quadruped with a look in either eye that tells the story as follows: It seems a Mr. Scott who runs a big farm between Stoneham and Reading purchased in New Hampshire a fancy young bull about a year and a half old. Upon arriving at Mr. Scott's farm, said animal evidently took a dislike to his surroundings so great an extent that he forthwith proceeded to quit the premises a week ago today. Or in other words he was and ran away.

All attempts to locate him failed until Sunday, when the Winchester Police were notified by Mr. George W. Franklin of Fairmont street that he had seen what looked to him like a young bull on that street headed for Middlesex Fells and going strong, as the saying runs.

Officer E. O'Connell who enjoys some little reputation as a naturalist on the local force was sent out to find the bull, but his most persistent efforts failed to locate the animal. The same went for Mounted Officer Harry Dutton who was also on the look-out last Sunday.

Sunday afternoon considerable interest was occasioned in the square when a man on horseback, looking a deal like one of the cowboys in the "Covered Wagon" galloped into the square looking for the same little bull. He was referred by Officer O'Connell to the Winchester Police who personally organized a reconnoitering party in the Fells, but without results. The bull just wouldn't show himself.

And so it has been throughout the week until we went to press last night. Despite the best efforts of both amateur and more skillful cowboys the bull is still at large. We don't know whether any reward for its capture is offered, nor do we know whether it is to be paid dead or alive, but to any in search of thrills we recommend the tracking of the wild bull to his lair. One can only hope that what may happen on such a quest.

Giant Thistle, Grown on Coast, in Demand
 Among the profitable crops grown by Californians in the region of San Francisco is a giant Mediterranean species of thistle. Soil and climate there seem to be exactly suited to its needs, says the Pathfinder Magazine.

Attempts to grow it elsewhere have invariably resulted in failure. Like the thistles with which all are familiar, it has formidable spines, only that at Winchester and more cruel than those seen so exactly suited to its needs. It has a large purple flower, so sweet scented that bees find it irresistible. Rarely, however, are the buds allowed to develop into flowers, for the buds are esteemed as a table delicacy, being harvested and sold as "artichokes."

A quarter acre for the buds is not an unusual price in San Francisco and at that they take precedence over the finest oranges, raisins, apricots, etc., for the growers realize their development so that they may be marketed just at the psychological moment, so to speak—that is, in midwinter, when there is little else of the sort native to the region.

This is done by cutting back the plants in June, pruning them down to the ground. Within a short time new shoots appear. Then if plant food and water are supplied in sufficient abundance, long succulent days bring about harvest development.

The bud harvest begins in October and reaches its peak about the first of April.

Have Yet to Learn Mac's About Disease

What is disease? Everybody knows that disease involves a physical injury to tissue cells, but what and how? The truth is, we are really only at the beginning of our knowledge of the cause of disease. We cannot be sure to measure exactly the injury, the vitality and the degree of recovery of body cells to find the answer, writes Paul H. Do Kniff in the American Mercury.

Recently a man named Osterhout, obscure save among biologists, has made a step toward answering the question. Working with a common sea-weed, lamnaria, he has begun to trace exact influences on the inherent vigor terms, vitality, injury and recovery. He has found that normal weeds possess a certain resistance to the passage of an electric current, that this resistance may be neutralized, and that it is always of exactly the same order of magnitude for the cells of healthy lamnaria. But take the cells out of their natural environment in sea water and put them in solutions of different content and density, and their resistance to the electric current falls at once. The greater the damage to the cells the greater the fall.

The coincidence of the fall in resistance with the degree of injury has enabled Osterhout to construct equations which predict the exact amount of injury that the cells of lamnaria will suffer. He can write down just how much of a certain cell can be exposed to damage and still recover completely. In brief, Osterhout measures injury, vitality and recovery. That is the beginning of science. That is the root beginning of the answer to the question: "What is disease?"

First People in Britain

Geologists are not yet agreed when and by whom Britain was first peopled. It is known, however, that the two Celtic invasions, that of the Gauls, in the latter part of the Bronze age, and that of the Brythons and Belgae in the Iron age. By the time of Julius Caesar the island was inhabited by Britons, except perhaps some tribes in the North, were Celts in speech and customs.

THE YEAR'S RECORD OF THE AMERICAN RED CROSS

Over 3000 Chapters Expended $1,869,000—National Organization Disbursed $16,497,255.35

This makes a total of $21,266,255.35, all for humanitarian work which reached practically around the world. In announcing the year's record of American Red Cross industry the executive officials at Washington emphasize the fact that the extensive and never-halting work of the Red Cross depends almost wholly upon the untiring support of the organization from the membership enrolled during the annual roll call which this year was in progress from Nov. 11 to 27, when everyone was asked to join or renew their membership in the American Red Cross.

Soldier Service Paramount
 Service in behalf of the disabled veterans of the World War and their families is a paramount obligation of the Red Cross. The organization, through its Chapters, is constantly in touch with this duty in 2600 communities throughout the United States—the Chapters alone during the year expended $1,735,825—a total of $5,755,825 applied to assisting war sufferers toward recovery from disability and distress.

This work is constant in hospitals, sanitariums, camps, soldiers' homes, in the community, for example, in helping disabled men and women in places where they were transient residents $173,076 from national funds alone was required to help solve their problems. Every Red Cross service is ever at hand ready to meet the individual need of these men and women.

The enlisted men in the Regular Army, the Navy, and the Marine Corps, with their home ties, mean a never-ending Red Cross service which figures cannot fully interpret. In this work a total of $685,285 was applied in meeting an obligation under the Red Cross budget for 1924-25 is filled for over 20 years.

Domestic Operations Extensive
 In the past year Red Cross operations were almost wholly confined to continental United States and the insular possessions. Relief work following disasters called for immediate activities in 12 places and a total of $17,608.87 was spent in this service alone. In 33 major disasters trained workers were kept at the work of rehabilitation for many months.

In carrying on the health activities a total of $444,886.66 from Red Cross national funds, and $908,000 from treasury appropriations, approximately $1,252,886 in all—was applied, giving some idea of the extent of Red Cross service in the fields of public health nursing, nutrition instruction, and spreading knowledge of personal hygiene and care of the sick in the home.

For advancing the cause of human safety the First Aid instruction, locally by Chapters and over extensive national territory by the Red Cross instruction card covering trunk line railroads, and in teaching water-safety and increasing the membership of the Red Cross Life-Saving Corps, the total cost was $28,254.71, of which $16,234.71 came out of national funds.

Army of Over 5,300,000
 The Junior Red Cross in the schools, which over 7,000 Red Cross projects, $99,579.75; League of Red Cross Societies, $165,000; other insular and foreign work, $221,855.31. The American Red Cross budget for 1924-25 is $4,647,790.85 or $68,286.96 less than the budget for the year ended last June 30.

Foreign obligations, aside from Japan, were met with national funds as follows: Relief of refugees in Greece, $290,887.18; Junior Red Cross projects, $99,579.75; League of Red Cross Societies, $165,000; other insular and foreign work, $221,855.31. The American Red Cross budget for 1924-25 is $4,647,790.85 or $68,286.96 less than the budget for the year ended last June 30.

Chinese Civilization Ancient

When the people in almost all of Europe were still wearing skins for clothes the Chinese were a highly cultured people. While Europe was just getting acquainted with the cruelest of tools, Chinese artisans were using highly developed implements for skilled work, thus showing that the Chinese civilization is one of the very ancient.

Teeth of Elephants

An elephant has eight teeth, two above and two below on each side.
They are huge yellow pillars as wide as a man's hand, over these their food is shifted by the quivered, agitated tongue in the whole animal kingdom.
Elephants, like human beings, have two sets of teeth. The milk teeth, which are smaller than the permanent teeth, fall out when the animal is fourteen years old.

Of Venetian Origin

The word "fiasco" meaning a failure, is an Italian word and originally meant a flask. Venetian glass-blowers were very keen craftsmen, and if one of them detected the smallest flaw in his handwork, he turned it into a fiasco or common flask, and so the word came to be applied to any kind of failure.

Fuel in Food

Sedentary occupations may be compared to a heater with the drafts closed or one in which the fire is simply being held. Therefore, those engaged in sedentary occupation do not require as much fuel as those engaged in muscular effort, and fruits should have an important place in their diets.

OUR NEW LADDER TRUCK
Powerful Ahrens-Fox Machine Now Receiving Tests Preliminary to Going into Service

NEW LADDER TRUCK ARRIVES
HERE AND THERE

Winchester's new ladder truck was delivered last week by the Carlow Auto Company, of Taunton, New England representative of the Ahrens-Fox Fire Engine Company of Cincinnati, O., who built the machine. This truck will replace the old horse-drawn ladder truck purchased in 1898 and motorized in 1911, when it was equipped with a Knox-Martin three-wheel tractor which has since become obsolete. It is understood that the old ladder truck will be stored at House No. 3, as a spare piece in case of emergency, it having little market value at this time. The new truck was put through its acceptance test by the Board of Selectmen last Saturday.

This piece of apparatus, the Ahrens-Fox latest improved, double body, city service ladder truck, is thoroughly modern in every particular and has received much favorable comment from all who have seen it. Particular attention has been paid to the many details which enter into its construction.

The motor, especially designed for this service, is a six cylinder, vertical four head, four cycle, water cooled type, 5 1/2 inch bore by 7 inch stroke, A. L. A. M. type 72.5 horsepower, equipped with developing 110 brake horsepower. During its acceptance test, the truck went up some of the steepest grades in town with ease.

The motor is equipped with a self-starter, and in addition to the service of starting, the generator supplies current for lighting the headlights, tail light and dashboard lamps, as well as the searchlight mounted at the front of the driver's seat. Controlling switches are mounted on the dash.

The transmission is selective, sliding gear type, three speeds forward and reverse, the drive being right hand. The clutch is the improved, three plate, dry disc type "Vexor Grip"; it engages softly, picks up the load gradually, and by reason of liberal proportions, will not slip after wear is gained. Thus, unusual strains upon the gears and other parts of the transmission are avoided.

The Ahrens-Fox special rear axle, compound over type, takes the place of the older form of side chain drive.

There are two sets of brakes acting independently; the service foot brake operating on a main drive shaft, and the emergency hand brake of the expanding type with heavy drums attached to the hubs of the rear wheels.

The wheel base is 255 inches. The wheels are steel disc type, proportioned for demountable 36 inch by 8 inch pneumatic cord tires, front and rear.

The frame of the truck is of alloy steel, heat treated according to the most approved methods. The front and rear springs are semi-elliptic, carefully designed and proportioned. All axles are equipped with Timkin roller bearings.

The truck carries 418 feet of ladders of various lengths and for various kinds of service, all ladders longer than 20 feet being of the truss type. The ladders are carried on angle iron frames instead of on rollers, thus eliminating excessive wear on the ladders due to chafing at pivot points. With the double bank type of truck, the ladders are carried in two tiers, side by side, and are easily accessible.

In addition to the ladders, the truck carries a forty gallon chemical tank with 200 feet of three-quarter inch chemical hose, two three-gallon portable fire extinguishers, and a considerable amount of miscellaneous equipment, such as axes, crow bars, fireman hooks, Callahan door opener, slide hammer, tin roof cutter, pick, shovels, hay forks, brooms, mops, squeegees, and a holder for a life line. A 100 lb. locomotive bell is attached to the dash.

Except for the Chief's car and a 1912 second-hand Packard sedan, this is the first new equipment to be purchased since 1915 when the town bought the Ahrens-Fox pump. The Packard chassis, fitted up as a touring car, is now inadequate and unsafe, and should be replaced at an early date with a modern combination. The Knox combination bought in 1915 will be good for a few years longer, but the Knox Automobile Company has gone out of business, and spare parts will be available for a limited time only. The town is growing all the while, property values are increasing, and a second and more modern combination is required to give the town the adequate protection which it should have.

Careless Letter Writers

It is said that 200,000,000 pieces of mail yearly receive "directory service," which means that post office employees must take time from the regular handling and dispatching of mail in the endeavor to provide correct addresses. This service costs approximately $500 daily in the city of New York alone.

Three Winchester boys were among those receiving variety football letters at their respective colleges this fall: "Van" French at Tufts, "Jim" Blair at U. of Maine, and "Sherman" at Norwich. Dana Kelley and "Jack" Orway won numerals on their freshman teams at Harvard and Yale.

Gordon Smith of Winchester is one of the veteran hockey players on the Middlesex League. He is depending for a successful season on the ice. He plays on the forward line.

Douglas "Doug" Lawson, son of Thomas W. Lawson and a former Winchester boy, has been appointed head coach of the Williams football team for next year, succeeding Percy Wendell who has gone to Lehigh. Lawson played football at Harvard under the late Percy Haughton. For three years he acted as Wendell's assistant at Williams, leaving to become line coach under Haughton at Columbia. His appointment is popular at the Berkshire college.

Coach Whiting of the Huntington School track team is expecting "Jimmy" Fitzgerald to blossom into quite a shot putter. We saw the big boy toss the 12 lb. ball better than 42 feet on two occasions last spring. Good coaching should better this mark by quite a bit. It's too bad "Fitz" didn't have a good chance to set a record for the local High School. He could have hung up some nice figures.

We were glad to note that three members of this year's field hockey team at High School were on the scholastic honor roll recently made public by the School Department. "Burr" Bourne, "Kay" Gable, and "Gertie" Bond were those who proved the possibility of mixing sport and studies. Manager "Kay" Drisko was also on the honor roll.

"Doc" Tansley and "Lead" O'Brien should make welcome additions to the basketball squad at Goddard. Both are clever players.

"Van" French will return to his old position of center on the Tufts basketball team as soon as he recovers from injuries received in a football game played at Cleveland on Thanksgiving Day between the Jumbos and Western Reserve.

The "Star" offers the following as an All-Winchester Collegiate basketball quartet: quarterback, Sherman of Norwich; left halfback, Blair of Maine; right halfback, Orway of Yale; freshmen; fullback, Van French of Tufts. There would be oodles of speed in that bunch.

Clinton Mason played regularly throughout the football season at end in the backfield of the Williams' second team. He stands an excellent chance for a varsity job next fall.

Winchester football fans were glad to see one of the Boston papers pick Gabe of Lexington for a backfield job on its all-scholastic eleven. He was one of the best in these parts, a real tough man to stop.

The report that Leon Tuck of this town would coach the Dartmouth hockey team again this year has been denied by the Hanover authorities who are in hopes to obtain his assistance, however, in an unofficial capacity. Leon was one of the best hockey players to wear the green of Dartmouth. He graduated in 1915.

Tuck was a member of one of the best hockey teams Winchester High ever produced. The forward line was a "hokey" with Leon at center, "Ward" Godkin and "Doc" Hurd at the wings, and Irving Smith, rover.

HIGH SCHOOL STARTS BASKETBALL SEASON WITH WELLESLEY

Winchester High will get away to an early start in its basketball schedule tonight when its first and second teams will journey to Wellsley for games with the High School of that town.

Coach Roberts will put practically a new team on the floor, only Captain Francis Tansley remaining from last year's crack quintet which so nearly won the championship of the interscholastic league.

While little is known of Wellsley's ability Winchester will do well to win with but two weeks of intermittent practice under its belt, and a combination amused to working together. There has been little opportunity to develop much of a team passing game thus far, Coach Roberts having been obliged to devote most of the practice time to drill on fundamentals.

No out has been made in the squad as yet, are the only man sure of a regular berth on the team is Captain Tansley who will hold down one of the forward positions. The remainder of the first five will be picked for the Wellsley game from the following: forwards, Roli '25, R. Halvart '27, and K. M. '25; centers, McCau '26, and Melly '25; backs, Cassidy '26, Melly '25, J. Halvart '26, and Johnson '26.

The second team men to make the trip include McCarthy '25, Fitzgerald '26, Haley '28, Colucci '25, J. Dolan '25, McNeil '28, Gorman '26, Knowlton '28, Anigo '28, and Price '26.

FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

At the regular meeting of The Fortnightly, held on Monday, Dec. 8, the president, Mrs. Emerson, introduced to the club, "the new member of The Fortnightly family," The Fortnightly Quartet. The afternoon's program was composed of selections sung by the quartet, composed of Mrs. Isabelle H. Emerson, Mrs. Annette Symmes Hughes, Mrs. Gertrude N. Barnes and Mrs. Alice M. Abbott, accompanied by Mrs. Nancy F. Alexander and of songs by Miss Grace Winchester Hotting.

The Fortnightly "family" can well afford to boast of its new member, for it is most fortunate in having four very talented singers, whose voices blend harmoniously in nearly perfect adaptation to each other. It is by no means an amateur quartet. When singing together no one voice stands out above the others, and yet each one is ably capable of carrying a solo part. The program was well chosen to show this. The selections were simple, pleasing, and varied. The success of the quartet was assured from the close of the first number, "The Lord's Prayer," sung in rare harmony, sympathetically accompanied by Mrs. Alexander. "The Lord's Prayer" followed unaccompanied. This was heartily applauded and encored with the negro melody, "Doan Ye Cry Me Home," by Albert W. Noll. The audience showed how pleased it was to welcome back Mrs. Annette Symmes Hughes, who sang the solo part in her same pleasing, sweet soprano voice. In the old favorite "Forget-Me-Not," by Giese, the enunciation was particularly clear, though this was true throughout the program. In this number too, one could especially enjoy Mrs. Winchester's clear, high notes, and Mrs. Barnes' beautifully controlled alto. Mrs. Abbott's resonant and very deep alto voice showed to good advantage in Piquet's "Good-night, Goodnight, Beloved." This was encored by Grace Winthrop Conant's clever lyric, "A Little Dog Barked at the Blue Room Moon." The program ended with the lively "Estudiantina" by Lacombe, which received much sincere applause.

Miss Grace Winchester Holt read several selections very ably. Miss Holt has a deep, pleasing voice which she controls and modulates in a well trained fashion. Her action is easy and realistic. "The Case of Mrs. Kantsey-Know" proved to be a plea for a more stay at home type of woman. It was a simple one-act play involving many varied characters, including such as Mrs. Do-It-Now, and Mrs. Make-It-Right. This was encored by a very amusing monologue entitled "The Art Exhibit." A second one-act play was "Their Anniversary" written to give a comforting word to gulf widows. The moral was obvious. As an encore and final selection Miss Holt read most pleasingly "The Little Grey Cottage" by Gerald Beaumont, a touching poem, quite appropriate for the Christmas season.

The Soldiers and Sailors Welfare Committee asks for volunteers to croch together the squares for the afghans. From the Chelsea Naval Hospital there comes an appeal for 12 new afghans for the tubercular ward recently opened.

Suggestions for the Christmas boxes for the exercise men; woolen gloves, handkerchiefs, soap boxes and gloves, scissors, knives, sharp pencils, calendars on standards, cheap watches and clocks.

An excellent opportunity is to be given to Fortnightly members and their friends to renew their acquaintance with and to introduce to their children the charming characters of Louisa Alcott's "Little Women" when a dramatization of this book is given by the Children's Theatre Players on Saturday, Dec. 13, at 2:15 o'clock in the Town Hall.

WINCHESTER HIGH SCHOOL PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION

On Monday evening, Dec. 8, the second regular meeting of the High School Parent-Teacher Association was held in the High School hall. Mr. Gates, president of the association presided and introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. Carl L. Schrader, Director of Physical Education, Massachusetts. Mr. Schrader spoke convincingly of the need for adequate equipment to provide an opportunity for all pupils to participate in athletics; he spoke particularly of the advantage of training in those sports which carry over in the pupils' life after he leaves school; he stressed also the importance of the right kind of leadership, and the proper attitude of the community toward the place of athletics in the High School curriculum.

A delightful musical program was furnished by Miss Natalie Gifford who sang two very pleasing songs of songs, and Mr. James F. Cusick who very ably played two violin solos and also led community singing. Mr. William S. Tacker spoke briefly of the proposed skating rink in town, and urged the members of the association to support the project. Refreshments were served by the hospitality committee under the direction of Mrs. James R. Livingston. As a conclusion to the evening's program, the parents were given an opportunity to meet those teachers with whom they desired personal conferences.

SUCCESSFUL MEETING OF THE WYMAN CHAPTER

The Wyman Chapter of the Mothers' Association at its meeting in Wyman Assembly Hall last Friday afternoon enjoyed a program of music and instruction. Mrs. Winship sang delightfully "The Wind's Tales" by Mary Turner Slater, "To a Baby" by R. C. Clarke, and a charmingly whimsical encore, Mrs. Whorf's accompaniments were unusually artistic. Mrs. Peterson further displayed the beauties of the new piano by a brilliantly-played program of beautiful piano selections, as follows: "The old variations of a Russian dance from the ballet, 'The Wood Maiden' by Beethoven; 'Breuer Rabbit' and 'From a German Forest' by Macdowell; 'Jingle' music from 'Rosalind' by Schubert. To the enthusiastic applause Mrs. Peterson kindly responded with other beautiful numbers.

Miss A. H. Jordan's address on "What Shall Children Read?" she gave in the practical and helpful form of a graded and grouped list of desirable books for children. Some she commended highly as follows, mentioned first those for very little children: "Mother Goose" and "Marigold Garden" with Kate Greenaway illustrations; Beatrix Potter's stories of Peter Rabbit, Benjamin Bunny, etc.; and her Christmas story, "The Tailor of Gloucester"; "Poppy Seed Cakes"; "Charlie and His Puppies"; "Charlie and His Kittens"; "Horace Scudder's 'Book of Folk and Fairy Tales'; 'At the Back of the North Wind' by Macdonald; 'Piper Light Fairy Tale'; 'Star-Light Fairy Tales'; 'Alice in Wonderland'; 'Hans Anderson's Fairy Tales'; 'Little Lame Prince'; 'Adventures of a Brownie'; 'Adventures of Pinocchio'; 'Uncle Remus'; 'Wonderful Adventures of Nils'; 'Child's History of the World' by Dr. Hillyer.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

The local branch of the M. C. W. G. held a very successful whist and food sale in the K. of C. Hall on Dec. 4. The committee in charge was under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Shin-nock.

Prizes were won by the following: W. Carroll, D. O'Leary, Mrs. M. Hall-wart, Miss Mary Holnet, Mrs. A. McDonald, J. Carroll, Mrs. G. Nowell, Mrs. Curran, Miss M. McNamara, J. King, J. Coleman, James Cullen, T. Macksey, E. Murphy, Miss J. Bowen, Mrs. T. Macksey, Miss L. Malinson, Mrs. M. Rouch, Mrs. Cooper, Mr. Humphrey, Miss K. Feeney, E. Farrell, J. Callahan, Mr. Shaw, Mrs. D. E. Dinneen and Mrs. M. E. Foley. The lucky number on the pillow was drawn by Mrs. Mary Sullivan.

At the regular business meeting held last night it was reported that due to the great financial success of the party a very substantial sum is now available to be sent to the Catholic Home for Destitute Children. This is one of the most deserving charities we strive to aid and it is indeed at Christmas time that any help we can give is welcomed for the little children.

COMMUNITY BOWLING LEAGUE NEXT WEEK

The Community Bowling League opens its schedule next week Tuesday, Dec. 16, when matches between the Odd Fellows and Benedicts, and the Old Timers and Masons, will be rolled on the Park Alleys. Eight teams are entered this year as follows: Odd Fellows, Benedicts, Old Timers, Masons, American Legion, Winchester Alleys, Blanchard Company and Winchester Laundries. The matches will be rolled through each week on the Park and Sullivan Alleys, closing the middle of March.

Uncomplimentary Wit

Like the Scotch, the English can relish a joke on their native peculiarities. A recent book of British reminiscences includes this little-known story of the old duchesse de Duras and Montrom, the French wit. The duchesse asked the famous wit, "In your opinion, what animal the most closely resembles man?" Montrom, after a minute and then replied, gravely, "L'Anglais, duchesse."

POP CONCERT

The objective of the Pop Concert Committee is a fund of $10,000 the interest of which is to be used for the operating department of the Winchester Hospital. Of this amount we have $5600. Besides this fund we look after the yearly upkeep of this department, a matter of several hundred dollars. The concert of Nov. 14 will net $1100 and the committee wish to thank all those who have made this and all previous concerts social and financial successes.

Home of Half-Million Gulls

Ravensclaw, on the coast of Cumberland, England, is one of the greatest haunts of seagulls (commonly called gullies) on the British coast. Their breeding season ended with the last days of June. These beautiful birds are of the black-headed variety, and the chief game warden estimates that there are over 500,000 birds, which is regarded as a most conservative estimate. The gallery is situated on the Muncester Castle estate.

TICKETS FOR MacMILLAN LECTURE SALE BEGINS SATURDAY MORNING

Tickets for the MacMillan moving-pictures and lecture at the Town Hall, Saturday evening, Jan. 3, will be put on sale Saturday morning, Dec. 13 at the Star office. Seats may also be engaged by calling Mrs. William I. Palmer, Win. 0151. Prices of the tickets are $1.75, $1.50, $1.75 cents and 50 cents. Tremendous crowds have packed every house where Capt. MacMillan has lectured this fall. He is speaking every day, sometimes twice in the same day, and many requests for engagements have been refused. Fortunately the date of Jan. 3 for Winchester was secured in September, but even then with great difficulty. Immediately after the Winchester lecture Capt. MacMillan will start on his western tour.

The Fortian Club of Somerville presented Mrs. Carolyn Gilpatrick's play "O'Keefe's Circuit" Wednesday evening of last week with great success. Mrs. Ruth B. Gillette of this town made quite a hit as "Spiritual."

Among the men nominated for marshal of the senior class at Harvard is Phillip H. Robb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Robb of Bacon street. Robb was manager of this year's varsity football team at Cambridge.

"Christmas comes but once a year"

THAT is not why we make so much of it, as all Americans do that; but it is one reason why, since

Christmas is what it is, we want to make it such a wonderful day. How much of the time, energy and money of the civilized world each year goes into celebrating Christmas! In church life, in social life and in business it stands out as the one big day of the year. And, whether this should be so or not, so small part of this absorbing interest centers around the CHRISTMAS DINNER. It isn't so much what you will have for dinner that you are concerned about, for custom has decided that pretty much for you; but for that day surely you want in everything THE BEST: you want to serve a dinner on Christmas Day that does you proud.

And that is where SELLER'S MARKET can help you out. We do not carry the lowest priced goods in town—and you do not want them; but we do carry the HIGHEST GRADE of goods that can be found in the market, and we offer them to you at the LOWEST PRICE POSSIBLE.

One of the chief peculiarities of the lemon tree is that it carries both flower and fruit in all stages of development most of the year. The lemons are picked green and ripened in the dark. If picked when ripe they will not keep for any length of time.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white squares this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white squares up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the first black square below. No letters go in the black squares. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms, and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

CROSS-WORD PUZZLE No. 1"STEPPING STONES"

If you like them easy this one will suit you, for the interlock helps you over the slickers. If you're in the expert class you can find an unusual word or two. This puzzle contains every letter in the alphabet except "sk."

The Winchester Fire Department was called out at 4:10 p. m. on Thursday afternoon for a fire in the rear of the Baptist Church caused by some rubbish which had been left burning where the old building was torn down. There was no damage.

While starting from where it had been parked near one of the A. & P. stores in the center a Dodge touring car owned by Herbert W. Kelley of Willow street and operated by Frances C. Kelley of the same address was struck by an International truck owned by Swift and Company and operated by John J. Duggan of East Cambridge. The truck was backing up when the accident occurred. The touring car was slightly damaged.

A FAMOUS BOOK STORE

Perhaps some of the citizens of Boston whose memories extend back to the middle of the last century can recall the first Archway bookstore. It had a covered archway, lined with book stalls, led off Washington street where Talbot's clothing store now stands to the famous old Marlborough Hotel. Here were driven through t and coaches and carts rumble in to the hotel. There was an open bookish air about the little shop, at a such as one finds in book stores in Oxford or London. Here began the tradition of book-love and it changed hands in 1880 when it was purchased by Mr. P. Norton DeWolfe, Mr. Charles F. Fiske, and Mr. Ephraim Adams. This was the founding of the firm that still holds the store, although the two latter gentlemen retired later or to be succeeded by Mr. DeWolfe's son, Mr. J. Morton DeWolfe and Mr. Arthur E. Watkins.

Last June, after various changes of location, the bookstore that at time known as DeWolfe & Fiske Company, made a momentous move for themselves, and for the book business—from Franklin street where they had been for 17 years, to 2 Park street in the Houghton, Mifflin Building. The two firms, both so intimately associated with the book business, seem to have merged the same old. The new store is extraordinarily light and attractive. It faces, instead of a row of office buildings, the Green Boston Common, and the windows of its children's book department in the rear overlook the old Granary Burying Ground, where Mother Goose has buried. It is two doors from Tremont street and opposite the Park street subway station, as convenient and appropriate a location as it would be possible to find, for Park street abounds in literary tradition, from the "Brimstone Corner" to the old Bulfinch House, in which Thomas Bailey Aldrich lived and wrote.

The store offers besides convenience of location and interior attraction an unusual arrangement of an exceptionally large stock of books. On the main floor and in the balconies all the books are readily accessible to the customers. The department of standard authors in fine bindings has been greatly enlarged and beside the usual supply of new books as they are published, there is a department devoted to second-hand books and publishers' remainders.

The Archway has always held an important position and it is certain that its reputation will continue to grow in its new location. The book business is creeping up the hill and DeWolfe & Fiske Company will now stand in the very centre of it. Park street can boast not only of the present and the past, but is now assured of the future as Boston's literary street.

The Star acknowledges with thanks the gift of a very handsome and useful calendar for the coming year from Thomas H. Barrett, real estate and insurance.

—SHOP IN WINCHESTER—

WE extend to the people of Winchester and vicinity, best wishes for a very Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Winchester Telephone 0390

Dear Mr. Willey:

Last week, when business happened to take me to New York, I availed myself of an opportunity to visit Mr. Herbert Adams in his studio on West 11th street, to see for myself how the Winchester War Memorial was coming along. I had met Mr. Adams on one of his visits to Winchester and had also seen something of him in Washington, in an entirely different connection.

This call upon him in his studio, with the second phase of his work on our Memorial only recently completed, was to me a really memorable experience. The workshop of any creative artist is always interesting and naturally this particular studio was to me doubly so.

The studio is situated on the ground floor in the back part of the house, with a clear overhead light. Mr. Adams was in his working clothes, busily engaged in modeling the design for a gold medal to be presented next month by the people of the City of Washington to Ambassador Jusserand on the occasion of his retirement from the post which he has held for twenty-two years. Near by was a marble bust which Mr. Adams is making of the late James R. Mann, member of Congress from Illinois, which is to be set up at one of the entrances to the House of Representatives in the Capitol at Washington. Here and there in the room were other pieces of sculpture in various stages of completion. And on a table at one side was a radio receiving set.

Of chief interest to me, of course, was the group which Mr. Adams is doing for our town. It stands against dark hangings at the end of the room, on a wooden base which revolves easily and which the sculptor turned about for my benefit as I sat in the chair which he placed for me at the point which would bring my eye at the proper level.

Nearly is the original small sketch model which by photographs the town accepted at the last annual town meeting as the design for the War Memorial. Comparison of the two indicates the sculptor's development of his conception of the group in detail and as a whole. The inclination of the heads has been somewhat altered, for instance, to bring them a little nearer together, and the whole idea is more readily apparent in this larger treatment. In the present stage the figures measure thirty-five inches in height; the figures in the completed Memorial will measure eight and a half feet.

For safety's sake the sculptor will now have moulds made of the present group. Basing his work on the two studies already made, he will then devote the next year to building up the final phase of the group in its heroic size. Several months will then be required for casting in bronze. In the meantime the base will be made ready for erection, with the necessary carving, etc.

All of these things, and much more, Mr. Adams took pains to explain to me. Through it all I was impressed with the fact that it is easy to understand why this thing of pure beauty—this sculptured group—has so deep a meaning for the beholder: it is because of the meaning that it has for its creator.

Yours sincerely,

RALPH T. HALE

MR. GEORGE E. WILLEY,

Chairman, Winchester War Memorial Committee.

MR. CLEMENT SURPRISED

Mr. Frederick D. Clement, popular Past Exalted Ruler of Winchester Lodge 1445, B. P. O. E., was most agreeably surprised last Saturday evening when, upon entering the home of Mr. James Halligan on Tremont street, he found himself in the midst of some 30 friends including 16 brothers Elks. Elaborate plans had been worked out for a real old fashioned surprise party with Mr. Clement as guest of honor.

The feature of the affair was the presentation to Mr. Clement of a ruler of a beautiful platinum Elks' recognition pin set with a diamond as an expression of the esteem in which the recipient is held by his brother Elks and friends. Though taken completely by surprise, Mr. Clement was not at a loss for a suitable expression of his appreciation for the handsome gift, thanking his friends in a few words that left nothing to be desired.

Following the presentation the company sat down to an elaborate "turkey supper" the dining room being attractively decorated for the occasion with Elks' banners and mottoes. During the supper instrumental selections were rendered by an orchestra, and the evening wound up with vocal and instrumental numbers by talented members of the party, including dancing exhibitions by Messrs. "Jim" Horne and "Pat" Kennedy. The entire party was characterized as one of those "best ever" affairs and it was late in the evening when the guests finally departed for their several homes.

ORGAN RECITAL

The regular monthly organ recital given on the third Sunday of each month will be given next Sunday afternoon at 4:15, at the Church of the Epiphany.

Mr. J. Albert Wilson, organist, will be assisted by Mr. Jacques Hoffman, violinist, of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The following interesting program will be rendered:

Treasures and Pearls in D Minor..... Bach
Chanson de Nuit..... Reger
Andantino..... Saint-Saens
Caprice..... Liszt
The Shepherd in the Field..... Malling
(a) Legend..... Debussy
(b) Legend..... Debussy
Festive March..... Fote

A musical service by the vested choir of 45 men and boys will follow the recital at which the following anthems will be sung:

Vive Dieu in C..... Gadeby
"The Great Day of the Lord is Near"..... Martin
"Hosanna in the Highest"..... Stainer

MARRIAGE INTENTIONS

The following marriage intentions have been filed with the Town Clerk: Zacharie Peter Maillette of West Medford and Charlotte Mary Leblanc of West Medford, to be married at the Flavin of East Boston and Arthur V. Donoghue of 15 Water street.

EVA J. KELLOUGH

Miss Eva J. Kellough, a former resident of Winchester, died last Saturday morning at her home on Commonwealth avenue, Brookline, following an illness of 13 months. She was 40 years old.

Eva J. Kellough was born in East Boston in 1875, the daughter of Thomas and Anna N. (MacKenzie) Kellough. Her early life was spent there, the family removing to Winchester following the death of Miss Kellough's mother, 20 years ago. For 15 years she lived in town making her home on Lakewood road, and enjoying a wide circle of friends.

Five years ago she left town and has since made her home with her brother Elks in Brookline. Miss Kellough was an accomplished pianist and a member of the MacDowell Club. While in East Boston she had been well known as a vocalist, having been a soloist at the Universalist Church and at the Episcopal Church, and three brothers, C. J. Kellough of Brookline, and Willard Kellough of Detroit.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Church of the Epiphany. Rev. Mr. Sprague of East Boston was the officiating clergyman, and selections were sung by the Pilgrim Quartet of Boston. C. J. Kellough of Brookline, and Willard Kellough of Detroit.

IMPORTANT POST OFFICE INFORMATION

Winchester residents would do well to remember the postal regulation which prohibits the use of all Christmas seals, whether Red Cross or others, on foreign mail. The local office can not send any letters and packages out of the country having upon them anything other than the usual addresses and postage stamps. Those who have sent mail with Christmas seals should get in touch with the post office at once if they wish to get their letters started. All Christmas mail should have on it a return address.

On Christmas Day there will be postively no work done at the Winchester office after 11 a. m. There will be no rural delivery on Christmas. This is according to orders of the Postmaster General in Washington.

The Winchester office is making use this Christmas of a big Army truck from Motor Transport Co. G. of Woburn. The truck is running on schedule of two trips daily delivery parcel-post matter. A regular militia man is acting as chauffeur.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

The charitable whist which the court conducted on Friday evening of the 12th inst. was a tremendous success. It put to rest the old story of the Court's inability to raise money. The first prize, a 10-pound turkey, was won by D. Frank Minnen, the turkey on chance was awarded to Mrs. Julia Tracy, and there were 45 other very good prizes. The ladies in charge of this party deserve the greatest praise for their splendid work.

Sister Johanna Scott who has been quite ill at her home on Loring avenue is considerably improved in health which will be welcome news to the membership at large.

Sister Mollie L. Maguire who was called to Detroit, Mich., by the death of her father, is expected home this week. Mrs. Maguire's mother will return with her for an extended visit.

At last evening's meeting, after much important business had been transacted in connection with the court's Christmas charitable work, a social hour was enjoyed, followed by an entertainment of a Christmas nature. Plans were perfected, also, for the installation of officers in January.

Great interest is being manifested in the January social evening on the 15th. The speaker of the occasion will be Rev. William B. T. Stinson, C. J. Wyse subject, "Deane D.P.A." is sure to prove of profound interest to the members and their friends.

Tonight (K. of C. Hall, P. G. R. Alice L. Martin will conduct a whist in aid of the missions at Kingston Jamaica, B. W. I. Some very fine prizes have been donated for this party and in view of the fact that there have been disposed of, a fine attendance is expected. The proceeds of this party will be a welcome gift to the splendid missionaries in far off Jamaica.

In January the Court will conduct an initiation for the large number of applicants who are now on the waiting list.

ELECT ROLLO HOCKEY CAPTAIN FOR 1925

At a meeting of the letter players held at the January Vincenza Room, 25 was elected to captain the Winchester High School girls' field hockey team for next season. Vin has played regularly at left half-back throughout the past season and has been a steady and dependable performer. Her choice appears a popular one and she should lead a successful team in 1925 with seven veteran players available as a nucleus.

The following were awarded letters this year: Captain Skilling '25, Carlisle '25, Simmons '26, Mackenzie '26, Wentworth '26, Bourne '25, Nelson '25, Roll, '26, Feina '26, D. Bond '27, G. Bond '26, and Manager Drisko '26.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Sullivan (Mary Harrold) are the parents of a son, Timothy, born Dec. 8, at their home on Nelson street.

Christmas Music in Our Churches

Special Programs To Be Held By Various Denominations On Sunday

Winchester Churches Will Hold Special Christmas Programs of Music This Coming Sunday in Observance of the Day as Follows

CHRISTMAS SERVICES AT THE FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Special Christmas Services will be held at the First Congregational Church next Sunday.

The Morning Worship will be held at 9:30. There will be special Christmas music by a choir of 40 voices and Christmas music by the Quartette. The following Christmas Carols will be sung: Angels from the Realms of Glory, O Come, Emmanuel, O Come, All Ye Faithful, Hark! Hark! Hark! to the World, Hark the Herald Angels.

The morning congregation is asked to be present by 10:25 if possible. Parents with children in the Kindergarten and Primary Departments are asked to take them direct to these Departments.

Mr. Chidley will preach a special Christmas sermon on "Voices from the Void."

Mr. John C. Haartz is decorating the church again this year. Afternoon at 4:30, Christmas Pageant "Bethlehem."

At 4:30 in the afternoon in the Church Auditorium will be presented a beautiful Christmas Pageant, entitled "Bethlehem." More than 50 people will take part in this Pageant. The lighting and costume effects have been carefully studied and it promises to be an impressive service. Seats are reserved for the Sunday School, but the public is invited to all the Christmas Services of the day.

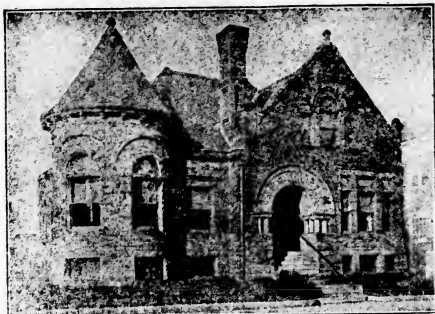

CHRISTMAS SERVICE AT UNITARIAN CHURCH

The usual Christmas service at the Unitarian Church will take place this year on the coming Sunday morning, Dec. 21, at 10:15 o'clock. THREE GUNMEN SENTENCED

The three alleged burglars interrupted by Officer James P. Donohy of the Winchester Police Department while apparently about to break into one of the stores in the Norris Block at the Algonquin River on Main street at 1 o'clock last week Thursday morning appeared in the Municipal Court, Pemberton square, Boston, Tuesday of this week.

Officer Donohy placed the three men, who gave their names as Thomas P. Lynch, 20, of Roxbury; Frank Gately, 27, of Jamaica Plain; and Wilfred Keenan, 19, of Roxbury; under arrest as they were trying to escape in a stolen car and at the local station where they were booked as suspicious characters with an additional charge brought against Gately of having a revolver in his possession without a license.

Later Thursday morning Gately was taken before Judge Morton in the District Court at Woburn where he was found guilty on charge of having a revolver in his possession without a license and fined $100. He appealed and was held in $200, being released to jail at East Cambridge in lieu of bail.

Keenan and Lynch were turned over by the local authorities to the Boston Police Station 5 who were particularly anxious to have all three of the men in connection with crimes which they were investigating.

In the same case, a probation officer placed Keenan's case on the upon the recommendation of probation officers who found he had no previous record. Lynch was given a year and a day on the charge of stealing an automobile, and being one of a party having a dangerous weapon in its possession. He appealed his sentence, and was held in $2000 bonds for the grand jury.

The Municipal Court waived jurisdiction on Gately, and he was bound over in $2000 for the January session of the grand jury.

Both Lynch and Gately have police records and are known as bad actors, probation officers and others of the Boston Police expressing surprise that Officer Donohy came out of his encounter with them unscathed. Gately, especially is reputed to be a dangerous man with a gun, it being alleged at the present time that he is wanted in Brooklyn, N. Y., for an assault with a dangerous weapon upon a police officer. The Boston authorities are at present in touch with the Brooklyn police for further information.

The capturing of two such notorious rogues as Lynch and Gately and especially their apprehension before being able to commit the crime for which they were apparently in Winchester was a nice piece of police work on the part of Officer Donohy who is being warmly commended for his clever haul.

BOY SCOUT NOTES

Scout Executive A. E. Butters will conduct a Scout hike leaving headquarters at 10 a. m. tomorrow, Saturday, Dec. 20, and returning about 5 p. m. All Scouts are invited, especially those desiring to pass second-class tests.

The swimming meet of last week was won by Troop 3 with 52 points. Troop 1 was second with 30 points. Bowen Tafts got the most points with 29. Henry Newman was next with 22 and Wadleigh 12.

For Men in Particular

At this time of year, so well known for good resolutions, we have a suggestion for all the men who read our advertisement. It is that they think in a practical, helpful way of the women of their household—a way that will make the holiday spirit last for some season throughout the year.

An allowance in the year's budget that will allow the greater part of the laundry to be done outside the home would be one of the finest gifts that any housewife will ever expect. Ask any woman if this isn't so.

MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION CHILDREN'S PARTY

The Winchester Mothers' Association held their annual children's Christmas party and sale on Wednesday afternoon in the High School assembly hall. A goodly number of parents and children were present, the total being estimated in excess of 400.

The part of the hall nearest the stage was given over to tables containing various inexpensive gifts, the idea being to give the children an opportunity to do their Christmas shopping at the sale. In the corridor just outside the door of the hall was the food table which proved very popular with young and old alike. A feature of the sale was the "presents post grab."

The entertainment program was in charge of Mrs. H. W. Hight and Mrs. Arthur Loftus. It was opened with a group of songs by Mrs. William H. Gilpatrick. As usual, Mrs. Gilpatrick charmed her audience, her selections being particularly chosen with a view of pleasing her youthful hearers. The State Department of Health and Education contributed much to the success of the entertainment by sending out their Mr. McLaughlin with two reels of movie films which were thoroughly enjoyed. The first was entitled "The Kid Comes Through," and had to do with the activities of the Boy Scouts laying emphasis upon the benefits derived from such training as the scouts offer. The second picture was a fairy story, "The Knowing Gnomes" which proved no less popular than its predecessor. Between the movie selections carols were sung by the children led by Mrs. Leo McNally. Mrs. F. C. Alexander was the accompanist of the afternoon.

Following the entertainment the children were served with ice cream cones at the lunch counter, the stampede down stairs giving Officer Daniel Kelley plenty of traffic problems to work out.

Mrs. Harrison Parker, President of the Mothers' Association, was in personal charge of the arrangements assisted by the following ladies, Mrs. P. Patterson Smith, Mrs. William A. LeFavour, Mrs. A. S. Capron, Mrs. Harry C. Sanborn, Mrs. R. E. Carlisle, Mrs. H. W. Moulton, Mrs. D. C. Innes, Mrs. John Powers, Mrs. H. W. Hight, Mrs. Arthur Loftus, Mrs. Leo McNally, Mrs. William H. Gilpatrick, Mrs. W. F. Hickey and others.

Coming event promises to eclipse previous affairs. The Sigma Beta Dance, to be held December 26, in Watertown Hall with decorations designed and under the direction of Lee W. Court will be in the form of a Persian Garden.

GIFT TO CHURCH

The Second Congregational Church has received a gift from one of the members of the church, Mr. William J. Nutting, of a splendid new bulletin board. The new bulletin has been set up on the lot purchased for the new church at the corner of Kenwin road and Washington street. This will be easily read from the street, so that everyone in the community may keep in touch with the various services and activities of the church and feel free to enjoy as many of the services as possible. Watch the new bulletin board for interesting announcements.

We Greet You—

For This Is Christmas Day

DOWN the ages, year after year, men, women, and children have turned their eyes to a far-off town called Bethlehem. The Christ Child and the marveling shepherds stand each year in the greatest of living stories.

Today a world rejoices. Today, ever new, the old, old story is told. We pause and let our thoughts go far into the world. And the world—a mirror—smiles back. There is no thought of self. There is no sentimental cry. There is no pride. For, in forgetting ourselves, we find the real meaning of Christmas. There is peace and good will in our hearts.

We greet you—

For this is Christmas Day.

GEORGE TIMOTHY STYLES

George Timothy Styles, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Styles (Hannah Callahan) passed away last Thursday morning at the home of his parents after an illness of five days with pneumonia.

A particularly likeable little fellow with cheery disposition, he was beloved alike by school mates, neighbors and friends to whom his loss is a sad blow. He attended St. Mary's Parochial School. Surviving him are his parents and four brothers, James, Daniel, John and Bernard.

Funeral services were held Saturday morning with the mass of the Holy Angels celebrated in St. Mary's Church at 10 o'clock by the Rev. Fr. Joseph A. Quigley. The bearers were four playmates of the deceased, including John Lane, Harry Boyle, Edward Quill and Francis Callahan. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery, Montvale.

—SHOP IN WINCHESTER—

TO ALL MEMBERS OF THE RED CROSS

The Winchester Chapter of the American Red Cross has had a very full and active year during 1924. The Board of Directors has held six regular meetings and one special meeting besides the annual meeting.

A very charming publicity, Mrs. Henry Fitts has proved of great value to the organization. Nearly every edition of the Star has contained some item showing the work of the Red Cross in its various branches. In April the Red Cross aided the exhibition of the blind by taking charge of their publicity. Here Mrs. Fitts showed herself an able chairman.

The production this year has consisted of pajamas, layettes, sweaters and over 3000 surgical dressings from the Junior Red Cross of the High School.

Miss Mitchell as the home service worker has kept her Tuesday office day. In the past year she has closed so many cases that we saw a gradual reduction in this work. New cases, however, come once in a while and because ex-service men, whether their illness is of war service or of later origin, may come to the Red Cross for help, this branch of the work must always be open.

The motor corps has not been idle. There have been 18 trips to Boston for Mrs. Savage the school nurse to Eye and Ear Infirmary and to some other clinic, 10 cars for the blind at the time of the exhibit and a car all day for Dr. Greene this fall besides taking bundles to Boston headquarters.

The Junior Red Cross both in high and grade schools has been very active. Christmas cards, Easter cards and valentines made and sent to hospitals, correspondence carried on with schools in Europe, the Philippines and an Indian school in Arizona and just recently over 100 Christmas boxes packed and sent to children in foreign lands. As Dr. Greene told the pupils in the schools on his trip, "The greatest thing in the world is to do something for some one else."

When we learn at conferences that it is almost impossible to relieve the victims of the Red Cross work in the schools in other places, because of indifference or maybe only lack of information on the part of the superintendent and teachers, we are very thankful that we have so much co-operation in our schools.

Our organization donated $100 to the recreational building at Rutland, built by the Red Cross, $5 for playing cards, $5 for vases for use in hospitals. Eighteen copies of the Red Cross Courier were subscribed for, a new typewriter was purchased and through the Red Cross the Anna Millo Upjohn pictures were sent to Winchester and routed through the schools.

Members of the executive board have attended two conferences in Boston, one last spring and one this fall and for the first time in the chapter's history a delegate was sent to the National Conference at Washington.

We were called upon early this fall to contribute clothing to relieve the victims of the cyclone in the Virgin Islands. Prompt response of our townspeople brought double the quota of garments asked.

A new department has just been formed, namely Braille. We have been anxious to do something in this for some time. Miss Lillian Horne has been appointed for this work and we will finance her book.

To our townspeople who every year are ready and willing at the roll call to ally themselves once more with the Red Cross, to the American Legion for their courtesy, to the Editor of the Star, to the Selectmen and to the many individuals who have loaned their cars, and to all others who have given their services, we are indebted for such a full year. The Winchester Chapter thanks you all.

ELKS' VISITATION

There was a record attendance at Tuesday evening's meeting and visitation of Winchester Lodge of Elks; in addition to many members of the lodge there were present Elks from Haverhill, Lawrence, Medford, Melrose, Somerville, Cambridge, Brookline, Arlington, Concord and Marlboro. The visitation was by District Deputy G. E. Ruler John F. McEann of Somerville, and the visit was the first made under the new division of Massachusetts lodges.

Considerable business was transacted at the meeting, and the initiation exercises were conducted on a class of 12 candidates, the local officers receiving high compliments from the Deputy upon the excellence of their work.

Following the work remarks were made by a number of the visitors, and a handsome mahogany cigar humidor was presented to the District Deputy. Past Exalted Ruler and founder of the Lodge, John McElly, was presented with a gold case containing a certificate of life membership in the Lodge. Refreshments were served at the close of the session.

Announcement was made of the plans and preparation for the Kiddies' Christmas tree and entertainment to be given by the Lodge in the Town Hall on the afternoon of Dec. 26. Everything is ready for this observance, and the big committee in charge, assisted by many ladies of the Emblem Club, has nothing further to arrange.

Randall's ice cream store is carrying at this season its usual Sunday specials in ice cream and candy. Watch for this when ordering your Sunday cream, for it cannot be beat, either in quality or flavor. Randall's also has a full line of Xmas candy and novelties, all concocted from the best of materials and a feast for the eye and palate.

CALUMET ACTIVITIES

Many Interesting Events Scheduled for Mid-Winter

Calumet activities over the holiday season and through January promise to be most attractive to members and their families. New calendars of events will be issued this week.

This year's New Year's Eve party promises to eclipse all previous events held at this date, and the committee in charge has already completed all arrangements for the affair. The tickets for the party have been largely taken, and the committee has therefore felt obliged to limit the attendance to members and their ladies and sons and daughters over 18 years. Application for tickets will be received by the steward at the club up to Saturday, Dec. 27. This will be a formal party, with dancing from 8 till 1 o'clock.

On Wednesday the seventh of January there will be a ladies' afternoon bowling party at the club, commencing at 2:30 o'clock. Ladies who anticipate taking part in this contest are requested to notify the committee in charge—Mrs. Willard T. Carlton and Mrs. John A. Maddocks.

Friday, Jan. 9, a ladies' night scheduled, when a mixed bridge party followed by dancing will open at 8 o'clock. This will be informal. An afternoon bridge for the ladies will be held on Wednesday, Jan. 14, at 2:30 o'clock. This will be in charge of Mrs. George E. Willey, Mrs. John Hart Taylor and Mrs. Chester F. Wolfe. Guests at this party must be accompanied by the wife or daughter of a member, and those attending are requested to apply for tickets on or before Jan. 12.

A smoker for the men in scheduled for Saturday evening, Jan. 17, at the club, the "Garden City Three." These artists are "merry, mirth-raising musical masters." Their entertainment is said to be unsurpassed. The musical collation will be served.

Of especial interest is the concert to be held on the evening of Friday, Jan. 23. At this time the club will entertain its ladies with one of the finest programs of the winter. The group of artists already engaged includes the following:

Madam Claire Maentz, soprano; David Blair McLosky, baritone; George Brown, cellist; Margaret Walsh, pianist; Howard Slayman, accompanist.

These artists are widely known in musical circles as the foremost members of their profession. Their appearance will undoubtedly give great pleasure to the club members. This evening is open to members and their families only.

The entertainment at the club this year is in charge of Messrs. Walter J. Brown, Alfred G. Barr, Thomas I. Frechman, Alden Symmes and E. Russell Murphy.

"GUS THE BUS"

Musical Comedy Success at Shubert Theatre, Boston, Moves to the Majestic

"Gus the Bus" which has completed two weeks of fun-making at the Shubert Theatre (Boston) moves over to the Majestic Theatre to continue its Boston run beginning today, Dec. 22. This musical comedy of revue-like proportions has a host of clever people in the cast headed by the inimitable Swedish character comedian, El Brendel and his charming partner, Flo Bert, who is seen in the role of Evelyn, "the exquisite exchequer" of the Jack Laft stories on which the theatrical offering is based.

During the holidays, seven special matinees will be given at the Majestic of "Gus the Bus." The first of these will be on Christmas Day and there will also be matinees on Friday and Saturday of that week.

"Gus the Bus" is peculiarly appropriate for the holiday season as the important scenes are placed in a restaurant on New Year's Eve, and on this account many parties are being arranged. In addition to the extra matinees, the company will also give a special midnight performance on New Year's Eve.

"Gus the Bus" has been recommended generally by the critics and amusement seeking public of Boston as a very funny show with a cast and chorus of unusual liveliness. The music is by Con Conrad, who wrote the music of "Moonlight" already made familiar to Boston this season and Frank Smithson and Max Scheek are responsible for the staging, dances and ensembles.

EDDIE DOWLING

In "Sally, Irene and Mary." Returning to Boston—at the Wilbur Theatre, Dec. 22

Eddie Dowling, in "Sally, Irene and Mary," returns to Boston for a limited engagement at the Wilbur Theatre on Monday night, Dec. 22. His popular star and this joyous musical comedy, which the Messrs. Shubert recently played a 17 weeks' engagement in Boston last season.

Dowling and "Sally, Irene and Mary" have made a transcontinental tour since they were last in Boston, and both the star and the three heroines of this delightful musical play have endeared themselves to thousands of playgoers from New York.

San Francisco, Mr. Dowling wrote the book of "Sally, Irene and Mary," and he has provided the satisfaction of skeptical theatrical producers that the public will patronize a clean musical play when it is well acted and produced. Such is the main charm of "Sally, Irene and Mary"—its cleanliness from either risqué dialogue or of color situations.

The play is now in its third year. The original cast, the surrogate Mr. Dowling when he played in Boston before is still with it including Louise Brown, premier dancer.

During the engagement of "Sally, Irene and Mary" at the Wilbur Theatre popular prices will prevail. The highest priced seats on a Wednesday matinee will be $1.50 and the best seats at night, except on Saturdays and holidays, will be $2.50.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. BRIDGET DOHERTY

A solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated last Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in St. Mary's Church for Mrs. Bridget Doherty, widow of Patrick Doherty, who passed away last week Wednesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Welch, 271 Main street, Watertown, after an illness of seven weeks. She was 64 years of age and had been in failing health for the past 13 years. Rev. Fr. Nathaniel J. Merritt, rector of St. Mary's church, officiated at Saturday's mass, assisted by Rev. Fr. Joseph M. Fitzgibbons, and Rev. Fr. Joseph A. Quigley. The bearers included Messrs. William Doherty, James Doherty, and Dr. H. J. McMahon of Woburn, John Welch of Watertown, and Thomas McMahon and Edward McMahon of Winchester. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery, Montvale.

Mrs. Doherty was well known in Winchester, having spent much of her life here. She was born in County Clare, Ireland, in 1860 and came to this town when 13 years of age. Since that time she had made her home here up to seven weeks ago when she went to visit her daughter in Watertown, being stricken while at the latter's home.

Mrs. Doherty is survived by five daughters, Mrs. John Welch of Watertown, Mrs. Francis Miller of Lynn, Mrs. George Wyman, and Miss Helen Doherty of Winchester, and Mrs. John I. McMinamin, Jr. of Winchester, with whom she had made her home in this town.

The Winchester Fire Department received a telephone call at 8:20 o'clock on Monday morning for a brush fire between the Winchester Chambers and Wildwood street. The combination responded and the fire was extinguished without damage.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Selfishness is always narrow and cramped, a man must be big to succeed.
We all appreciate the common things of life when we are denied them.
If life were all easy, we should degenerate into weaklings—or a sort of human mush. It is the fighting spirit that makes us strong.
Men too often look and act as if their whole life was made up of hardships to be endured.

An American correspondent, just after the World War, was standing in a Berlin street the day before Christmas. Near him were two little children of just the age that finds Christmas with all its tender mystery a gleam from another world. The children flitted their noses against a shop window, shining with Christmas color, with a radiant Christmas tree, lung with frosted cakes, and red candles. "Sister," do you think that we shall get candies and cakes this Christmas?" "Of course not," was the reply. "This is Ersatz Christmas," "Ersatz?" "Ersatz," she said, "means substitute." It was a substitute Christ, was in Germany after the great war. Even the little children knew the painful meaning of it: the winners of the shops were gaily with substitutes, with colored sweetmeats that were not sweet, with shining sugar wares that had no sugar in them. The hatreds of men had taken the bloom and the beauty from Christmas, made the festival of peace and good will a mockery. Where the heralds of men had said there can be a thing but a substitute Christmas, with all the Christmas setting only a poor imitation of the real thing. It is only the great unselfishness and good will that was in the heart of Jesus that can fill the world with the things that are no substitutes. Where that prevails we no longer see children looking from under at night that has no warmth, but we see them drawing close to the place where the light is and shouting with joy, "This is the real Christmas!" EMBLEM CLUB NOTES

On account of the holiday season the next meeting of the club has been postponed until Wednesday evening, Jan. 14. At this meeting the regular order of business will be taken up and the initiation of new candidates will take place.
Evidently the fame of the Emblem Club of Winchester is spreading. The secretary has received a letter from Bristol, Conn., requesting information in regard to the preliminary steps taken in forming this Club. So far all visitors seem to be greatly impressed with the ritualistic work, which has been perfected under the direction of Exalted Ruler Davidson of Winchester Lodge of Elks. The "Order of the Emblem" may yet become a national institution and much credit may be accorded to the Winchester branch for its revised Constitution and Ritual.
The Elks' Christmas Festival for the children will be held on Thursday, Dec. 26, in the Town Hall. Elaborate preparations are being made to entertain a larger number of little folks than ever this year, and the Emblem Club has been asked to assist in the ceremonies. As the affair is scheduled for the day after Christmas every one should have time to spare. It is the desire of President Albie E. Davidson that all who possibly can will be at the Town Hall Thursday afternoon at 1:30 to receive instructions and help with the preparations. And there will be work for all, officers and members alike—and perhaps a measure of joy for all in helping to make "Christmas Cheer" for the little ones.

BUILDING PERMITS

The Building Commissioner has granted permits for work ending Thursday, Jan. 1, as follows:

"THE IMPORTANCE OF BEING EARNEST"

On Saturday evening the Dramatic Society of the Winchester High School presented the three-act play, "The Importance of Being Earnest." The comedy was written by Oscar Wilde and is a very interesting one. The actors and actresses were particularly well-chosen, each one seeming to put the real eye and enthusiasm into his characterization. The plot evolves itself around the circumstances of a Mr. Worthing who was found in a handbag in the Victoria station in London. Mr. Worthing takes advantage of the ignorance of his true name, and throughout the play calls himself "Jack" and "Ernest" interchangeably. Gwendolyn Fairfax, with whom he falls in love, is fond of the name "Ernest," thus he finds that he must keep it for her sake. Much of his discomfort is brought about by his friend Algernon Montcrieff's apparent lack of tact, and his love for a practical joke. Things end up all right when, after many alarming adventures, Mr. Worthing finally finds out that his real name is Ernest and that the real name is Ernest and his brother, Virginia Farnham and Holbrook Lowell were an admirable pair. Gwendolyn, as the sophisticated young girl of London society; and Ernest, the youth so much in love with her, George Lane, took the part of Cecily, Mr. Worthing's ward. She was excellent in her characterization as the demure yet roguish heroine, who jested down in her ready diary the proposals of Mr. Montcrieff. John Gifford took the part of Algernon, delighting the audience with his suave manner and his insatiable taste for cucumber sandwiches, muffins and indeed anything which partakes of the nature of food. Miss Friesen, Dorothy Brown, was a fine governess for Cecily. The part of the minister was taken by Harry Gardner who, for the occasion, acquired an ecclesiastical air. Frances Lowell was the mother of Gwendolyn and the stern aunt of Algernon. With her supercilious airs and high-sounding phrases she was pronounced perfect in her part. Richard Barnard and Henry Mitchell, the two butlers in the play, possessed the dignity befitting their proud position in life. As a whole the cast was excellent, showing a great deal of earnest effort both on their part and on the part of the faculty advisor and coach, Miss Weeks.
Interest in the play was added by a ticket contest. A Winchester man who wishes to remain unknown gave prizes of candy to those selling the most tickets. Holbrook Lowell won first prize; Margaret Newman, second; Helen Smith, third; Margaret Bradley, fourth. Five smaller prizes were awarded to Barbara Bourne, Ruth Kingsbury, Carolyn Lampe, Janice Whittaker.
The following is the list of the committees which assisted in making the affair a success:
Scene and Lighting
Harry Gardner, Chairman
Fred Hunsford, Holbrook Lowell
Robert Breen Properties
Dorothy Brown, John Gifford
Betty Sweetser, Richard Barnard
Henry Mitchell
Arrangements
Mary Clara Chapman
Whitford Sanderson, Dorothy Parsons
Costumes
Dorothy Nutter
After the performance, dancing was enjoyed in the gymnasium. The dramatic society of the Winchester High School played. Everything went off with a vim and enthusiasm which represents the Winchester school spirit. Most important of all, however, the Dramatic Society cleared a large sum of money which will go a long way toward the long desired curtain.

G. SIDNEY STANTON
NEW CHOIR DIRECTOR AT WINCHESTER METHODIST CHURCH

A mixed choir has been organized for the evening services of the Winchester M. E. Church, under the auspices of the Young Women's Club. They have been most fortunate in securing, as their director, Mr. G. Sidney Stanton.

Mr. Stanton has had considerable experience directing orchestras, choruses and choirs, in and about Boston. He is at present director of music at the First Universalist Church, Cambridge. Under his leadership the church has, for the last four years, produced a series of oratorios and cantatas annually, using a chorus of over one hundred voices and drawing a congregation numbering over one thousand.

His voice training has been under Mr. Leverett B. Merrill of Boston and his training in directing under such men as Emil Mollenhauer, Dr. A. T. Davidson, of Harvard, and Agide Jacchia, conductor of the Boston Symphony "Pops."

In addition to this, Mr. Stanton is a violin soloist, having studied at the New England Conservatory, and is at present a pupil of Harrison Keller. Entering Harvard College in 1918, he left for a short period to go into business, but he has now returned to the college, taking active interest in the musical activities there. He has played in the Piccolo Society (the Harvard Orchestra), is a member of the University Glee Club and directs the Freshman Glee Club. Last year he wrote the prize-winning song in an open competition for a 1927 class song. He is a member of the Cecilia Society of Boston and of the Harvard Music Club and leader of their string quartet.

The interest of the young people of the church in the choir has been enthusiastic. They appreciate the opportunity of singing under the direction of a man of Mr. Stanton's personality and ability.

Hard-Working Burglar Forced to Draw Line

Bert met his old friend Bill the Burglar and the two got chatting about things in general.

"I hear you've left your wife," remarked Bert presently. "Why did you do that?"

"Because she was always wantin' me to do somethin'," snarled the burglar moodily.

"What do you mean?" asked his friend.

"No matter how lousy or tired I was,
she was always naggin' me to do somethin' for her. At last, one night, it was too much."

"How was that?" said the other, interested.

"Well, I came in about three o'clock in the morning," explained Bill, "all worn out from doing too much work.
I had opened two strong boxes and finished up by forcing a couple of safes, to say nothing of a vault. I cracked open the safe every evening. An then, when I got in, what do you suppose that woman wanted me to do?"

"What?"

"As I stand here, it's true," growled Bill the Burglar. "She wanted me to open a box full of safes for her!"—London Answers.

Scientist Had Big Job

Yung, a French entomologist, has killed the ants in five hills by means of a poisonous gas and undertaken the prodigious labor of counting the dead. The result showed that in the smallest hill there were nearly 18,000 ants; in the largest, 40,000, and no man would dare to estimate how many ants "got away"—that is, how many were absent from the hills on business or pleasure at the time when the scientist entered upon his tremendous task.

CALUMET HOUSE TOURNAMENT

Opening matches in the Calumet bowling tournament for this week were not productive of any exceptional scores, although as teams, the bowlers rolled well up to average, and in one instance at least a match went by the margin of one pin. Team 13 won three from 17, 10, 4 and 4 from 18 and 9 three from 6. Heaton led individually, being the only roller to top the 300 mark. He made 308 with 113. Pilkington rolled 115. Fairchild 109, Peterson 108, Hartford and Goodale 105 each and Winslip 104.

The scores:

RECORDS MADE IN CALUMET BOWLING

Team 2 found a groove in the alleys at the Calumet Club in Wednesday night's house tournament matches, breaking two club records. This team rolled a string of 419 and a total of 1040. Eleven pins more, which "every body lost," would have taken it over the 1100 mark. Even at that, team 11, which lost, rolled a mean game itself, making three strings of better than 600. Gamme was high roller, making 306 with 131 for his best string.

MIXED BOWLING TO START

Notices will be issued this week announcing the opening of the mixed bowling tournament at the Calumet Club. This will start on Tuesday, Jan. 13, with teams of four couples each. Announcement is made that teams will be made up so far as possible in complete organization, as has been the custom in years past. The usual prizes will be awarded at the close of the tournament at a bowling dinner to be paid by the losing teams. The entries for the tournament will close on Dec. 31.

Miss Mabel Wingate, of Winchester, who as violin instructor is a member of the music teaching faculty of Norfolk House Center, Roxbury, was one of the soloists at the Teachers' Recital given there last Saturday. Her selections, which were warmly applauded, included "Midnight Bolero" by Henberger-Kreidler; Hungarian Dance No. 4 by Hubay; "Melody" by Vice President General Charles G. Dawes.

BASKETBALL THIS AFTERNOON

Winchester High will open its home basketball season this afternoon playing Wellesley High in the local gymnasium at 3:30. The visitors have played no previous games so it is impossible to get much of a line on their ability, but apparently the teams should be pretty evenly matched and a good game should result. Wellesley is being coached by Roscoe Fitts, the old Harvard all-around star who is known as one of the best independent basketball players around Boston. He has had a long experience with the net game and if he can impart the knowledge he has of inside stuff to his charges Wellesley will prove a hard team to take.

Winchester is finishing its third week of practice and is not nearly so far advanced as was the case a year ago when the school had a veteran quintet on the floor. Coach Roberts has had to spend considerable time on fundamentals thus far, and consequently has been unable to develop much in the way of team work. When the boys take the floor this afternoon only one player of last season's crack combination will be in the line-up. Captain Tansy will be in his old forward position with four others picked from the substitutes and second team of last year. Francis is one of the best High School has had in the net game for several years and should go big this season. With three years of varsity competition he is well grounded in the experience that goes so far in pulling close games out of the fire, and should prove a leader in every sense of the word. With him on the forward line will be either Rolli '25, R. Halwartz '27 or Kendrick '25. McCauley '26 or Melley '25 will be at center, and the guards will be picked from Cassidy '26, Melley '25, J. Halwartz '26, and Johnson '26.

Second team men who will see action against the Wellesley second outfit are McCarthy '28, Fitzgerald '26, Haley '28, Colucci '25, J. Dolan '26, McNeil '28, Gorman '26, Knowlton '28, Amigo '28, and Frue '28.

CALUMET WON AT OLD BELFRY

About 100 gentlemen and ladies of this town visited the Old Belfry Club of Lexington on Friday evening last, the delegation representing the Calumet Club in matches in bowling, billiards, pool and cards, and incidentally in the royal good time extended by the neighboring club. The trip over and back was made by automobiles, the fine evening being much appreciated when contrasted with the cold and snow of former years.

Old Belfry turned out strong in honor of its visitors, and President Arthur N. Maddison, a former Calumet officer, extended every courtesy to his former club mates in welcome and comfort. In addition to the games, cards were enjoyed by both gentlemen and ladies, and dancing and a collation rounded out the evening until midnight.

Calumet was represented at pool and billiards by Messrs. Wood, Tuttle, Carleton, Chamberlain, Reynolds and Wilson, all winning their various matches in cowboy pool, three cushion and straight billiards except Mr. Wilson. The cards were also won by Calumet in the majority of the numerous matches.

The bowling matches all went to Calumet, two teams of ladies and gentlemen proving their ability to hit the pins in record form. Mrs. Carleton led the Calumet ladies with 181 on a string of 93. She was closely followed by Miss Phippen with 180 on two strings of 90 each. Mrs. Richards of Old Belfry had the best score for her club with 174 on 94. Mr. Henton rolled 234 with 133. Mr. Goldsmith 219 with 130 and Mr. Stephenson 213 with 119. Only two strings were rolled.

The scores:

"Christmas comes but once a year"

THAT is not why we make so much of it, as all anniversaries do that; but it is one reason why, since

Christmas is what it is, we want to make it such a wonderful day. How much of the time, energy and money of the civilized world each year goes into celebrating Christmas! In church life, in social life and in business it stands out as the one big day of the year. And whether this should be so or not, so small part of this absorbing interest centers around the CHRISTMAS DINNER. It isn't so much what you will have for dinner that you are concerned about, for custom has decided that pretty much for you; but for that day surely you want in everything THE BEST; you want to serve a dinner on Christmas Day that does you proud.

And that is where SELLER'S MARKET can help you out. We do not carry the lowest priced goods in town—and you do not want them; but we do carry the HIGHEST GRADE of goods that can be found in the markets, and we offer them to you at the LOWEST PRICE POSSIBLE.

GIRLS' BASKET-BALL LEAGUE
LISTS 1925 DATES

The 1925 schedule of the Greater Boston Interscholastic Girls' Basketball League was announced this week by Miss Margorie Manning of Arlington High School, secretary of the circuit. The list includes 20 games.

The membership of the league is the same as last winter, with Arlington, Melrose, Watertown, Wellesley and Winchester High Schools. The Wellesley girls won the league title last season and the Arlington girls were runners-up. Each of the teams in the circuit has given money toward the championship trophy. Herman Gammons, principal of Arlington High, is president of the league.

The opening league games come Jan. 16, and the last contests are scheduled March 20. The games will be in the afternoon.

The local girls play as follows:
Jan. 22 Watertown High at Winchester.
Jan. 26 Arlington High at Winchester.
Feb. 6 Melrose High at Winchester.
Feb. 10 Winchester High at Arlington.
Feb. 13 Winchester High at Watertown.
March 6 Winchester High at Wellesley.
March 13 Winchester High at Melrose.
March 20 Wellesley High at Winchester.

STRUCK ON MAIN STREET

Last Saturday night at 11:45 Miss Mary Foley of 21 Shepard court was struck and knocked down on Main street at the corner of Water street by a Ford runabout owned by Arthur Gonsalves of Woburn and operated by James E. Gonsalves of the same city. Gonsalves was traveling south on Main street. Miss Foley complained of injuries to her arm and side. She was able to walk to her home after the accident.

CHIMNEY BLOWN OFF IN MON-DAY'S GALE

At 9 o'clock on Monday morning the Winchester Fire Department received a telephone call from Mrs. William P. M. DeCamp of Highland avenue notifying them that the chimney had fallen from her house. The chief's car responded to the call and found the entire top of the chimney had been broken off flush with the house and had fallen into the back yard. Fortunately no one was injured by the heavy mass of brick and mortar.

NEW JEWELRY AND CLOCK
SHOP

Winchester has a new jewelry and clock shop. There was opened last week at 581 Main street, MacArthur's Jewelry Shop, a store for the sale of jewelry, watches, clocks and novelties, and a place for the repair of watches and clocks. Mr. MacArthur, an expert clock maker, will give personal attention to all repairing orders and guarantees the quality of his work. For this season, the shop has on display an attractive line of Christmas cards and novelties in addition to the usual jewelry. The shop is located just north of the centre crossing.

Christmas

At this season of the year nothing can express your sentiments more eloquently than flowers.

They bring bright, cheery sunshine and gladness wherever they go.

Why not "say it with flowers" this year and let us supply them, fresh and fragrant from our greenhouses, where they are grown.

We have exceptionally fine Roses, Carnations, Calendulas, Paperwhites, Lily of the Valley, Sweet Peas and Violets.

Growing plants are always acceptable gifts and a continual source of pleasant memories of the giver. We suggest Poinsettias, of true Christmas Red, Jerusalem Cherries, full of bright red berries, beautiful pink Begonias that are just a cloud of delicate flowers, Cyclamen in salmon and pretty shades of red and Primulas in many shades.

Beautiful Holly Ferns, Assorted Fancy Ferns in dishes and baskets, Large Specimen Ferns, Palms and Rubber Plants offer a good variety to select from.

We will have a highly attractive showing of special Christmas Baskets, Wreaths and Novelties, also high quality Holly and Christmas Trees.

In courtesy to those interested readers of the Star who criticized and commended the mention made last week with reference to "Mother Goose," it should be noted that one article published was with reference to a well known firm selling these famous tales, and the other an "old item" supplied under contract.

To the reader who so kindly sent in the descriptive and illustrated post cards, the Editor extends thanks—as also to the critic of the spelling. As the matter was received in casting, the spelling and style was not changed.

Among the paintings in oil and color on exhibition the first two weeks of this month at the annual student show of summer work held at the Massachusetts Normal Art School, Boston, were several pictures by Lee W. Court of this town which attracted considerable comment.

Court's works were done in and around the summer art colony in Rockport. His "Quiet Day" a wharf scene in the ancient fishing town is an especially fine bit of artistry. It fairly exudes with color and realism and the harbor scene of a hot sultry afternoon is depicted so vividly that one can feel the rocking of the dory in which he made the picture.

Another painting of Court's that attracted attention is a "Quarry at Rockport." So real is the picture that the owners of the quarry have already negotiated the purchase and will shortly place it on exhibition in its office.

Chats With YOUR Gas Man

ON New Year's Eve, one hundred and eleven years ago, a great crowd was gathered on Westminster Bridge, in London. A new chapter was about to be written in the world's history of inventions. The famous bridge was to be lighted by gas. Suddenly the bridge was flooded with light. The crowd fell back, bewildered. An engineer stepped forward and touched the gas pipe. He invited a member of Parliament to do likewise. This gentleman refused until he had borrowed heavy gloves. He believed the pipes contained fire and would burn him. Thereafter gas dominated the lighting field. Then came electricity and people said, "Gas is doomed." But Edison replied, "Gas is destined to be the heating agent of the world." What has happened? Today gas is used in five thousand different ways in industry. And it is growing fast!

WINCHESTER HOME BENEFITS

The Home for Aged People has received from the Boston State Depository and Trust Company, administrators of the will of Martha Ann Cleveland Reynolds, a former resident of Winchester, $500. This sum will be added to the permanent fund, and the income only will be used towards the maintenance of the Home.

Daughters' Troop Girl Scouts of Winchester under Scout Leader Miss Brown, visited the Home for Aged 2 Kendall street, Monday afternoon and gave refreshments to the family by singing Christmas Carols.

WINCHESTER WINS OPENER

Captain Francis Tansey and his Winchester High School basketball team opened their season last Friday afternoon in the High School gym with a win over Wellesley High by a rather one sided score, 37-3. The visitors, coached by Roscoe Pitts, of Harvard, were completely outclassed by Coach Roberts' boys whose stubborn defense proved too tough for the college town lads to penetrate. Wellesley scored only two baskets from the floor, and was at no time during the game able to get the lead. The locals used a three man defense which broke up nearly all of the attempts at their basket. Wellesley on the other hand played four men up the floor much of the time, their lone back being unable to cope with the passing game shown by the home team.

Judging by the team's showing against Wellesley, Winchester is going to have a pretty fair team this season. While hardly tested much by the visitors who proved disappointingly weak, the boys, nevertheless, showed much promise and as the season progresses, and the men get more used to working one up the floor, they should develop into a combination capable of giving a splendid account of itself.

One of the most encouraging features of last Friday's battle was the work of Francis Melly at center. Center just naturally appeals to the big boy and he put up a great game both offensively and on defense. He worked well with his forwards, scoring six goals from the floor while his height and reach made him particularly valuable in breaking up the passing game of the visitors. And the best part of it all was the fact that even when the going got the roughest he was as cool as the proverbial cucumber all the time. "Wop" Rolli and "Charlie" Cassidy, the other subs of last season, who started and played through the game looked good and are going to be able to keep from regular jobs this season. "Wop" proved a good running mate for Tansey scoring three goals from the floor and one from the foul line, while Cassidy passed well and covered up like a team. Apparently the real scrap for a job is at the left guard position where "Ray" Halwartz, "Jimmy" Halwartz and "Pat" Johnson are fighting for a regular berth. There seemed little choice between them last Friday and Coach Roberts is going to have plenty of trouble to make his choice.

The Winchester team this season is built around the veteran Captain Melly. Winchester High School, which opened its basketball season so successfully last Friday afternoon against Wellesley will play a strong Alumni outfit in the High School gym next Tuesday evening at 7:30. This will provide an opportunity for followers of the sport to see the local boys in action, an opportunity which will not come frequently this year for those busy in the daytime since most of the games will be played in the afternoon.

The High School boys will have no pinch pulling out visitors against this Alumni crew which will be picked from among players who have starred for Winchester in the past. "Abie" Winer, "Harpy" Fitzgerald, "Muggins" Winer, "Lead" O'Donnell, "Joe" Mathews, "Skinney" Lynch and "Flats" Flaherty are the men already lined up to face the school boys and there is a possibility that other strong players will be added to the string. Fitzgerald, O'Donnell, Flaherty and Lynch were all members of last year's crutch High School quintette, and it is interesting to watch Captain Tansey work against his old team mates. Winer, Mathews, and J. Tansey rank with the best developed in Winchester in recent years, and all have had plenty of experience to make all their skill count. It is safe to say that if Coach Roberts' boys can make a good showing against this Alumni team they need have no fear of any schoolboy fixes which they may be called upon to meet.

The High School will probably line up as it did against Wellesley with Captain Tansey and Rolli at the forwards, Melly at center, and Cassidy, R. Halwartz, J. Halwartz, Johnson, or McCauley backs, and this outfit should give the old timers a busy evening. "Lead" and "Muggins" have been playing regularly at Goddard and report has it that "Joe" Mathews is also in shape. "Fitz" has been working out daily with the Huntingdon School track team and should be ready to go the limit. As for "Abie" he has always been ready to go.

There will be a preliminary game probably between the championship freshman team and the High School seconds. Play will start at 7:30.

W. C. T. U. NOTES
Give Prohibition Time
The prohibition amendment is expected to work miracles with trick speed. Five years is a very short time in which to try out a nation-wide social experiment, to weigh it and pronounce judgment. As a matter of fact, it is absurdly short. A generation of sincere effort at law enforcement might be a fair test. For beyond every other factor involved in the education of popular sentiment is fundamental to this experiment; and that takes time.

In some places, at least, the experiment works. An intelligent woman from Kansas said that she had hardly seen a drunken person until she left her home state, and that she has yet to be convinced that what happened in Kansas can't eventually happen elsewhere.

The tremendous publicity violation gets should be discounted. It gives false impressions of the failure of enforcement. Proof of prohibition, if anywhere, is to be found in a reduction of poverty, a reduction in the number of deserted and neglected children. And such proof may be found—not in conclusive volume, but impressive and arresting in details and amount. The World League against Alcoholism, for example, has just completed a careful survey of the properties in New

GIRL'S BASKET-BALL NOTES

No cut has been made as yet in the High School girls' basketball squad which is hard at work preparing for its opening game of the season on Jan. 9. Coach Francis Wheeler has about 20 girls out for the team including four veterans from last season. Last year's five did not meet with much success in its schedule, and this year's outfit is determined to make a much better showing. The team will be captained by "Kay" Carlisle, and if she can shoot baskets like she can hockey goals the scores will need adding machines. The other veterans include "Mimi" Rolli, Mary Rogers and Florence Ferrina.

Excellent Scores Made in Local Alleys

Excellent scores continue in the town tournament matches on the Calumet Club alleys as the teams gradually approach the finish. As a matter of fact, it is absurdly short. A generation of sincere effort at law enforcement might be a fair test. For beyond every other factor involved in the education of popular sentiment is fundamental to this experiment; and that takes time.

In some places, at least, the experiment works. An intelligent woman from Kansas said that she had hardly seen a drunken person until she left her home state, and that she has yet to be convinced that what happened in Kansas can't eventually happen elsewhere.

The tremendous publicity violation gets should be discounted. It gives false impressions of the failure of enforcement. Proof of prohibition, if anywhere, is to be found in a reduction of poverty, a reduction in the number of deserted and neglected children. And such proof may be found—not in conclusive volume, but impressive and arresting in details and amount. The World League against Alcoholism, for example, has just completed a careful survey of the properties in New York city formerly devoted to the liquor traffic. No one denies that prohibition in the United States, there is a good deal of a farce, especially since the state repealed its concurrent prohibition law. New York is the "exhibit A" of all the people who are trying to show what an utter and dreary failure the dry regime has been. Yet it was discovered by the leagues and the newspapers of the city take the figures at their face value—that of the 5093 establishments that held liquor licenses in 1915—two elections ago—only 349 are still in the same line of business. These are, of course, supposed to be confined to their sales to near-by and other beverages with an alcoholic content of less than one-half of one per cent. Granting that they are not, their numbers are constantly diminishing. The furthest sort of trade in which they are engaged is evidently not profitable enough to maintain them. Third avenue epitomizes what has taken place, even in New York city where enforcement has come so near to breaking down. Third avenue—the lower end of which is popularly known as the Bowery—is probably as tough a street as America possesses, or used to be. In 1910 Third avenue offered 252 saloons, 44 liquor stores, and 11 drug stores to the thirsty wayfarer. Today there are only 41 such places, of which 23 are still the old saloons, unchanged in appearance, but trying to convince the world that they have changed their wares. The 211 saloons and 44 liquor stores have given place to 453 stores engaged in reputable business. The assessed value of the property has increased $88,759,000, or approximately 64 per cent. Manhattan real estate as a whole has had, during the same period, an increase in assessed value of 21.4 per cent. And to anyone who thinks that, even under the most unfavorable condition, prohibition is making no dent on the United States, there is a good reflection in the fact that, during twenty years of the strictest regulation that the state of New York could devise, the number of saloons was reduced by only 54 per cent, while five years of feebly enforced prohibition has brought a reduction of 79 per cent. Progress may be slow, but there is progress.

That enforcement is a long way from satisfactory, it would be foolish to deny. But to say that its failure is demonstrated is worse than foolish. Gains are to be counted in the last election. The new Congress will contain 72 Senators and at least 320 Congressmen counted as friends by the "drys." Downright opposition to prohibition is one thing; but those who are opposed to it only "because it won't work" should be urged to wait longer for their evidence and allow the colossal experiment a sporting chance.

THE musical desires of the people have advanced greatly during the past decade according to authorities. It is a great blessing that everyone can now enjoy the program they elect to hear.

The powerful little Broadcast Jr., a 4-tube set, will bring in the programs you wish to hear easily and clearly. It operates entirely on dry cells.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Idleness has no advocate, but many friends.

Nothing lifts the spirit more than the inward song, in the morning, in the heat of the day, and in the evening. Sing and you will be happy.

When a man begins to borrow, he becomes a slave, learn to live on little, and enjoy independence. If we do not flatter ourselves that better of others would have no effect.

Most all the minor troubles that come to us, can be laughed away. Try it.

More than a few Winchester people have resolved to do their Christmas mailing early next year. After waiting in line at the Post Office for an hour or more, and carrying their packages to Boston or elsewhere, they received a complete and effective cure for "delays," and were more than ready to try the remedy for that tired feeling. Personally, we did not wait so long a time as an hour, but we received a set-back when, after two visits to the American Express office and finding it closed, we succeeded in getting the door unlocked only to find that this firm does not make deliveries in Winchester. "Merry Christmas!"

There is a kind of promise that we often treat too lightly, the promise we make to ourselves. We laugh perhaps at our broken resolutions, as if breaking them amounted to nothing, but breaking our promises to ourselves is really no joke. Constant breaking of our resolutions means, after a while, that quality in our lives which is the result of a promise who has lost his resolution is like a watch with a broken mainspring—the hands of the watch may remain, but they do not move on. Every broken resolution means the loss of a little self-respect, prepares the way for the time when the man will not take himself very seriously, and, if the time ever comes when the promise to himself amounts to nothing, his life can amount to nothing. When Rip Van Winkle, after repeated promises to himself lifts his glass, and shouts, "Don't count this time!" he is bringing the day when nothing in his life will really count. Let us write for 1925 the diary of real men and women—promises to ourselves that we shall keep, not something that has happened to us but something that we shall make to happen.

A COMMENT

We call to the attention of readers of the Star the report under date of Dec. 15 of Treasurer Robert E. Fay of the War Memorial Association. This report speaks for itself and it is very apparent that comment upon it is superfluous. And yet it is worthy of comment! It is equally worthy of Winchester! It would be interesting, of course, to know how the bulk of our population lays with respect to the various "zones," but this, too, appears superfluous when the number of subscriptions is noted. All honor to our school children!

What would our boys think, after reading this record, covering a period of over two months, should they be called upon by some freak of fortune to leave their homes next week and sail over a sea infested with submarines to again "do their duty" over there? No answer is needed!

It was interesting, too, Sunday evening to listen over the radio to the Christmas party being held at the Veterans' Hospital at West Roxbury. As the broadcast of the party was received by the thousands of listeners, the gifts and money began pouring in until the donations far exceeded the original preparations. In fact, it would make very interesting news to a multitude of people to know just how much greater these spontaneous gifts exceeded the money and donations at hand when the party opened. It gave ample proof of the spirit of the people. Those 270 soldiers had no thought that they were forgotten when the party was held.

And why not Winchester? Do we stand aloof in an indifferent attitude when called upon to recognize and commemorate the service of our sons and daughters? Is it necessary for us to hear broadcast throughout the nation a record of their achievements and sacrifices before we can step up and take a small part in honoring them? The Star thinks not!

The type of memorial, its location,

ABOUT fifteen years ago a gentleman came to our Boston office with the idea of surrendering his Life Insurance for cash.

He thought his family would not need the insurance. After a few minutes discussion his business sense came to the rescue and he kept the insurance in force. A few months later he died suddenly, leaving a goodly estate for those days to his wife and daughter. His Life Insurance being payable to them according to his directions in Ten Annual Installments all of which have been paid them.

Yesterday I met the daughter who said "It is hard these days having to live on the income from investments." She wished most heartily that he had an adequate amount of insurance as the Monthly Life Income plan.

the method of raising the money and all the other poor excuses that have been flouted, are behind us. We as a town united in calling for this memorial. We gave it our approval. There is no justification for any one to cover his head by such a veil of flimsy evasion.

Our memorial—the one Winchester is going to have—will be a thing of beauty which will fill the heart of every resident with pride as long as he lives.

The Treasurer, it will be noted from his report, has not yet made up his books for the year. There is still another week within which subscriptions to this fund may be received. Our Christmas gifts are purchased and presented; there is no other claim upon us at this time. Have YOU taken your share in this memorial? Will YOU look at it in the years to come with the pride of ownership? The STAR thinks that you will.

CARS BUMPED ON WASHINGTON STREET

Shortly after 6 o'clock on Tuesday evening a Stephens touring car operated by Charles Smith of Winchester street, Brookline was in collision with a Ford touring car with box body driven by Frank Chimento of Main street, Woburn, at the corner of Washington and Swanton streets. The Stephens was headed south along Washington street and collided with the Ford which was headed north on Washington street and engaged in making the turn into Swanton street. Both cars were somewhat damaged by the crash.

BASKET SHOOTERS DISPLAY SNAPPY SUITS

Winchester High may or may not win the Inter-school Elastic Basketball title this year but we will venture the opinion that no outfit in the league will attract more attention on the floor than the local boys and this with no regards to their playing. Their new suits are sufficient to win them more than a passing glance in any company, and they should be especially popular with the feminine fans throughout the circuit.

The new outfits were christened in the Wellesley game and easily rated a gasp of admiration when the boys shed their sweaters for action. The jerseys are white with a crimson "W" bunched above and below with three crimson bands; the trousers crimson flannel carrying three narrow white stripes on the sides and around the bottoms of the legs. White stockings with three crimson stripes and white knee guards complete a uniform that makes the players resemble somewhat a bunch of candy canes. Let's hope they will prove the candy kids this season.

The fire whistle will soon be sounded with a pressure of from 200 to 250 pounds of steam, when it is cut over to the big new power house at the Boggess Cobb factory. It is expected that under this pressure the whistle will be heard distinctly at all points about town.

SLIPPERY GOING CAUSED PLENTY OF TROUBLE

Traffic conditions have rarely been worse in town than was the case on the day before Christmas. The drizzling rain froze on the streets making the going especially for motor vehicles, particularly hazardous. The police station was literally swamped with calls for assistance from various parts of the town. Cutters Hill, Forest street, Black Horse Hill, Symmes Corner at Bacon street, and Everett avenue at the corner of the same street seemed to be especially hard places to negotiate. At 10:15 a. m. a truck owned by E. H. Marshall of Woburn and driven by Ronald D. Marshall of the same address skidded on the icy roadway of Bacon street and scraped all the bark from a tree before crashing into an electric light pole which it broke off at the base. The truck was badly damaged. In many places about the town automobiles skidded onto sidewalks and lanes when the drivers lost control of their machines. The trouble was by no means limited to motor vehicles. Many a pedestrian suffered painful bruises as the result of falls on the slippery pavements. The street department was early on the job and had to use much "sand" in handling the situation. A rise in the temperature toward night did much to relieve conditions.

"S. S. ROOSEVELT" AND POLAR BEAR PICTURES WILL BE SHOWN AGAIN THIS YEAR

By special request Captain MacMillan who is to lecture in the Town Hall on Jan. 3, will show two of his old pictures seen in Winchester two years ago. One of them presents the "S. S. Roosevelt" breaking her passage through the ice. The other shows a polar bear and her cub swimming along beside the ship and the capture of the cub as a mascot for the Bowdoin football team. It shows also, as many will remember, why Captain MacMillan decided that the team would do better with another mascot.

The rest of the pictures are the choicest ones selected from about 18,000 feet of new film taken in North Greenland last fall and this spring.

"THROUGH THE STORM"

By Jack Collins

Jack Richards settled back comfortably in the green plush cushions of the east-bound limited and viewed the passing country with interest. Tiny flakes of snow quickly increasing in size formed a white curtain against the glass window outside. The sight sent a feeling of exhilaration through him.

The young man, for he was in his early twenties, turned his attention again to his immediate surroundings as a brakeman passed noisily through the car. A young lady leaning her yellow hair beneath a trim little hat. A small mirror in one hand, moved to different positions, added her in her task. He smiled at her vanity.

Suddenly she rested the mirror on her lap and looked across the aisle at a stout shabby man trying to reach a peak in the front of the window. Jack knew that she must have seen him through the mirror for she glanced his way from the corner of her eye. He suddenly became interested in a short story in the magazine at his side.

The next few moments were occupied in staring at a certain paragraph, for Richards was not reading. His thoughts ran back to his childhood days when he had told his grandmother what kind of a girl he intended to marry.

"She must have blue eyes, and nice blond hair, and she can't have any freckle," he told her.

Now, as he thought of it, he found that he had not changed his mind enough. The years of childhood and childhood to manhood. Could this girl be the one to which he had referred? He glanced her way again, smiling at his own thought.

The girl was completely absorbed in reading a book. He watched her read page after page, studying her different expressions of her interest as she moved in the story.

Suddenly the curtain near her arm came down with a bang. She uttered a little cry and in her seat, but quickly regained her composure. In vain she tried to replace the curtain in its original position, and when she was occupied, Jack Richards, seeing his chance to assist her, went over to her seat and tipped his hat.

"Perhaps I can help," he asked smilingly.

"It would be ever so pleased if you did," she replied, returning his smile. "It frightens me a little, didn't it?" she asked, as he entered the aisle and endeavored to set the curtain right again.

After several attempts to place the troublesome member in its proper position, he told her that the only way he could do would be to roll it up and set it in the groove near the top.

"That will be all right," she agreed, and thanked him ever so much.

"You're welcome," he said smiling, and returned to his seat, much elated at her need of assistance.

As he settled back in his seat again he watched the passing country being covered with a fluffy coating of snow, brightening up everything with winter fashion, but never slowing up the speed of the train. He spent a restless hour before the conductor announced his station as the next, and the train started away from a small country town.

Now the speed of the train was hampered somewhat by the snow clinging to the rails, but it made for good time. The engine cut through the mass of white, sending its shrill whistle as a warning to the onward.

It passed over snow-covered places a warning bell rang out weekly beneath the grinding wheels and the train passed on. The trees of the forest stood on guard, fearful of the train's safety.

The train came to a stop, and a number of houses; on the other side was a long side-track where only a solitary freight car stood.

The train was calmly taking all this in when suddenly the train left the tracks, lurching over the ties and crashed through a snow-covered track, the engine mechanically uncoupled from the cars and plowed sideways into the banking.

The cars being separated from the engine, stopped where the air pressure was applied on the brakes, partly tipped over and almost landed against the banking.

A shower of glass cut deep into soft flounders as the car came to a stop; women's voices rose above the noise of the storm, shouting incoherently. Men half dazed by the terrible shock, and almost blind from the cars through the windows, and bound their wounds.

Tramman shouted words of advice, and the conductor sent flagmen coming in either direction.

When the engine crashed into the banking, the fireman was instantly killed, and the engineer thrown across the tracks from his position at the levers. He was found buried deep in the snow with his feet pointed skyward.

A broken right arm hung from his side when the trainmen found him, and he had not regained consciousness.

The last three cars were safely on the tracks with the passengers unhurt, but the one which Richards occupied had felt the shock and the glass for most of its occupants were bleeding from cuts about the head and arms.

Jack's first thought when he came out of his cell was to see if he was for the girl's safety. The screams had quieted down to low murmurs now, and he thought he heard a faint cry from the girl's lips. She lay back in her seat unconscious as he guessed, were still clinging out to her, her pale face made his way through the windows, and found that she had a painful cut on her forehead.

After buttoning up her coat tightly about her, he carried her out the window and rested her on the snow aside from the crowd where he removed his overcoat and laid a pillow on the ground. He drew a spotless white handkerchief from his pocket and soaking it in the snow, bathed her wound.

Groups of passengers assisting their injured friends could be seen all along the side of the track. A doctor worked among them, listening to their pleas to be taken to the hospital. First aid was the best that could be given just then, as the task of getting them to the hospital was impossible as the storm was almost impossible as the storm retained its steady pace. The road was too bad for the chance of arriving there before the next day.

Jack, unmindful of the cuts about his hands and arms, rushed back to the doctor and returned with the baggage. He opened his bag and drew out two white handkerchiefs from which he made a bandage for the girl's head. Her eyes opened and she stared at him wonderingly.

"Do you feel too weak to stand up now, lady?" he asked kindly.

She placed a weak hand on his forehead.

"What has happened?" she asked puzzled. "Oh, my head aches terribly."

"There's no need to worry," he said, "but we were only shaken up a little—nothing serious." He tried to relieve her mind from the sound of the moaning woman nearby, and assisted her to her feet. Her legs almost gave way under her, but she held up bravely.

"Help me up your bag, Miss?" someone shouted at Jack, and he turned around to face a youngster about fourteen years of age with his hands on the girl's suitcase, and his own bag in his hand.

"I'm afraid they are too heavy," returned Jack, as the boy's shoulders drooped under the heavy burden. "I'll take the bag, and if you can manage the suitcase, because I'll have to assist this lady up the hill."

"It's no use," said the boy as he lifted the suitcase to his shoulders, and led the way.

The long line of passengers followed each other up the steep incline, assisting the injured just as Jack was assisting this unknown woman. The walking was made easier, for a good sized path was made by the other passengers who led the way. They were forced to stop a few times before they gained the top of the hill for the less wounded under the strain. The boy found the rest well as the going had been a little harder than he had anticipated.

He led them to a house, and from the others, at the end of a long line of houses where a woman could be seen through a lighted window, preparing to go to bed.

Other parties, divided and entered different houses along the line.

Already the living room was filled with guests, so the boy led them to the kitchen where they were given a place to rest while waiting to find out if the landlady could keep them there for the night—if there would be room.

Jack assisted his new acquaintance to a chair, and was approaching the landlady when she came running around and exclaimed in a surprised tone:

"Well, if it isn't little Johnny Richards!" Her face beamed with delight as she approached him. "My old neighbor! She shook his hand warmly."

"Mrs. Murphy," he said, "I'll be shot for a Jack rabbit. Wait 'till you hear I want, it's yer cheek I'll be after kissin'!" he said teasingly, overjoyed to see this wonderful woman whom he had not seen for years.

"Why you haven't changed a bit, Mrs. Murphy," he commented.

"There you go, son, you always had that way of getting and saying what you want," she laughed heartily.

"And you only got a few scratches out of the wreck? It ain't hurt any more than when you could get hurt any more than the old times you fell off the old apple tree when you were a boy?"

"Well, this lady with ye? Beggin' your pardon, she ain't your wife is she?"

"No, I don't think so, but of course I can find out," he said, teasing the landlady again.

"Are you my wife Miss—?"

"Miss Peterson," she color rose a bit, but smiled good-naturedly nevertheless.

"Well if you ain't the rascal," chimed in the old lady, "I didn't ever so much as know her name."

"Say, Mrs. Murphy, do you think you can put up Miss Peterson for the night so she can rest comforted? She has a painful cut on her forehead and it must be very painful?"

"There ain't much room, but I guess I can find some place for any kind of a guest," returned the good-natured woman as she was introduced to the girl with blond hair.

"Thanks, very much Mrs. Murphy. Have you some bandage so that I can bind up her forehead better?"

"Yes, there's a lot in the parlor where the guests are. I'll have to hurry and get these biscuits in the oven or 'er won't have anything to eat."

She returned to the parlor where she formed biscuits from dough, and soon they were placed in the oven to be baked out later with a brown crust covering and fresh steaming odor issuing from their depths.

Jack returned with the new bandage and rebound the girl's forehead, being careful not to cause her any more pain in the performance. She insisted that she felt much better, and that it was her duty to bath his wrists and arms from the mud and dirt in the wreck. Her color was returning, and he noted that she took a keen interest in the task of binding up her forehead.

Jack looked down into her keen blue eyes and clear moulded features, admiringly. Suddenly she was unwary of his admiration as she moved her fingers over his wounds, encircling his arms with the white bandage.

While thus occupied, another woman entered the kitchen, and started to help cook cakes and eggs with Mrs.

Murphy. Special tables were set in the dining room, enough for twelve at a time, and soon the guests were seated about enjoying bacon and eggs and, crisp biscuits.

Miss Peterson and Jack, were served by a little girl and boy—neighbours, Mrs. Murphy explained. Jack commented the Irish woman on her cooking, and did his share at making it disappear for it being winter, appeared unusually sharp—especially around supper time.

"Won't you have some more cake, Mister?" asked the dark-haired little girl, who held a large steaming plate of bacon in two small hands which fairly quivered with the burden.

"No, thank you just the same, girl," he said with a sigh, "but perhaps Miss Peterson would like some more."

"No, really I couldn't eat another mouthful," she smiled, and she both rose from their seats at the table.

Jack bent down to the little girl. "Do they have many guests here often?" he asked, holding her hand the large plate of bacon.

"O yes, they do, and Mamma sends me over to help Mrs. Murphy. My brother comes over too, when he's good."

Just then the brother approached as Miss Peterson came around to where Jack was talking to the little girl.

"Aren't they two nice children?" she asked Jack, as the two bashfully fled the strangers.

"Yes they are," he answered, and turning to them he asked:

"If I give you some money to jingle in your pockets, will you two see which of the most and answer the questions that I ask?"

Certainly they would; their faces beamed in delight, especially the boy's.

"Yes, the name of this errand—handout, do you call it?" Jack asked the boy.

"This is Paris," the boy answered without emotion. "I'll take the bag, and if you can manage the suitcase, because I'll have to assist this lady up the hill."

"So this is Paris," repeated Jack, and glanced at the blond-haired girl beside him, who laughed sweetly at the way the child had answered his question.

"May I ask the girl a question?" Miss Peterson asked, turning to Jack. "Why certainly, I'll be glad to give you pardon for being so selfish."

"Do you like music?" she asked of the little girl whose face immediately brightened up with interest.

"Oh yes, Mamma is going to let me take lessons in a little while, on the piano. My Uncle comes down and stays in the house and stay up at night listening to him play. Can you play?"

"Yes, dear, I'm a music teacher. Would you like to hear me play?" Jack became interested. She had given herself away; he wished the little girl would ask a few more such questions.

"Oh yes," chimed in the boy and girl, in answer to her question.

"Return the bacon to the lady, and we will see if we can't pick out some nice pieces for you both."

"What are you doing for a living, Johnny?" asked Mrs. Murphy as she turned to the boy.

"I'm working for a music publishing company just now, introducing new songs, and selling them at the different towns and cities around here. Gee, that gave me an idea. Why couldn't I do a few here? I was on my way to Clarksville to sing tonight in the theatre there, but I guess that engagement is off now."

"He did it for her if he would for his songs, and the good-hearted lady said that of course she didn't at all."

"And didn't I hear the young lady say she was a music teacher?" she continued. "Well then, why don't you go in and entertain them?"

"Well, you want to?" asked Jack, turning to his new acquaintance.

"You could play some classical music, and I could play ragtime, and songs, and the other kind of way, singing and playing. And perhaps I could get in a few sales if some of the guests like some of the songs. But if I do not, I shouldn't feel at all bad about it."

"Certainly not, I'll be only too glad to help you for I know that times are hard now, they always are after a war."

"You're a good sport," he said warmly. "I guess I had better brush up a bit, hadn't we?"

"Yes, my hair must look terrible," she replied, and approached the large mirror hanging on the wall.

"Er, did you lose your little mirror?" chimed Jack, unable to keep a straight face.

"She colored while in the act of arranging her yellow tresses," she admitted, giving him a quick backward glance, and smiling. "Yes, my mirror is safe."

Then she turned about with a troubled look on her face.

"Really I hate to go in there and play the piano with this bandage over my forehead. Couldn't you play, and I will just be a listener with the children?"

What they were about to sing and play first, clear musical sounds, touching to the heart, and sent thrills of emotion through the player's soul as the music she played blended harmoniously with the sound of his voice.

"Well, that's very kind of you, Miss Peterson, I'm sure. I would feel quite disappointed if she didn't," smiled the lady of the house.

"Well that's very kind of you, Miss Peterson, I'm sure. I would feel quite disappointed if she didn't," smiled the lady of the house.

"Really, it isn't at all. How are your numerous cuts and bruises?" she asked, as she seated herself at the table.

"They don't bother much. I don't think I'll die this time, as Mrs. Murphy says."

After breakfast they walked away the time by helping Mrs. Murphy with the dishes, and then walked through the snow to the week, where workmen were clearing the tracks and setting down new ones.

Along about noon, a train came for the passengers, and Miss Peterson, and Jack, found themselves again riding toward their destinations, but this time their friends enjoying one another's company.

When the train was under way, Jack drew the girl into conversation.

"Mrs. Peterson, you haven't told me your first name yet."

"It's Ruth," she said shyly, and their glances met.

"Clarkville—Clarkville," the conductor shouted from the doorway, and the engine slowed down.

"You're not getting off here?" inquired Jack.

"No, the next town—Bronson," she told him, and a disappointed look came into his face.

The musician with his eyes cast upon his beloved violin, swayed with the music, and the children opened their eyes about him. The children opened and sitting on the arms of Jack's chair, stared in wonderment.

"Oh, that's a beautiful melody," chimed in the boy, and the girl, who was increasing in size, tossing the ship about like a toy; the darkness of night, the shrieking of human voices, in the midst of the thunder of the breaking of the unmet, and its fearful crash as it struck the deck, the fatal plunge of the ship beneath the mighty rollers in a storm.

So peaceful and calm after the storm, with the scattered wreckage washing upon the shore, some distant light, and then to lead the guests from their sad moods, they played a lively little waltz, and everyone was laughing gaily at the end of the last number of the waltz, and the concert was over. They were praised highly for their masterful pluck, and Jack made a short speech, thanking them for their interest.

The children were sent to bed, and soon after, Mrs. Murphy, and Miss Peterson, returned to their rooms.

Jack found himself in a cozy little room overlooking the railroad track, and the children were sleeping in the room where the guests sat about, and someone thought of standing a look up on end to as to ward off the tiny beam of light from their eyes as they prepared to doze off to sleep.

The next morning Jack awoke with a happy feeling that he could not account for. Sleepily he stared about the room, trying to collect his thoughts. He wanted to be home in strange places, but that happy sensation told him that he had something to look forward to this day. He heard children's voices outside.

He arose and went over to the window, the cold frost sending chills up through his feet. He looked out the window. A boy and girl were having the time of their lives sliding in the snow.

Then he heard a girl's voice calling to the children, and the form of the girl appeared. Ah, he knew now why he was so happy. He was an awful sleepy head, he told himself, that he had not thought of it before. He had heard someone call his name. It was the boy, pointing at him, motioning the others to look his way.

Jack drew back from the window as the girl turned around, then his head appeared in the frame of the window. He smiled at them, and they were breaking their hearts laughing at the comical picture he made there in the window, with his hair tossed about boyishly, staring at them with sleepy eyes.

In a few moments he was down stairs greeting them, and this morning, and ready to eat breakfast.

"Am I to eat breakfast alone," he asked Mrs. Murphy, while Miss Peterson was busily talking to the little children.

"Oh, no, Miss Peterson has waited for you. She thought you might be disappointed if she didn't," smiled the lady of the house.

"Well that's very kind of you, Miss Peterson, I'm sure. I would feel quite disappointed if she didn't," smiled the lady of the house.

"But may I call at your house when I arrive in Bronson?" he asked hopefully.

"Yes," she replied.

She presented her card, and he told her that he really had a wonderful time while in her company, and expressed his hopes on the safe healing of her wound.

"Really, you don't give yourself any credit for treating me so wonderfully well while in her company, and expressed his hopes on the safe healing of her wound."

As the train moved on, and he raised his hat for the last time, a lump rose in his throat. Even when the train became a speck on the horizon, he watched it. In his mind was a picture of the girl with blond hair and pretty smile, bidding him goodbye.

A feeling of loneliness assailed him as he walked down the street, but soon happy thoughts drifted to him as he read and re-read the card that she had given him.

"Ruth Peterson, a wonderful girl," he muttered, "the one with the golden hair, and without any freckles."

CHRISTMAS CHECK AT HOSPITAL

The Christmas season passed very pleasantly at the Winchester Hospital. For days before nurses could be seen hurrying and scurrying, not a moment to be lost, there was so much to do.

The nurses' Christmas tree was held on Tuesday evening and a very merry time was spent. The living room was beautifully decorated in Christmas colors, and the tree was very bright and showy. After Santa had distributed the presents, refreshments were served. Music and dancing brought the happy evening to a close.

The hospital (thanks to the generosity of the doctors, and some friends of the hospital, who provided the funds) was very tastefully decorated with holly, mistletoe, evergreen wreaths, holly, and mistletoe. Christmas carols were sung in the hospital by the nurses at 5:30 Christmas morning.

Holy Communion was dispensed by the Rev. Mr. Evans in the nurses' home at 6:30 a. m., 18 nurses being present.

The nurses devoted the day to the care and amusement of the patients. While the usual turkey dinner was being served, beautiful Christmas selections were being played by the Victrola, lent by the nurses' home.

One small girl (the victim of an automobile accident) was made very happy by having a beautiful Christmas tree at the foot of her bed. She had been very generously remembered by many friends of the hospital.

Santa Claus brought two new babies to the nursery. Not one department, was forgotten.
